

Rules for accessing the Library between 11pm and 7am

- Members of College who wish to use the library between 11pm and 7am need to take part in a training course presented by the Fellow Librarian or other member of the library staff. This will cover information about safety, security and responsibility.
- Only members of the College may use the Library after 11pm. Non-members of the College are not to be admitted into the building or the Library after 11pm.
- Every person entering or leaving the building or the Library must use their card to open the door. If two or more people enter or leave at the same time each must use their own card. Please do not allow anyone to tailgate you into or out of the building or the Library. This is a fire safety measure as well as a security measure.
- The last person to leave the Library is responsible for turning out the lights.
- No sleeping overnight in the Library.
- No hot food to be brought into the Library.
- No alcoholic drinks to be brought into the Library.
- No parties are to take place in the Library or within the main building.
- Please be very quiet when exiting the main building into the Tate Quad as others are sleeping. This is part of the general rules of living in the College community. Please note rule 8 of the College Standards and Requirements of Behaviour in this regard.
- Any breach of these rules may result in the junior member being asked to appear before the Junior Dean or the Dean, who may impose sanctions, including banning the junior member from the Library between the hours of 11pm and 7am.
- Serious or persistent breach of these rules by junior members may lead to the 24-hour opening facility being withdrawn from all junior members.
