PREFACE

Researchers into the history of radical Protestant Dissent in England, of which there are ever growing numbers, have three major repositories to visit. These are Dr. Williams's Library in London, John Rylands University Library of Manchester and Harris Manchester College, Oxford. Each contains extensive book and pamphlet collections covering in the main the last 350 years, plus large numbers of documents of various types and origins. These manuscripts can be letters, lecture notes, sermons, diaries, annotations of books, and of course a catch all 'miscellaneous' heading.

Finding a way into this vast assemblage of items can be a daunting task, and both Dr. Williams's Library and John Rylands Library have indexes to track particular manuscripts. However Harris Manchester College has suffered in the past under a real handicap by possessing only the most rudimentary finding tools. For example I have asked in past years whether the College possesses manuscript material from or to a particular 19th century Unitarian; the answer given, except for the major figures, was always 'We do not know'. The only solution was to go through a great number of possible groups of letters in the hope of finding an item. For the majority of busy scholars, with limited time available, this was not a feasible option.

Something had to be done and following the receipt of essential grant funding from the British Library, the College was able to engage Dennis Porter, formerly of the Bodleian, in 1988 to undertake the cataloguing and indexing of the manuscripts, on a part-time basis. His perseverance has borne fruit and this volume is the result. We are indebted to him for his expertise and commitment to a large and daunting task. The College now has a first class catalogue, and in the last couple of years as Dennis Porter's work has progressed, my requests for letters of particular 19th century figures have consistently met with a quick and positive response.

It has long been recognised that the College possesses important manuscripts that deserve attention by scholars if they can be properly accessed. The papers associated with the life and work of Manchester College itself, stretching from 1786, are very extensive. As the reader will see from this catalogue reference is made to the papers of Joseph Blanco White, the Martineaus, Philip H Wicksteed, LP Jacks amongst many others, all key and representative figures of their time.

This work, which we hope will find its way to many libraries and repositories, should enable researchers to locate precisely all the manuscripts, so ensuring their research time is spent to the best effect. This is not the end of the story, as the College regularly gains new deposits of papers both by donation and purchase, so there will be additions. However this is the core of the historic collection on radical Protestant Dissent, which is amongst the college's greatest endowments. It is our hope that, through this catalogue scholars will make increasing use of its treasures, now superbly housed and with improved facilities for access, in the 21st century and beyond.

INTRODUCTION

In his Oxford Libraries outside the Bodleian (2nd edn. 1980), p, 73, Paul Morgan, the leading authority on the history and contents of Oxford college libraries, wrote that 'the wealth of research material in Manchester College library is too little known' and, further 'the manuscripts at Manchester College form one of the most important collections in existence for the history of British dissent, with the emphasis on Unitarianism.' It is hoped that this catalogue will enable the research material embodied in those manuscripts to become better known and more frequently used.

This is not the place to summarise the history of the College. For that the reader should consult V.D. Davis, A History of Manchester College (London, 1932), still useful although in need of updating; Barbara Smith (ed.), Truth, Liberty, Religion: essays celebrating two hundred years of Manchester College (Oxford, 1986); and, in much smaller compass, Joanna Parker, Manchester College :a short history 1786-1990 (Oxford, 1990).

On the College library specifically, Morgan's book cited above, his essay in Truth, Liberty, Religion, pp. 111-26, and his Select Index of Manuscript Collections in Oxford libraries outside the Bodleian (Oxford, 1991) are the major sources. One of the groups of manuscripts not described in this catalogue are the library catalogues. For information on them the reader should consult the two first-named publications by Morgan.

For many reasons frequent changes of the location of the College, shortage of money, temporary Second World War loss of premises among them few of the College's manuscripts have ever been properly catalogued or adequately indexed. The one major exception to this was the papers of William Shepherd (1768-1847), prominent Unitarian minister, wit and friend of many politicians, particularly on the radical wing. Nearly a century ago a detailed handwritten catalogue was compiled by Francis Nicholson and Ernest Axon who also published the article in the Transactions of the Unitarian Historical Society which is reproduced as an appendix to this catalogue. Because of the availability of their catalogue, published surveys of manuscripts relating to various subjects or geographical areas have included references to the Shepherd papers but sometimes missed other interesting manuscripts relevant to their purpose.

Due to some of the historic difficulties referred to above and to some extent also to the period of time over which this catalogue has been compiled by part-time work, there are certain anomalies. These are particularly obvious in those instances where manuscripts which belong together have been found and catalogued at widely differing times and under different shelfmarks (e.g. MSS. Wood 45 and 46 which really belong with MS. M.N.C. Misc. 7). The so-called 'Letterbook "D"', into which letters of people considered eminent were put apparently by the College historian V.D. Davis, contains a choice example of this: a letter of Charles Darwin in two widely separated parts. Other manuscripts which are known to have been in the College long before this cataloguing began (for example a shorthand notebook of Joseph Priestley and two letters of William Lloyd Garrison) are there no longer. Half of a letter of John Stuart Mill, of which the first part is in 'Letterbook "D"'. turned up in Japan, but whether it was ever present in the College is unclear.

What are present and in great abundance are the internal records of the College. Many of these will be found catalogued here in the section entitled 'MSS. M.N.C. Misc. ' No formal cut-off date has been applied, but in general few internal records later than the late 1920s or early 1930s have been included. The one major exception to this will be found in the papers of Eric Shirvell Price, a former Clerical Secretary of the College, which have been summarily described and indexed. They contain some material as late as the 1970s.

A word about the index: naturally any person, place, etc. mentioned in the body of the catalogue is included in the index with its page reference or references. There are, however, among the catalogue descriptions some 'catch-all' entries which give merely the outside dates of, say, a group of correspondence, but which contain letters of the presence of which researchers will wish to be aware. One way of accommodating these would have been to make the index completely a press- or shelf-mark index on the lines of the British Library and Bodleian catalogues of manuscripts. That would have made the index much bulkier than it is. As there is a slip index in the College library which includes everything, all that seemed necessary was to alert the reader to the fact that a person or place was indexed there although not specifically referred to in this published catalogue. In former times this might have been more inconvenient than it is today, when an e-mail or fax request can be received and answered speedily. Readers should, therefore, read the brief notes at the beginning of the index and use it accordingly.

Any catalogue of manuscripts is the work of far more people than the one whose name appears on the title-page. The original impetus to fill this long felt need came from the previous librarian of the College, Dr. Joanna Parker. She it was who approached the British Library in 1987 for the grant which set the project in motion, and she it was who went on raising funds from various charitable trusts for its continuance. The College is profoundly grateful to the British Library, the Pilgrim Trust, the Chase Charity, the Esmée Fairbairn Charitable Trust and the Hibbert Trust for their generous support of the project. Without that support this publication would not have been possible. For specifically publication costs, the College is deeply indebted to the Marc Fitch Fund, the Isobel Thornley Bequest Fund of the University of London and the Daniel Jones Fund. For advice on printing and publication matters the help of Adrian Bullock of Oxford Brookes University has been invaluable. Alan Ruston, editor of the Transactions of the Unitarian Historical Society, has taken a consistent interest and has kindly written the preface.

The compiler's deepest debt of gratitude is to the present College librarian, Margaret Sarosi. She not only continued enthusiastically what Joanna Parker had begun but also became in time both type-setter and proof-reader, coping with the compiler's handwriting and frequently-changed drafts with imperturbable good humour and tolerance. Without her efforts there would be no published catalogue; merely one more manuscript on the library's shelves. Her contribution has been the more remarkable in that it has partly coincided with an almost single-handed reorganisation of the College library and the creation, furnishing and filling of a new range of book-stacks, so that the library of Harris Manchester (the addition of 'Harris' to the historic College name is in recognition of a recent major benefaction) can hold its own with any other college library in Oxford in the physical plant it possesses. If the virtues of this catalogue are due mostly to Margaret, the faults and inconsistencies are mine. I trust, however, that its usefulness will be deemed to outweigh them.

ARLOSH TRUST PAPERS

(MSS Arlosh 1-2)

The James Arlosh Trust is somewhat unusual. James Arlosh did not create it formally by his will. Under that he left his property in trust for his wife to receive the income during her lifetime (she in fact only survived him for 15 days) and on her death to certain named legatees, who were to receive the income during their lives with the last survivor inheriting absolutely. However the later documents reveal that Arlosh left a letter of wishes bearing even date with his will whereby his trustees were advised of his desire that the income and/or property were to be held on trust for the benefit of the then Manchester College. Apparently, the letter and such an intent were never communicated to the trustees during his lifetime. However being honourable men the legatees entered into deeds in effect relinquishing any claim they might have to the property and setting up a trust in accordance with the wishes of the Testator.

Reference is made in the deeds to a Deed Poll dated the 19th October 1906. This deed is also one and the same as the Declaration of Trust of the same date. In fact reading the recital to the deed clearly sets out the situation the then Trustees were faced with and how matters were resolved.

Mrs Isabella Losh, his wife, made a mirror will and also left a similar letter of wishes.

MS. Arlosh 1

Conveyancing and assignment papers bound together in 1 volume.

A bound copy of the Deed of Conveyance and Assignment of shares in the residuary real and personal estate of James Arlosh and is dated 19th October 1906. This purports to seek to set up, in conjunction with the Deed Poll [or Declaration of Trust], of even date the legal machinery in order to bring about the desire and intent of James Arlosh to leave his estate in trust for the benefit of the then Manchester College. Within the bound volume were typed copies of several draft conveyances by The Governors of Manchester College as follows: 3rd February 1975 to David Stamper and others [including Isabella Little and Gwen Nelson] sale of Woodside Farm Cumbria.

3rd February 1975 to David Stamper and others [purchasers] and Colin Stamper and others [sub-purchasers] sale of part of Woodside Farm.

3rd February 1975 to David Stamper and others [purchasers] and Thomas H Nelson [sub-purchaser] sale of lot 2 Woodside Farm.

3rd February 1975 to David Stamper and others [purchaser] and Thomas Norman Graves and others [sub-purchaser] parcels of land at Woodside Farm and finally 11th October 1979 to Hesket builders Limited land at Low Hesket.

Declaration of Trust papers bound in 1 volume.

Dated the 19 October 1906 and sets out fully the history and refers to the content of the letter of wishes. It creates the trust and is one of the most important documents in the Archive.

MS. Arlosh 2

1. Deed of mortgage dated 4th May 1900 and made between James Arlosh and David Ainsworth and others. Over the next few years a total sum of £34,850 was raised by way of Principal-interest was 3.5%. Several later deeds refer to the repayment of the principal which was finally paid off in 1918 [see deeds 8, 9 and 10].
2. Charge by way of Collateral security dated 4th May 1900 and made between the same parties as 1. Above.
3. Copy last will and testament of James Arlosh dated 17th October 1900.
4. Further charge dated 17th August 1905 made between the Executors and trustees of James Arlosh deceased and David Ainsworth and others-further monies raised by way of mortgage.

5. Deed of enfranchisement dated 27th March 1907 made between the Duke of Devonshire and William James Heskett and Arthur Henry Worthington [plus typed copies-5a, b and c].

NB certain of the lands Arlosh owned were copyhold. These were generally granted by the Lord of the Manor [and not by the Crown when they would have been held in fee simple]. There were certain obligations and duties imposed in favour of the Lord of the Manor. Copyhold Acts allowed for the holding to be freed from such burdens. Copyhold was abolished in 1922 by the Law of Property Act.

6. Transfer of mortgage dated 14th March 1908 between the Rev. Henry Dowson [the only survivor of the mortgage deed of 4th May 1900] and Russell Scott and others.

7. Further Deed of charge and conveyance of the property set out therein and dated the 24th March 1908 and made between Arthur Henry Worthington and William James Heskett [trustees] and Russell Scott and others raising further monies.

8. Receipt dated 18th October 1909 between the trustees and the mortgagees-£12500 paid off the principal.

9. Receipt dated 21st May 1912 [same parties] £18,350 repaid.

10. Deed of Reconveyance dated the 31st August 1918, same parties and in addition the Rev Dowson whereby the full balance of the mortgage was paid and the lands returned freed from the charge.

11. Deed of Appointment dated 19th June 1922 in respect of Arlosh Trust No. 1 between the Rev Dowson and others whereby new trustees were appointed. These were Henry Philips Greg; Lawrence D Holt; Philip M Oliver; Charles E R Abbott and Alfred E Steinthal. The reason for the appointments was the death of one of the previous trustees and a desire by others to be discharged.

12. Deed of Appointment of trustees dated 19th June 1922 between the Rev. Dowson and others. This refers to the appointment of new trustees of "The Arlosh Trust No 2" and is expressed to be supplemental to Deed Poll dated 19th October 1906. N.B Deed actually entitled Declaration of Trust.

Within the Schedule the assets consist of Railway stock and loans/mortgages. there is no reference to land. That appears to form part of the basis of Arlosh Trust number 1.

13. Deed of appointment of new trustees to Arlosh Trust No 1 dated 23 June 1947. The schedule of the Trust property only relates to land.

14. Deed of appointment of new trustees to Arlosh Trust No 2 dated 23 June 1947. The schedule relates to stocks and mortgages.

15. Copy draft conveyance dated 23rd December between the Trustees of Manchester College and the trustees of Low Hesket Village Hall. This relates to the sale of a small parcel of land at Low Hesket in Cumberland.

20. There are also various loose pages, photocopies of incomplete deeds, an original map and copies of maps., and a very short letter 14th November 1906, giving legal advice.

GEORGE AND RICHARD ACLAND ARMSTRONG PAPERS

(MSS. Armstrong 1-5)

MS. Armstrong 1

A small group of papers of George Armstrong (1792-1857), originally an Anglican clergyman and incumbent of Bangor, Northern Ireland (1824-6), later a Unitarian minister, assistant to Lant Carpenter at Lewin's Mead chapel, Bristol, 1838-40 and principal minister there, 1840-56. Also two small groups of letters to his son, Richard Acland Armstrong (1843-1905), minister of the non-subscribing Presbyterian church at Banbridge, Northern Ireland, 1866-9, Unitarian minister at High Pavement, Nottingham, 1869-84 and at Hope Street, Liverpool, 1884-1905; founder and editor of the Modem Review, 1880-2, editor of The Liverpool Pulpit, 1892-5 and author of several books.

Diaries

- i. '1829' Diary of reading (newspaper and miscellaneous)'. This runs from 'August. Last week' (the first day date is 28 August) to 1 May 1830. It is 'bound' in newspaper and is, as stated, mainly observations culled from his reading.
- ii. '1837' 1 January to 23 October, in a copy of Harwood's Memorandum Book. It is in regular diary form.
- iii. '1837-8'. This follows on directly from the previous volume, i.e. 24 October 1837 and runs to 16 September 1838. It is in regular diary form. The entry for Sunday 4 January 1838 reads, "Commenced this day ... as Co-pastor with the Revd. Dr. Lant Carpenter in the charge of Lewin's Mead Congregation of Bristol".
- iv. 'Sept. '38 to March '39'. This volume is mostly blank. Several leaves have been torn out at the beginning. On fol. 3 there is a brief entry about the weather over the Christmas period (?of 1838), and on fol. 4" a reference to something reported in The Globe of 18 Dec., a comment on the weather, and how he spent "Xmas Evening", There is nothing more in the volume until fol. 64, as follows:

fol 64 'March 19 Tues. [1839]' to 'Thurs, 28'
fol. 64v 'Sat. 23' (2nd entry reads 'Sunday 24 Feby.' [1839]) - 'Thurs. 28' and 'Frid. & Sat.'
fol. 65 Sunday 3 March' - 'Tues 19' [1839]

fol. 65v 'Frid. 23(?) Dec,' (but as the next two dates are 'Mar. 31 ' and 'Tues. Jany. 1', both of which would fit 1838 and 1839 respectively, Friday 23 December would appear to be incorrect. '23' is perhaps a mistake for '28') - '8' [January]

fol. 66 'Thurs. 10' - 'Mond' (this appears to be a continuation of January 1839, in which case, the Monday would be 28 January 1839)

fol. 66v 'Thurs. 7th Feby' - 'Wed.' (presumably 20 February 1839). Inside of lower cover 'Jany. Tuesd. 29' (presumably 1839) - 'Wed.' (?6 February 1839). This diary is therefore more or less continuous from Friday (?)28 Dec. 1838 to Thursday 28 March 1839. The entries are, however, very brief.

v '1843' 1 January - 16 May only.

vi '1849' 1 January 1849 - 28 April 1850 in a copy of The Law and Commercial Daily Remembrancer.

vii 'Armstrong diary 1855' 11 February - 25 December 1855 in a copy of Collins's Memoranda or Daily Register. After the last diary entry comes a resume of 'the winter & spring months - 1855-6', which, in turn, is followed by notes headed 'Autumn & Winter of 1856 -My Retirement from the Ministry', and a single page headed 'Decr. 1856 - Feby. 1857'. Inside the lower cover (reversed) is a list of names for a committee and on the flyleaf (reversed) are two lists headed 'Promises from' with names of people and (presumably) chapels.

viii A commonplace book entitled 'Cursory Notes in Theology Law History etc. etc.' apparently written at various dates from 1818 to at least 1823. v
+ 91 pages (various inserts including a printed letter from Armstrong to Robert Charleton, n.d. [after 1846])

Letters

fol. 1-27 Fourteen letters to Armstrong from Henry Brougham, Baron Brougham and Vaux, n.d. [?1844] and 1847-55

fol. 28 Draft letter signed by Armstrong (addressee's name deleted), February 1821, mostly about the trial of Queen Caroline fol. 36 Letter by Armstrong to the Editor of Tait's Magazine, signed 'Justus', n.d. and headed 'A Word to the English Opium Eater'. Endorsed on the back 'Letter written for Tait returned by him 2 July 1836'

fol. 42 Printed address from the 'Unitarian Ministers of Great Britain and Ireland to their Ministerial Brethren of the Unitarian Churches in the United States of North America', 1843, apparently drawn up by George Armstrong

fol. 44 Unaddressed letter of James Martineau, 1840, perhaps to George Armstrong

fols. 46-57 Six letters of James Martineau to Richard Acland Armstrong, 1872-96

fols. 58-68 Five letters of Francis William Newman to Richard Acland Armstrong, 1879-86.

(fols. 44-68 purchased from John Wilson, Eynsham, Oxford, 1990) 68 leaves

MSS. Armstrong 2, 3

Sermons and prayers of Richard Acland Armstrong (see above)

2 Dated sermons, arranged chronologically. Dates of first preaching are 1877-1904. Unfoliated

3 Undated sermons and dated and undated prayers. An undated sermon on I Corinthians 3:16 and a bundle of pages numbered 1-81, beginning 'I have been invited to offer you a series of addresses on [the] life and work of a minister' (there are no obvious breaks in the text so this may be the manuscript of only the first in the series). Dates of first use of the prayers are 1868-1904 (arranged chronologically), followed by several undated prayers. Unfoliated

MS. Armstrong 4

Further sermons and prayers of Richard Acland Armstrong (found subsequent to the cataloguing of MSS. Armstrong 2 and 3). Sermons, 1870-81 (Nottingham), 1884-1903 (Liverpool); prayers, 1892, 1901, 1907, n.d. Most of the sermons are communion addresses. There is also a printed 'Order of the Service of the Dedication of the Young'. Unfoliated

A. E. J. Horniman to ?

‘Running The Gaiety takes all my time and energies and I am not free to join any committee even when the objects to be striven for have my sympathy. But how can I have any share in democratic control? Although a resident in London with a business in Manchester, a holder of a Dramatic and Excise Licence from the corporation and an employee of labour (on a small scale) and an M.A. of your University (Honours lausa)- yet the undersigned is a mere “unenfranchised helot”. I do not see how we women can help in anything until you give us the same chances as the Lords of Creation. Fortunately in the profession which I am connected it has been proved that sex need be no barrier. The Gaiety still goes on and a new play by a woman is being rehearsed. My good wishes for your committee.
Signed ‘Yours truly’.

J Blanco White to Rev George Armstrong in Crosdoney, Ireland

Blanco White thanking Sir George for the copy of his work on the Roman Catholic controversy. He congratulates G.A. on his expressed argument v. “Popery of Rome” and “Protestant Popery”, but he declares some points of difference on Christian divinity.

He discusses “involuntary error” and “wilful error” but suggests that condemnation of the latter should be done in “Christian charity”, with love, rather than judgement. He explains why R.C. must be an unsafe legislator in a protestant country... but that it might be expedient, giving an example of a man who has avoided death by arsenic poisoning being unlikely to defend its use for others, in spite of its beneficial effect, in a small dose, for some people.

2nd Jul 1828

George Armstrong, Bingfield, Crosdoney, Ireland to John Bowring, No.2 Queen’s Square Lane, London

The Letter begins with extravagant praise for the integrity of John Bowring in his public and literary life. It goes on to explore the concepts of liberty and difference of religious opinion. Preference is made to the work of Chillingworth and Mr Rowland Hunter. The latter forwarded a publication by George Armstrong to John Bowring which attracted “bigoted criticisms” in Ireland.

The writer regrets that he lives far from literary circles. However he is impressed by an article in the “11th No of the Westminster Review” which he has referred to in his own article (p.179). He trusts that pp142-3 and 183- 4 will meet with the approval of John Bowring and of the management of the Westminster Review.

The letter ends with the hope that they can continue to correspond, particularly on religion, civil rights and liberty.

3rd Nov 1831

Geo Grote, 62 Threadneedle Street, London to Rev George Armstrong

Rev George had written in September so Grote explains a tardy reply due to his absence in Sussex. Expresses thanks for Sir George's approval of this (Grote's) pamphlet on parliamentary reform, which he thinks is the most important subject before the public. He refers to those who expound the "right cause" but rest their support on unsuitable grounds giving advantage to the antagonists of the cause. Although 'right conclusions' have been successfully arrived they have frequently been on the wrong premises.

He has read Sir George's pamphlet with pleasure and agrees with its views which he remarks are clear and logical, while the position of the Church of England is less tenable than either the Catholic or Independent and trusts its 'absurdity' will quickly be obvious as soon as the 'temporal' problems are solved. He is sure that this time is fast approaching since the recent vote of the Bishops in The House of Lords.

He will show Sir George's letter to "Mr Mill" whom he knows well and esteems highly.

He welcomes future correspondence with Sir George whose political views and mental powers he so respects.

Blanco White in Oxford to Sir George Armstrong in Dublin

Thanking Sir George for defending him from the 'libels' in the Dublin Evening Post, however, he admits he has not read the defence. This is due to his ill health for the last 18 years. He explains he has had to teach Latin and Greek and write in Spanish or English to earn a living but now suffers less than he did when he was “engaged in the Popish controversy”. He has decided to ignore criticisms in the Dublin Evening Post which Sir George had sent him, but to keep them separately labelled “some of my best titles of honour”. He had decided not to dwell on the injustice of what is being said and written against him and will just pity the writer. He discusses “Dr Whateley” and the problem Sir George may have in befriending him, but declares that a mere formal acquaintance would be worthless and deplores the lack of liberality that prevents a closer acquaintance.

Blanco White to Revd George Armstrong

Acknowledges the letters received and praises the pamphlets which accompanied them- sent to Blanco White when he was living in Oxford. Thanks are expressed to George Armstrong for the support given when he was “...grossly abused and calumniated in the Irish papers”.

The letter is written from the Palace of the Archbishop of Dublin, where Blanco White is currently residing. He expresses a wish that they may continue to correspond, though they have not met, and states that there may be a misunderstanding of his position on Trinitarian doctrines. The letter continues with a discourse on the nature of god and the metaphysical and technical language of theology.

Blanco White in Redesdale to Sir George Armstrong in Drogheda

Thanking Sir George for his letter and his invitation to his house, but declaring the impossibility of accepting due to his ill health.

He acknowledges Sir George’s opinions on his works and himself. He is not inclined to defend every one of his criticisms of Catholicism (made ten years ago) and thinks he has not fully attained the truth he seeks.

Evidently when he was ordained he did not, even then, take up all the established opinions. When he left the Catholic church and turned to the Church of England, it seemed to him to be a renovated version of the Catholicism of his youth – however the scholastic system of the Church of England is too similar to Catholicism. He was tempted to it by familiarity- but no more.

Blanco White to George Armstrong

Integral envelope addressed to George Armstrong at 15 Belvedere Place Dublin. Closed with sealing wax.

Refers to an “eloquent and powerful” letter sent to Blanco White by George Armstrong on July 26th. Continues with an apology for the hurriedly written short response, which may have caused offense (in reference to the term Unitarian) which was not intended.

The letter continues with a lengthy discourse on the meaning of Christianity to those who profess their faith – whether Unitarian, Church of England, or Catholic – and on the nature of god.

In conclusion Blanco White asks that allowance be made for the state of his health and the difficulty he has in making himself understood on these matters, “... more so when what would require a volume must be reduced to the limits of one sheet of paper”.

8th Dec 1836 (?1834). Integral envelope dated 1834.

Blanco White to George Armstrong

Emphasising but apologising for this bodily weakness and most recent illnesses.

He writes that he has written an account of himself to be published after his death. He is now writing a “history of my mind” which will complete his ‘memoirs’.

Discussion of whether they can agree on theological and evidential points. He tells of the work in hand to prove “that Christianity does not consist in Orthodoxy”. He is uncertain whether to include this with his “History of the Inquisition” or as a separate publication.

Blanco White to Rev. G. Armstrong

He is of the perfect unity of God. Mention of his ‘infidelity’. He proposes sending to Armstrong the original manuscript of his letters on heresy and the inquisition.

30th December 1834

Blanco White to Rev George Armstrong at Kilsharvan, Drogheda Envelope is integral, with wax seal

First page appears to be the preface to a book in which Blanco White declares his conviction that the doctrine of the Trinity is not true with some explanation of his position. This section concludes with an entreaty that the book be published by anyone who holds it at the time of his death, if he has to been able to make this declaration public by then. Or, he states, “At all events they will not contrive its concealment.”

He requests George Armstrong to comment upon the manuscript, refers to his letters on heresy and the inquisition, and comments upon Channing’s sermons- which he has recently read.

He concludes by expanding upon his own faith and beliefs.

Blanco White – Unsigned (sent from “Palace, Dublin”) to George Armstrong (“My Dear Sir”)

Having reassured the recipient that he trusts him with confidences, the letter, which is unfinished, continues with previous uncertainties about the Church of England and states “I perceive more than ever that the Trinitarian doctrine ruins Christianity...”

Distress is expressed at current weakness and pain. The writer goes on to copy the entry from his private memorandum book of December 29th 1834. This further explores thoughts about the errors of the Church of England.

It concludes by anticipating that he may die before he leaves the archbishop's palace. However, the pain of leaving voluntarily causes mental torture, though he considers that he must do this before making public his separation from the Church of England.

Blanco White to Revd. George Armstrong at Kilsharvan, Drogheda Envelope is integral, with wax seal Conveys the information that he will be leaving the Archbishop's Palace (Dublin) for Liverpool on the following Friday. He is torn about his decision to leave his friends, from whom he has not concealed his reason for moving on, stating "I am ready".

He requests that a manuscript be forwarded to his new address at|: Clement de Zulueta Esq 56 Seel Street, Liverpool.

Blanco White to Sir George Armstrong

Now writing from Liverpool where his spirits are recovering from the "mistaken kindness" of his friends.

He is keen to prepare his manuscript and requests the speedy return of any part already read, elaborates the reasons why, and the address to which it should be sent.

He expresses his sadness at the nay sects into which Christianity had divided and wishes the name "Unsectarian Christians" could be adopted, so as to unify the greater Church and create and "Christian communion"- but does not mean to propose this as a practical measure.

He laments the prejudice he has had to suffer and hopes to hear from Armstrong.

8th Feb 1835

Blanco White to Revd. George Armstrong at Kilsharvan, Drogheda Envelope is integral, with wax seal

Thanks George Armstrong for commenting upon his manuscript and informs his that he has incorporated his suggestions. He appears to express guilt about some of the things he has written and the thoughts by which he is sometimes overwhelmed.

White then reports upon the pleasure he experienced in attending a service at the chapel of Mr Martineau, who he describes as "a young man of very great talents". He expands upon the virtues of Unitarianism.

He concludes by saying he will send more of this manuscript, hopes that Mrs Armstrong is better, reports that though weak, it is no worse and that he aims to get a house by himself.

Blanco White to Rev. George Armstrong Integral envelope.

He is in fear of Dying and wants to declare himself a Unitarian before the world, of opposing at all risks the intolerant spirit of orthodoxy. Also mentions the erroneous principle of a church supported by law, as to its doctrine and discipline.

Mentions the Rev. James Yates. Talks of the person to whom he is leaving his papers i.e. Clemente de Zulueta, Esq of 56 Steel St, Liverpool, then wants his memoirs into the hands of Mr Martineau who appears to be avoiding him, in which case he would like his documents to Armstrong.

He reflects on the “poison of orthodoxy” being “a source of exquisite pain”. He thanks Mr Armstrong for his offer of assistance to write his memoirs and hopes God will let him finish his work. He talks about last arrangements he must make if his health worsens. However, he has decided to accept a position as Librarian in Dr William’s library.

He foresees much future suffering but hopes for divine support.

Envelope an integral part of letter-closed with sealing wax and addressed to George Armstrong at Kilsharvan, Drogheda, Ireland

Confirms that, after much doubt, Blanco White had accepted the proposal of Mr James White to be Librarian of Dr Williams’ Trustees. However, the same day he found from a pamphlet concerning Lady Hawley’s charity that other branches of dissenters were to bring an action against Dr Williams’ trustees. He immediately withdrew his consent. “I consider my escape from the bigots of Methodism as a very fortunate one.”

He continues the letter in reflections on the same theme, mentioning Mr Martineau and Mr Thom. He also elaborates on the difficulties he is having in getting his letters published.

William Gladstone to George Armstrong

The writer apologises for the eight-month delay in responding to the note and two publications sent to him by George Armstrong. He explains that the delay is, in part, because he could not be sure that they knew each other. He recalls, however, that he heard Armstrong preaching in St Peter's Church, Oxford, in 1830 or 1831 and at Magdalen Hall. He also remembers meeting him in the rooms of Mr Francis Cole.

Gladstone goes on to express the difficulty he has in responding to the publications because of the differences in faith and belief which they hold. He acknowledges that they both seek after truth and, after expanding upon this, concludes by saying that he will continue to be interested in hearing about George Armstrong.

made everything clear. James Martineau regrets that because of the Birkenhead occasion, he already was a full house of guests. These include his son, Russell – home from Gottingen – and Mrs Bonham Carter with two daughters. However, he invites George Armstrong to spend time with him at Park Nook (Prince's Park) on the Sunday. The letter concludes with comments upon a book 'Carpenter's Reformatory Schools'. T W Bagehot to My Dear Sir

The sender apologises for the delay in responding to a letter received and gives reasons.

The main content of this letter relates to a potential case to be taken against the committee of the British and Foreign school society to be decided in Birmingham at the end of October.

T W Bagehot offers to donate £25 towards the cost of the proceedings against the committee for violating the rules and states that if redress is sought it would be obtained.

Further comments upon this violation are followed by reports of the intolerable conduct of the Bible society. Reference is made to a member who left a recent meeting when the chairman told him it was out of place for him to object to co-operate with those who deny the death of Christ. Bagehot expresses concern about the inconsistency of the chairman who ended the meeting by praising "Father, son and holy ghost".

The letter ends with a reflection upon the rules of the Bible society and those of the British and foreign school society.

Isabella O Fad. (?), Leeds to Revd. Armstrong

Writer regrets that unable to take up the offer of an (? honorary) position on a society that meets in London. Two reasons are given: the local society meets on the same day and also because of the cost of being in London.

She expresses her commitment to the work for peace which she shares with the Revd Armstrong and writes of the profound effect of the war on person friends.

The letter ends with a suggestion that Miss Courtney will stand for the position.

W.S. Landor to Rev G. Armstrong

As ill as Mr Landor has been and continues to be, he wrote to the 'Examiner' his regrets that the Tsar did not fall "by man's hand" according to the divine denunciation. His previous letters had evidently included "the duties of tyrannicide".

“Recollecting your remarks in the same papers on the same subject, it suddenly came into my mind that the words I apply to another and very different opponent might by the ignorant be applied to you”. He remarks that the newspaper “titled the ‘Leader’ is the most insolent and impudent of all the titles...”

The editor of this paper had evidently criticised his opinions, logic and his poetry, “Here in Bath is one Whalley, an unknown person, who took the liberty of writing me a note, in which he told me he could not understand my Latin.” Mr Whalley as advised to find a learned man to overcome his difficulty eg. Mr Maclarn or Mr Pitman.

This was all in spite of his having sent £5 to the sub-editor of the ‘Leader’, having heard he was in distress... it was this kindness which he thought led to his being treated with such rancour. As a result he has written in the ‘Examiner’ some of his opinions on the editor of the ‘Leader’.

H Martineau to Mr Armstrong

This short letter is in response to Armstrong’s objection to the cost of Knight’s books at 1/6d.

H.Martineau states that there had been several objections to the books being too cheap – only Armstrong considered them not cheap enough.

Reference is made to The Useful Knowledge Committee, who had handed their affairs over to ‘Mr K’ to deal with the matter.

A response to a letter from Lord Howick is being prepared in which H. Martineau will say what she can about “The chapel Bill.”

The letter concludes, “My doctor quite takes to heart my writing so many letters - & well he may!”

133

Undated (Wedy night)

H.Martineau (The knoll, Ambleside) to Mr. Armstrong

Letter begins by explaining the delay in responding to a letter because of pressure of work.

H.Martineau recalls that it was one year ago that she and Mr Armstrong met in Nottingham, when she told him about the Stanleys. She then goes on to expand upon the story. She explains that her correspondence with Arthur Stanley predated that with the Bishop and Mrs Stanley (before Dr Arnold’s death). She makes reference to her publication “Life in the sickroom” and her request to the bishop to introduce Sir John Walsham (poor law commissioner?) to the parochial clergy in Norwich.

H.Martineau goes on to report in detail the response of the bishop – which attacked her faith and opinions. She chose to respond to Mrs Stanley – for the Bishop to see – to explain the “grounds of our consolations and hopes – putting these in open contrast with what I consider the discouraging and low views of the orthodox”.

Much of what follows is devoted to praise of Mrs Stanley and derogatory remarks about the Bishop – Along with a decision never again to speak to Mr Stanley about his father.

The letter concludes with references to the British and Foreign school society; the role of the Bishop and Lady John; And whether a reputation would have any effect in holding them to account if they had violated the principles of the society. H.Martineau agrees that Lady Moyeth is Liberal though attached to orthodox views. However, she states it is well known that nobody could influence Lady John. Further remarks about the inadequacies of the Bishop and how annoyed he would be by a deputation.

John Bowring to Sir George Armstrong at Durham Park, Bristol

Thanks for his letter- one of several which have reached him and welcomed; ‘in the midst of furious thunder’. He hadn’t realised that the course he was taking to defend his country’s rights would result in such treatment – worse than if he had been a ‘common felon’. He little thought that their arrow would “hit the target of the world’s concerns - that it would shatter a ministry and break up a parliament – to agitate men all over Europe - but after all – the most thoughtful self-examination, – the repose of the pillow – the questionings of the conscience – have not determined that I have done wrong - and I doubt not - I cannot doubt - that out of the mire of slime and slander goodly fruits will grow.

I deeply appreciate – cordially welcome – gratefully acknowledge - your words of kindness - unhesitating - ...- for many of my friends have expressed doubtful confidence – ‘I know you did not mean to lie.’ Indeed not! – but to have been selected as a victim (this Admiral – a noble fellow – a party at every stage and step – and the actor while I was but the advisor, is disgusted with the attempt to disassociate him) is after all an honour. I have been that at – wounded ? to have this field ..?... gun of the enemy – ho! The attacks have come from our own vaults – from men who know the stuff they ought to vilify – but who once engaged sound determined to stop at nothing. The field of politics with that of battle must have its victims. I believe I would have conducted affairs to an honourable and successful opus – I shall cordially aid and help the new Plenipo to do so – and whatever be my fate the country will not suffer by my temporary suspension/supervision?

It must have been a grateful event for you to close your public service at L..... Mead in such a bright sunset as war gathered about you – and to know full well that you had laboured – successfully laboured - in dark night and in day in the sowing and the reaping and the gatherings of the harvest of truth and liberty, - not always so prolific as one had prayed and hoped for, - but always bringing something to the ? of Joseph?, and the records of improvement. And so, my dear, and so, do continue to labour, and if labour's task is over, - to love and to encounter other labours. Very faithfully dear friend, John Bowring

Unknown “No.3”

Sir George Armstrong to Rev. Dr Channing

Appears to be a draft letter. Sir G. generously admires Dr Channing’s “incomparable writings” and in gratitude asks him to accept a book which Sir G thinks he will appreciate.

Sir G declares that Dr C has “given an impulse to this age, and through it, to all ages to come” and urges him to find a successor to continue the work.

Sir G. quotes Lord Erskine in praising those whose “enlightened minds” provide direction and understanding to others. Dr G. agrees with these sentiments and finds Dr C. fulfils this criterion and feels he has conferred on the United States abundant religious and political light which he hopes will be emulated in the rest of the world. He hopes the USA will continue to produce such successors of similar excellence as possible equal to Dr Channings’. He thinks with ‘unbounded satisfaction’ of the dignity conferred on the US – the freest country in the world.

He wishes the US prosperity and hopes she continues to produce minds like Dr Channing’s own to banish every bigot and despot from the face of the earth. Sir George concludes “with ardent admiration and esteem”.

152 (together with No 3)

???? “No.4”, on the same pages as “No.3”

Sir George Armstrong to Rev. Gilman Charleston, South Carolina, USA.

Appears to be a draft letter. Writes of his admiration for the writer of the ‘Critical Synopsis’ printed in the London Monthly Repository and begs his own ‘small work’ will be accepted by Rev. Gilman. The letter praises recent theological proceedings in Ireland which put forward the protestant doctrines as opposed to the catholic ones and wishes to remove from both “the sceptre of infallibility”.

He continues to praise the Protestant writers in the UK and the USA and especially Rev. Gilman who he numbers as one of the ablest ‘theological writers of this age’, who with Dr Channing of Boston have brought rational thought and liberty to religion. He begs a return letter and hopes Mr C. will contribute an article/letter to the New Monthly Repository, which is taking up the same cause of undermining calvinism and putting forward the reconciliation of religion and reason.

April 2nd 1794

Thomas Beddoes (Hotwell, Bristol) to Dr MacDonnel (Belfast).

Envelope integral part of the letter

The writer requests Dr MacDonnell to send him specimens from the victim of the giant's causeway. He refers to the Dean of Christ Church who, on a recent visit to Ireland, had observed "...specimens which to a person here would be doubly valuable, as being exotic and illustrative of the grandest operations of nature." He asks that they be sent to Mr Edgworth at Edgworthstown. He is particularly interested in basaltes and its connection with granite. He refers to Dr Black, Dr Hutton and Mr Hamilton and the controversy about current knowledge of minerology, in which they share an interest. Thomas Beddes goes on to discuss the study of animal nature. He refers to the work of Dr Darwin – following the doctrines of Brown – which he will publish in two volumes under the title Zoonomia. He is apparently very excited by the prospect of the publication of the first volume, some of which Dr Darwin has allowed him to read. He refers to Darwin as "...a most original genius." The rest of the letter is devoted to experiments that the writer has been conducting on the effect of "oxygen air" on animals and suggests that physicians would find the use of oxygen valuable if it could be "easily produced and administered." He ends the letter by outlining the case of a person under his care who has "ovarial dropsy" in which "I have directed air of an improved standard." He describes the symptoms – including oedema of the abdomen and feet, excessive perspiration, and cold extremities. He promises to send a recently published pamphlet on the beneficial effects of oxygen in the treatment of such cases, since it warms the extremities. In a postscript he refers to Mr Kirwan, Cavendish Row, where he would like some specimens to be sent. He is unable to visit Belfast, but will be in Dublin in 18 days.

19th Jan 1835

Mr E Channing to Sir George Armstrong

Thanks him for his long letter + hopes for more. He tells him that he is surprised at the effect and reaction of others to whom he has shown his writing, which he had not expected but encourages him to continue. He is also grateful for the good they are doing which encourages him to continue. Recently the incuses Sir Gorge has pointed out are due to the haste with which they were published which hadn't given him time to review or rewrite all the sermons (only the 1st) before they were printed. His views as to future punishments (hell?) have not been "inquired into" and given very clearly. He had come to the conclusion that the scriptures intend to convey only the moral consequences of sin, not its ultimate outcome. Any mercy God might show could not sensibly be revealed beforehand, but in due course. He has not bothered to refute his opponents views of his writings.

He plans to give his views on atonement at some points. The connection between Christ's death and human forgiveness has been subject to error and he hopes to address that in due course. He is surprised that with so little "scriptural proof" the theory should have been so widely accepted. A thorough "work" on the subject would be the most important contribution to theology and the church, but doubts his ability to provide it. He mentions "Dr Worcester" a venerable old friend imbued with great Christianity which gives singular value to his study of the scriptures and his writings, even if others have got there before him. "Aged, infirm and poor" he seems to enjoy perpetual peace and the richest might envy his lot." He mentions reading Wainwright's book in the theory of "expedience and utility", but feels for himself it would have a "blighting influence". The McIntosh critical history of ethical philosophy is preferable... Kredenthy Sir George's question of whether an answer was received by Stuart who had written to Mr Channing, "No". But Mr Norton gave an indirect one, which has been published as "Statement of reasons for not believing in the Trinity". Turning to "church reform" – he has helped to form it, because it is so much an "external affair". The separation of Church and State will be beneficial but the will seems lacking in England.

Mr. Tait? To Rev George Armstrong

Apologies for not having room for Sir George's last paper in the 1st June edition, but says many others also had been left out, while Sir George's will be included – which will upset other writers – however, he can only publish a certain number. He then advises Sir George how to reduce the postal costs. He returns Sir George's excellent paper, telling him it will do "honour" to the "London Review" for which it was evidently "spaced" + requests a "condemned" version.

He says that the Whigs and the Tories are both holding that "pledges" are wrong... but ignore the "Examiners" doctrine. He advises Sir George how to formulate a paper for inclusion, which "would do much good." He answers Sir George's question as to whether he (Tait) is concerned about what was sent in (to De Quincey) but answers "no" because the information evidently come from the Bishop + Sir George argues from the piety (?) of the Bishops writings. "The evidence is with De Quincey."

"I have examined him closely + he adheres to and strengthens his statement in the autobiography.

Glad you convinced me. I should have made no scruple about printing your attack on De Quincey.

Recollect that I publish these papers in Oxford as his + not as the "Singapore" (?) opinions that every ?? has been dispatched for you. But this time I hope the mystery ?? have come to hand.

I like your last paper very much both the spirit of it and the writing." Yours ever N. Tait? Tait?

ROBERT AND ROBERT BROOK ASPLAND PAPERS

(MSS. Aspland 1-60)

The papers of Robert Aspland (1782-1845) and his son, Robert Brook Aspland (1805-1869), both Unitarian ministers, consist almost entirely of sermons and prayers. As far as possible the papers have been put into chronological order, although many (especially of the prayers) are undated. In the case of the sermons the placing is determined by the date when first preached. Each man not only preached the same sermon several times, but the son often preached his father's sermons, sometimes with additions (thus it will be found that some sermons of Robert are in wrappers bearing the writing of his son). In cases where a sermon is not dated but can be dated approximately this has been done; otherwise it has been put into MS. 9 where also most of the prayers, almost all of which are undated, will be found.

Sermons of Robert Aspland, n.d., 1804-43

MS. Aspland 1 n.d., 1804-11

MS. Aspland 6 1832-43

MS. Aspland 7 1844-61

MS. Aspland 8 1862-9

MS. Aspland 9

Various fragmentary and undated items, mainly prayers by R.B. Aspland, but including also some prayers and fragments of sermons by Robert Aspland and a lecture on Mrs. Barbault in R.B. Aspland's hand. There is also one sermon, first preached in 1778, in an unknown hand.

MS. Aspland 10

A group of papers labelled 'Documents illustrative of the life of Dr. Priestley', mainly printed items of Priestley's time but including a letter of Priestley addressed 'To the young men and young women who attended the lectures on the subject of natural and revealed religion at the Gravel pit meeting in Hackney', 1794, and a brief letter (1860) of Sir John Bowring to R.B. Aspland accompanying some lines by him entitled 'The Inauguration of Dr. Priestley's Statue at Oxford July 1860'. Also some copies of the 'Inquirer' labelled 'Inquirers mostly containing I think References to RBA' (signed) 'JA', and a fragmentary copy of 'The Unitarian Herald' 8 June 1866. Subsequently added to this were the following: a letter to R.B. Aspland from John Smethurst, 1853 enclosing one to him from Edward T. Whitfield, 1853 about John Fry, with notes on the same by H.J. McLachlan; also notes by R.B. Aspland on Nathaniel Heywood [after 1860] with a note of the book in which they were found. A letter to R.B. Aspland from F.R. Raines, 1856, A letter to R.B. Aspland from F.R. Raines, 1856.

Notebooks of Robert Brook Aspland

These notebooks chiefly contain the results of R. B. Aspland's research into the history of Dissent in England. Where dated they seem to date from the 1850s and more particularly the 1860s. Many of the notebooks contain printed matter (usually cuttings from Unitarian or other periodicals), letters (usually from people living in the area on which Aspland was doing research) and further notes, either loose or pasted in. Reading-room order slips for the British Museum or other libraries are often inserted. Several of the volumes are written partly in shorthand.

MSS. Aspland 11-33

Notebooks on the history of English Dissent arranged by geographical area, usually arranged under headings of places, persons, institutions. Some of the inserted items appear to be in the wrong volumes; where this has been noticed it has been corrected.

Two volumes are general; 28 relates to Oldbury and 29 to Stourbridge. 27 is mostly blank but contains a printed 'Sermon preached in the Presbyterian chapel in the Lye Waste January 4th 1824 by James Scott.' 28 is mainly concerned with the history of the Oldbury Double Lecture, held annually in honour of the ejected ministers of 1662.

30 Manchester. This is mainly concerned with Cross Street Chapel.

31-32 Hackney. Perhaps because Aspland was minister at Hackney, the notes in these volumes have a more general topographical and historical content than the others (ie they are less exclusively concerned with Dissent). 32 contains some material about the Dissenting college.

Cheshire Presbyterian Association. A copy of its minutes from the formation of the Association in 1836 to 1852.

MSS. Aspland 34-38

Five volumes containing mainly biographical notes

34 Chiefly about Paul Best; includes two copies of Aspland's pamphlet 'Paul Best, the Unitarian Confessor' (1853), one interleaved with manuscript notes. Notes on Paul Best appear in several other volumes.

35 Notes on the life and times of John Biddle, dated 1868. This volume also includes notes on some people described as 'Biddle's friends'. Notes on Biddle appear in many other volumes. At the back are some accounts of the Cheshire Tract Society for 1850.

36 Brief notes on a large number of people, including Paul Best and John Biddle again; also some lists of ministers by counties, names of people buried in Bunhill Fields, etc.

37-38 Two volumes marked on their spines 'vol. 111' and 'vol. IV'. 37 includes, loose, a letter of Thomas Rees, 1862. Both volumes contain alphabetical indexes, which appear to contain references mostly to people and places. 38 contains material about Hackney College, including lists of subscribers.

MSS. Aspland 39-42

Four miscellaneous volumes chiefly relating to individual congregations

39 and 40 are labelled 'Miscell. Collections with alph. Index' and (on their spines) 'En. Presbyt' Ministers and Congregations'.

39 appears to be mainly concerned with Cheshire and Lancashire, but also contains material on Warwickshire. On p. 280 there is a 'List of Mr. Frankland's Pupils'. The volume also contains, loosely inserted, a letter of Joseph Hunter, 1854.

40 contains matter mainly concerning Yorkshire (including an inserted letter from John Kenrick to Aspland, 1845) and the midland counties, but there are also notes on places as far apart as Newcastle-upon-Tyne, the Isle of Wight and the Isles of Scilly; also notes on Dr Williams's Library.

41 is labelled 'Notes historically illustrative of Unitarianism'. It is mainly blank but contains some notes on the burning of Legate and Wightman, 1611.

42 is labelled 'Foreign Churches in England'; it is mainly blank but has some notes on a foreign congregation at Hatfield Chase, 1636 and a brief one on an Italian congregation in 1636-7.

MSS. Aspland 43-56

Fourteen volumes mostly labelled 'MSS' with a number, apparently used for making notes at the British Museum and other libraries, but also with press cuttings, etc. inserted. Only certain numbers are present (the number appears in brackets after the shelfmark in the following description). The contents are too miscellaneous to permit of more than selective descriptions.

43 (5) mostly notes on the history of non-conformity taken from books read by Aspland together with press cuttings; also some notes on places similar to those referred to above.

44 (6) similar notes on places and people (Seddon, Penn, etc.); more about Legate and Wightman (see above); seventeenth-century Puritanism in general; inscriptions on monuments.

45 (7) - dated 1850 - notes on people (Paul Best, see also above) and events (e.g. the Great Fire of London); lists of non-jurors.

46 (8) contains several extracts from the Congregational Magazine; notes on Dissent in Oxford and Cambridge; some notes on Stourbridge and Oldbury (see above); several pages on Banbury; loose at the back is a copy of James Martineau's letter of resignation from Liverpool, 1857.

47 (12) consists entirely of miscellaneous notes and press cuttings about Lancashire, including biographical notes on dissenting ministers.

48 (13) general historical notes (e.g. on prices at different times in history); notes on historical figures (not only Dissenters); notes from books on various periods of history.

49 (14) consists entirely of biographical notes on historical personages.

50 (15) very miscellaneous historical notes and press cuttings, few of them connected with Dissent; practical notes such as the opening days and hours of the Bodleian Library.

51 (16) (It is not certain that this is really part of this series) biographical notes on Dissenters, e.g. various members of the Davis family of Evesham, and other historical figures; notes on the Test and Corporation Acts; list of Oxford University elections; at p. 186 is a letter to Aspland from J. J. Tayler, 1859; theological notes.

52 (17) very miscellaneous historical notes, e.g. on scholars, martyrs, places, historical incidents (often unconnected with the history of Dissent); press cuttings of book reviews and what are possibly dealers' catalogue descriptions.

53 (21) notes on seventeenth-century historical matters (Act of Uniformity, Popish Plot, etc.), lists of British Prime Ministers; biographical and topographical notes; population statistics (some notes are recorded as having been 'written in the Bodleian Library Dec. 2 1858 a bitterly cold day'); hymns; extracts from the Puritan Parte of a Register, and also from parliamentary journals; several pages about Sir Edwin Sandys.

54 (25) begins with a transcript of the Warrington congregation's letter to P.P. Carpenter, 1857, criticising the doctrines he is preaching, together with numerous press cuttings about the controversy between Carpenter and certain members of his Warrington congregation; various press cuttings about Manchester; notes on Lancashire charities, wills and elections; Lancashire biographical notes; press cuttings about the legal wrangle over Mrs. Gaskell's biography of Charlotte Brontë; (about half the volume is blank).

55 (27) more notes on John Biddle; notes on the chapel at Stoke Newington; notes about Dryden and Sir Robert Howard; seventeenth-century Socinian controversies; the Huguenot Anglican clergyman John Nouall and his church; Deism; notes taken from manuscripts and pamphlets on Unitarianism in the Bodleian; lists of bishops, 56 (28) notes on seventeenth-century Socinianism and history of that period generally; biographical notes on seventeenth-century Dissenters; notes on Caesar's landing in Britain; extracts from eighteenth-century sermons; notes concerning Deal, Kent; lists of dissenting clergy in Kent; notes on sixteenth-century persecutions and martyrdoms; extracts from the diary of Matthew Henry; (over half this volume is blank).

MSS. Aspland 57-60

Three miscellaneous volumes

57 dated 1860, titled on spine 'British Museum [and] Bodleian Extracts', but apparently other libraries and the State Paper Office are included; notes on Matthew Henry, John Biddle, Paul Best etc., with some transcripts of their letters; a transcript of Joseph Hunter's article on Peak District Dissent; a transcript of correspondence of John Knowles from the Calendar of State Papers 1664-5; notes on Daniel Jones; notes on the Penn-Hedworth controversy.

58 is a volume with printed pages headed by the names of counties and then sub-divided under the names of towns with a few entries in manuscript apparently of the names of martyrs (with references to Foxe).

59 is an index volume (with many blank pages); on one flyleaf is written 'List of single Sermons Tracts &c (bound in Volumes exceeding 100)'; on the next flyleaf is written (very faintly) 'Index (apparently) of Men & Books (Nonconformist) & references'. The first part is an alphabetical thumb index of people's names; this is followed by an index of books, sermons and persons (this continues to letter Z, which is blank); a few pages of accounts are intermingled with this in its early part.

MSS. 11-59 given by Mrs. Arthur Aspland, 1910.

60 An autograph book brought by the library Sept 2005. Contains the autographs of some significant Unitarians such as John Taylor, Francis Rankine and John Reynell Wreford.

THOMAS BELSHAM PAPERS

(MSS. Belsham 1-42)

Papers of Thomas Belsham (1750-1829), Unitarian divine, consisting almost entirely of sermon or lecture notes, all in shorthand except where otherwise stated. Some sermons are in more than one part.

MS. Belsham 1

Sermons first preached 1770-89 before he became a Unitarian in the latter year, mostly at the Daventry Academy where he was first a student and then a teacher, 1766-1778, 1781-9 or Worcester where he was a minister, 1778-81. Most were later preached again in various Unitarian chapels. These sermons are numbered. In a few cases they were re-used as 'Devotional Lectures' (see below MS. Belsham 5) but are included here in their proper numbered sequence. The following numbers are present: 3, 6, 9, 24, 37, 51, 53, 61, 64, 65, 70, 73, 82, 83, 84, 86, 88, 90, 120, 127, 128, 132, 133, 134, 139, 148, 154, 157, 159, 160, 161, 167, 171, 173, 177, 180, 185, 188, 189, 190, 192, 193, 197, 198, 200, 217, 220, 227, 233, 237, 238, 239, 241, 245, 252, 253, 258, 260, 268, 271, 272, 279, 280, 286, 287, 288, 289, 306, 309, 314, 327, 328, 329.

MS. Belsham 2

'New Series' sermons 1-170, most of them first preached 1790 onwards, lacking nos. 21, 23, 27, 28 (although 174 - see MS. Belsham 3 - is also numbered 28), 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 36, 70, 81, 92, 110, 112, 116, 136, 145, 164, 169.

MS. Belsham 3

'New Series' sermons 171-332, lacking 175, 176, 190, 205, 209, 211, 216, 219, 220, 223, 224, 226, 228, 237, 238, 240, 244, 246, 248, 249, 250, 254, 255, 256, 259, 265, 267, 274, 275, 276, 280, 282, 294, 316, 319, 323, 328. One unnumbered 'New Series' sermon is placed at the end.

MS. Belsham 4

Unnumbered sermons, with a few lecture notes, a Greek grammar notebook and a note-book entitled '1st Introductory Lectures to Belles Lettres by Dr. Andrew Kippis 1773'. Most of the sermons are undated but those that are are mostly from the 1750s- 1770s. There is, however, a funeral sermon of 1734, and also one the title of which states that it was preached by Belsham in 1783. Another of the same year was preached by 'The Rev. Mr. Gentleman at Carmarthen'.

Those sermons in MS. 4 which are not by Belsham himself (nor probably in his hand) were found bundled together with sermons (now in MSS. 2 or 3 as well as 4) identifiable as his. It is therefore possible that they were collected by him while at Daventry Academy.

To these have been added some exercise books etc containing theological notes which may be from Daventry and other similar academies, 'Lectures introductory to the Mathematics by the Revd. Mr. Rees' (presumably the Hackney tutor) and other lecture notes, paraphrases of the Epistles to the Romans and the Galatians with a fragment of a wrapper relating to them in Belsham's hand (but the paraphrases themselves do not appear to be), also three gatherings headed 'Queries suggested on reading Mr Belsham's Inquiry into the Scripture Doctrine concerning the Person of Christ.' There is a fragment of a wrapper which presumably at one time enclosed all of the above, annotated 'Belsham MSS. No. 8 MSS. by Dr Ashworth, Messrs Belsham, & others'. None of these latter items appears to be dated but the last- mentioned must be 1811 or later, Those of the above which appear to be by (or written by) Belsham are in shorthand; the others in longhand.

MS. Belsham 5

Miscellaneous items in Belsham's hand as follows

Thirty-two 'Devotional Lectures', 1781-90; Sermons for the celebration of the Lord's Supper nos. 3, 4, 6-22, 1794-1805; Ditto for baptisms (headed variously 'Form of Baptism', 'Office of Baptism', 'Service of Baptism', as well as simply 'Baptism') nos. 2, 2(i), 3-10. Not in date order. The dates are very miscellaneous c. 1796-1821; 'Form of Public Worship' no. 1, n.d.; 'Form of Public Prayer' nos. 2-11, 1798-1802; 'Sacramental Exercise' nos. 3-13, 1787-9; 'Sacramental Meditation' nos. 1, 2, n.d., 1787; 'Sacramental Meditations' (in a different format from the foregoing), 1779-89; 'Sacramental Service' no. 2, 1796-1804; 'Afternoon Service' nos. 1-5, 1803-4, n.d. ; 'Public Prayers' I-XV, 1806-21 ; 'Family Prayers' I-XII, n.d. ; 'Occasional prayers no. 2', 1819 (but there are items within the cover ranging from 1803 to 1820); 'Prayers for Sunday morning no. I-V', n.d.; Five 'Addreses to the Students of the New College'. The first is titled thus with the addition of 'upon settling amongst them...1789'. The others are dated 1789-95; 'Funeral Service nos. 1-4' (no. 3 titled 'Burial of the Dead' and no. 4 also called 'Form of Public Worship' - see above), used at various dates, 1796-1813; Ordination charges and sermons nos. 3-6, 7-9, 1778-89 (the earliest, which is in fact numbered '9', is 'Mr. Robins's Sermon at Mr. Belsham's Ordination, Oct. 8 1778'); 'Question proposed by the Revd. Mr. Scholefield', n.d.; Ten untitled sermons or addresses, the first is dated 1782; Address titled 'Maidstone Charity School Oct. 20, 181 1'; 'Practical Reflections on the Epistle to the Galatians', 4 sermons, n.d. (is not a complete coverage of the epistle); 'Practical Reflections 1 Thess. sect. IV-VI and VII-VIII', n.d.; Sermon on '2 Thess. Ch. 11', n.d.; Five miscellaneous pieces including notes in Belsham's hand (in longhand) on Priestley and Price's theories of the soul etc., and classical notes.

MS. Belsham 6

Further miscellaneous items in Belsham's hand as follows

'Lectures on Positive Institutions of Christianity' (in longhand) nos. 1-11, n.d. With these is a bundle of notes in a different format and in shorthand, dated 1815-6; Three bundles of notes labelled 'Lectures', 1813-14, 1814-15, 1816-17; Lecture notes in similar format, one group entitled 'Lectures on the Epp. of Paul', 1821-2; the others untitled but dated 1821-2 and 1822 Bundles of lecture notes as follows: 'Evidences of Revealed Religion 1805-1806'; 'Lect. on Inspiration 1806-1807'; 'Lectures on the New Testament. Antient Versions. Various Readings. Ecclesiastical Writers. Modern English Versions. 1807, 1808'; 'Lecture Dec. 1810. May 181 1. Opinions of Early Xtians concerning the Person of Christ. Heretici. Arianism.' 'Lectures on the Holy Spirit and on the death of Christ A.D. 181 1. 1812' 'Lectures on Calvinism. On the Origin of Evil in the World . . . '; 'Controvl Theology. Papers and References.'

MSS. Belsham 7-39

Notebooks containing lecture notes mostly in shorthand (unless otherwise stated). A few are listed in H. McLachlan, English Education Under the Test Acts (Manchester, 1931), Appendix I, pp. 275-97.

7-13 Early student notebooks. These shorthand notebooks do not bear any annotations linking them with Belsham, but where dated (and they all appear to be of much the same date) they coincide with his period as a student at Daventry.

As they appear to have come to the College at the same time as undoubted Belsham notebooks, it is possible that the notes were actually taken by someone else (although not Heineken as was at one time apparently thought) and the notebooks passed on to Belsham as a student. Some volumes bear labels on their spines identical to some amongst MSS. Heineken 1-15. This may, however, indicate only that they eventually passed into Heineken's possession, or that some notebooks in both collections may have had a common owner before some, but not others, became Heineken's property. The notebooks are all similar in layout (e.g. the way in which the pages are ruled), but it may be that although initially prepared by the same person some were, in fact, completed by more than one student.

7 Lectures on preaching and the pastoral ministry (up to fol. 79, dated at the end 'July 18th: 1768', followed by 'Electricity' on unfoliated pages, dated 'Finis June 10th, 1767', followed by further notes on 'Electricity', which may be later and appear to be in Belsham's hand. Contemporary foliation up to 76 (thereafter not foliated or paginated). McLachlan I (p. 284) and IX (p. 295)

To the box containing items 34-39, has been added a letter to Belsham found later. It is in shorthand and undated (the postmark is indistinct) but was sent to Belsham at Daventry. The writer appears to be 'L. Whitham' (although the end of the name is not clear).

Correspondence

MS. J.E. Carpenter 1

73 letters of James Martineau to J.E. Carpenter, 1867-98. At fols. 1, 19 and 25 are also three letters, 1860, 1870, 1874 from Martineau to William Benjamin Carpenter, J.E. Carpenter's father (Wykes 9/1-74, 12/2; fol. 143 is not in Wykes¹). At fol. 151 is a letter of Martineau to his son, Russell, 1898 about J.E. Carpenter's impending withdrawal from Manchester College. For a further letter of Martineau to J.E. Carpenter, 1864, see MS. Davis 4, fols. 67-70. 152 leaves

MS. J.E. Carpenter 2

124 letters of Philip Ernest Richards to J.E. Carpenter, 1899-1919. 329 leaves

The contents of MS. J.E.C.2 were bequeathed together with MSS. Chignell 1, 2, to Manchester College by Richards' widow, Mrs. Norah Mary Nutteman Richards (to whom presumably they had been returned after Carpenter's - or Richards' - death) in 1971 (finally received 1974).

- 4 Groups of correspondence beginning 1891- 1903. 225 leaves
- 5 Groups of correspondence beginning 1904-12. 249 leaves
- 6 Groups of correspondence beginning 1913-27. 220 leaves

1 letter added in 9/2002. To Carpenter from Comte Goblet d'Alviella, Prof. at the Univ. of Brussels. About the gift of a 3 vol. work 'Croyanas, rites institutions' written by d'Alviella. The letter was inside the College's copy.

A letter, 1924, from Philemon Moore enclosing notes on 'The Aramaic Expression for "Man" in General'. 55 leaves

MSS. J.E. Carpenter 18-26

Further possible J.E. Carpenter papers found subsequently 18-24 Seven notebooks containing notes in shorthand presumably of lectures at Manchester College, n.d. The only possible clue to authorship is a piece of blotting paper in 18, which, when held up to a mirror reveals the signature 'Joseph E. Carpenter'. If this is Joseph Estlin Carpenter the volumes presumably date from 1863-6 when he was a student (there are notebooks in longhand by him at MS. J. Martineau 20lviii). The subjects are as follows

18 Christian Truths and Evidences, Symbols of the Anglican Church, Doctrines, Ecclesiastical History 1st Period.

19 Christian Truths and Evidences. Doctrines.

20 Writings of John.

21 Old Testament, Prolegomena to Justin Martyr; (reversing the volume) the Church.

22 Lectures on the study of the Old Testament (11), Law, The Law.

12

- 23 [no title at beginning]; Acts-Epistles.
- 24 [no title at beginning]; Medieval Christianity, from the beginning of the fifth century to the foundation of the Universities.
- 25 A notebook containing notes in longhand (although two pages of shorthand at the beginning) on books read, viz. Lotze, Microcosmus, John Caird, An Introduction to the Philosophy of Religion, Edward Caird, Evolution of Religion, Martineau, A Study of Religion, and Pfleiderer, Philosophy of Religion. The first item (Lotze) bears the annotation 'read with L.P.J. [presumably L.P. Jacks] 1885-6'. Most of the volume appears to be in the hand of J.E. Carpenter, although some sections may have been written by Jacks. Part contemporary pagination, 227 pages (thereafter blank)
- 26 Manuscripts of lectures by Carpenter. Except in the case of the second set of notes below these are undated. However, Carpenter occasionally used the backs of pages of old letters or circulars to write on and where these are dated the dates are given in square brackets. Apart from these few sheets the notes are written on gatherings of lined paper.
- 'Introduction to the Study of Comparative Religion xii, xiii, xiv (Religion in China)' Mostly in shorthand, n.d.
- 'Recent Advance in Comp^{ve} Religion i, ii, iii, Oxford, Aug. 1901'. Longhand
- '[History of Religion in India] Life after Death Part 11'. Part longhand, part shorthand, n.d.
- 'Ideas of Life after Death Part II India vii-x, xii. Part III Persia i, ii' Longhand, n.d. 'Doctrine of a Future Life V China i, ii' Part longhand, part shorthand, n.d.
- 'Life after Death. India B. The Cultus of the Fathers'. Longhand, n.d.
- 'The Religious Significance of the Cultus of the Dead i-iv'. Longhand, [1916]
- 'Wilde Lecture. Part I Phases of Indian Theism i-viii. Part II i-viii'. Longhand. Carpenter delivered the Wilde Lectures in Comparative Religion at Oxford in 1914.
- 'Phases of Indian Theism. Part III The Vedanta & Modern Hinduism i-viii'. Longhand, [1919-20] (It is possible that these were part of the Wilde Lectures and that the notes on the dated pages were added later).

'Religion in China i, ii, iv-viii'. Part longhand, part shorthand, n.d.

Some miscellaneous notes with headings such as 'The Outlook on the World', 'Dualism & Monotheism', 'Magic & Religion', 'Totemism & Taboo', 'From Spirits to Gods'. All in longhand. Some of these are written on the back of papers dated 1918, 1921.

None of the above appear to have been published, at least in the form in which they appear here.

MS. 26 was given by Mr. George Spencer in 1992.

27 Unsigned letter addressed to J. Estlin Carpenter, dated 1892, with list relating to Middle Eastern mythic figures (?)

THOMAS WILLIAM CHIGNELL PAPERS (MSS. Chignell 1, 2)

Two volumes probably compiled by Philip Ernest Richards and his wife, Norah

MS. Chignell 1

A volume of writings probably of Thomas William Chignell (1824-1906) copied by Philip Ernest Richards. A note on p. i reads 'Copied from album of newspaper cuttings during my holiday at home Sept. 1904' (Richards came from Heavitree, Exeter, where Chignell also lived). On the same page is a pressed flower with the note 'Picked in T.W.C.'s garden at Heavitree. Summer 1921 ' (this probably in Norah Richards' hand). i + 223 pages

MS. Chignell 2

A scrapbook largely of newspaper cuttings concerning T.W. Chignell (it does not appear to be the volume of cuttings mentioned above), Philip Ernest Richards and his wife, Norah. On pp. 37, 39, 41, 42 and 44 are letters of Chignell, presumably to P.E. Richards; only that on p. 39 is dated (1903), but those on pp. 41 and 42 have been annotated with dates (1903, 1904 and 1905). On p. 47 there is a further letter of Chignell to Ernest Betham, n.d. On pp. 43 and 45 are two letters of Ernest Betham, n.d. (annotated 1905) and 1906, the first is to Richards and the second probably to him also (but as its first page is stuck down it is impossible to say). On p. 76 is a letter of Jane Chignell to Richards, n.d. [?1907] and a letter of Ernest Betham to Norah Richards, n.d. [postmarked 1920], On p. 70 is a letter to Richards, 1913, from Jane Elizabeth Oddy, and on pp. 76 and 84 are printed addresses to Philip and Norah Richards from Indian students, 1915 and 1920. The last cuttings in the volume appear to be of 1923. i + 107 pages (the volume is, however, in a very poor state and some pages appear to be missing; also one of the addresses from Indian students is badly torn).

These papers (together with the letters of P.E. Richards to J. Estlin Carpenter -see MS. J.E. Carpenter 2 -which were presumably returned to Mrs. Richards after Carpenter's [or Richards'] death) were bequeathed to Manchester College by Mrs. Norah May Nutteman Richards in 1971. Finally received in 1974.

COLLEGE HISTORY ADDITIONAL PAPERS

(MSS. College History Adds. 1-18)

PRELIMINARY NOTES

The collection contains records of the administrative history of Manchester New College (and latterly Manchester College then Harris Manchester College) from the late-18th to the mid-20th centuries. The material in this collection has been stored in the strong room at Harris Manchester College since at least 2000 but its provenance up to that point is unknown.

This collection contains a good deal of printed material produced by the College as well as items in manuscript. The catalogue has mostly been completed to item level to aid electronic search.

Records have largely been arranged by College location and date:

York (1803-1840) – 1-4

Manchester (1840-1853) – 5-6

London (1853-1889) – 7-8

Oxford (relocation process, 1878-1893) - 9

Oxford (1889-2000) – 10-17

Some records have been grouped together outside of the geographical sequence:

Pamphlets – 18

This collection was arranged and listed in 2020, many years after the MS. M.N.C. Misc. papers had been catalogued and so it has been listed as a distinct body of material (although College Committee minutes have been extracted and added to the main College governance series). Nevertheless, many items relate to items in MS. M.N.C. Misc. and the two collections should be consulted together.

NB: caution should be exercised in relation to the box and item numbers that have been added in pencil to some of the items. Many of these reference codes are now obsolete as they refer to a previous, temporary physical arrangement but it has been determined that removing them would cause too much surface damage to the items.

MS. Davis 5

fols. 1-312 Letters collected by D.V. Davis.

MS. Davis 6

fols. 1-46 Letters collected by D.V. Davis, including one from Florence Nightingale (fol. 26) to Mary Carpenter, dated 24 July [no year].

An album into which autograph letters of eminent people (either eminent generally or eminent Unitarians) have been inserted (therefore, strictly speaking, not a 'letter- book' at all) apparently by Valentine David Davis (1854-1944) to whom many of the letters were written, although several are to members of the Carpenter family and a few were apparently given to Manchester College later and added here, Presented to the College by Davis' daughters. The volume is paginated. In many cases the letters had been inserted loosely or have come away from the guards. As some of those remaining in the volume are well-secured and might be damaged by removal it was thought best to leave them as they were and to treat the loose letters as 'Letter Book "D" (add.)' (this gives rise to one anomaly: the second sheet of a letter of Charles Darwin is in the volume (p. 21), the first sheet amongst the "add" letters (fol. 3)). Most of the letters in the volume had been indexed already in the main manuscript index kept in the library, but very few of the loose ones. The latter therefore have been foliated and indexed accordingly. Simple signatures or envelopes kept for their writing or franks, as distinct from letters, have not been indexed, neither have recipients. The order in which the loose letters were originally in the album has been retained except in instances where obviously related items had been separated.

In 1988 the college received from Professor Michael Laine of Victoria College, Toronto, a photocopy of the latter part of the letter of John Stuart Mill of which the opening is at Letter Book "D", p. 15. This with Professor Laine's letter is now fols. 305-7 of Letter Book "D" (add.).

Letter Book "D". iv + 121 pages (really 123, as 15 is trebled) of which 46-121 are blank; Letter Book "D"(add.). 314 leaves

A Note on Letter Book "D"

Some items which were at some point kept in Letter Book "D" are now to be found in other places (mostly MSS. V.D. Davis 1-3).

In 1985, there was found a collection of items in an envelope marked 'Letters lent by V.D. Davis for B.F.U.A. Centenary Exhibition 19.5.25'. On the slips in the MS. index, these were said to be in Letter Book "D". These are now in MSS. Davis (MS. Davis 1, fols. 11 1, 116, 117, 121, 122, 123, 124, 143, 154, 156, 159, 161, 163, 169, 173, 179, 189, 191, 192, 211, 228, 230-32; MS. Davis 2, fols. 156, 179; MS. Davis 3, fols. 1, 3, 5, 7, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 23) with 2 exceptions Joseph Tuckerman to G.W. Wood, 1834 = MS. Wood 27, fol. 32A Blanco White to Miss Yates, 1835 = MS. Blanco White 2, fol. 252.

In one case linked items have been separated: J.E. Carpenter note to V.D. Davis, n.d. with O.T. paper = note at MS. Davis 1, fol. 11 1 and the paper = Letter Book "Dn (add.), fol. 81.

Two other items from Letter Book "D" now elsewhere are Andrew Kippis to John Seddon 1762 = MS. Seddon 1, fol. 129 Ernst Haeckel to J.E. Carpenter, 1897 = MS. J.E. Carpenter 4, fol. 73.

THOMAS WESLEY FRECKELTON SERMONS

(MSS. Freckelton 1-23)

Sermons of Thomas Wesley Freckelton (1827-1903). As far as these are dated it appears that most were first preached while he was Unitarian minister at Unity Church, Islington, 1875-89. Many were also preached subsequently in other places, especially in his later pastorate at Northampton. The sermons are numbered and bound in 23 volumes numbered on the spines 1-[22] and also 6A. Sermons 1-51 are in volumes 1-4. Sermons 52-76 are in volume 21. Sermons 77-134 appear to be missing. The sequence from 135 to 503 then appears in order in volumes 5-20, except that 6A, like [22] (which, in fact, has lost its spine and so bears no number), has a separate numbering entirely. Each volume has a table of contents. Some volumes bear labels marked 'Lot 253'.

LANCELOT AUSTIN GARRARD LECTURES

(MS. Garrard 1)

A loose-leaf binder containing typescripts of what are apparently lectures on theological subjects. Only one appears to be dated (1933). There is no internal evidence of authorship, but a piece of paper under the string with which the volume was tied is marked 'Garrard', presumably Lancelot Austin Garrard (1904-1993), Principal of Manchester College, 1956-65.

Information relating to the painting of Garrard's portrait by Kate Primmer.

NICHOLAS THOMAS HEINEKEN LECTURE NOTES

(MSS. Heineken 1-15)

The following shorthand notebooks were received by the College in 1840 from the library of Nicholas Thomas Heineken (1763-1840). Some may have been kept by him while a student at Daventry Academy, 1780-85, but it is possible that some of the books were compiled by different students and passed on to Heineken. All bear the annotation 'From library of late Rev. T. Heinekin [sic] November 1840' or the Heineken bookplate or both. See note under MSS. Belsham 7-13 about identical labels on the spines of some of the notebooks in the two collections. A few are listed in H. McLachlan, English Education under the Test Acts (Manchester, 1931), Appendix I, pp. 275-97.

- 1 'Lectures on Electricity by the Revd: T. Belsham Daventry 1783'. Contemporary foliation, 101 leaves
- 2 'Lectures on Pneumatology delivered by Mr. Belsham vol. 1'; on second leaf 'Addition to Doddridge's Lectures by T. Belsh[am]'. Mostly shorthand but with a little longhand, n.d. The writing looks different from that of 1 above, but the volume is also from Heineken's library. No pagination or foliation
- 3 Untitled notebook containing notes of lectures on Natural Philosophy, n.d. With the Heineken bookplate and a dedication on the flyleaf to Heineken from Benjamin Penn (student at Daventry, c. 1779-83), but it is not possible to say for certain whether Penn gave the notebook to Heineken before or after it was completed. No pagination or foliation. McLachlan XI (pp. 295-6). McLachlan thought that these notes were taken by Penn from lectures by Timothy Kenrick.
- 4 'Lectures on Civil Government with an Account of the English Constitution from De L'Holm &c', n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). Part contemporary foliation (but not consecutive). McLachlan IV (p. 287).
- 5 'Additions to the Lectures on the Evidences of Christianity', n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). With the Heineken bookplate. Contemporary foliation, 126 leaves. This may be McLachlan XX (p. 283).
- 6 'Lectures on Divinity chiefly extracted from the Books principally referred to upon that subject by Dr. Doddridge Mr. Belsham &c', n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). With the Heineken bookplate. Contemporary foliation, 164 leaves plus a few unnumbered at the end
- 7 Untitled but title on spine 'Jewish Antiquities Vol. I', n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). With the Heineken bookplate. Contemporary foliation, 198 leaves

- 8 Untitled but apparently another volume of 'Jewish Antiquities', n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). With the Heineken bookplate. Contemporary foliation, 191 leaves plus some blanks
- 9 Untitled but apparently another volume of 'Jewish Antiquities', n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). With the Heineken bookplate. Contemporary foliation, 125 leaves, 7, 8 and 9 are part of McLachlan 111 (p. 292). MSS. Belsham 11, 12 are the other part.
- 10 'Lectures on Preaching by P. Doddridge [sic] D.D.', n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). As McLachlan points out, Doddridge's lectures were treated with great deference and often repeated by other lecturers and copies handed down from one generation of students to another. Contemporary pagination, 208 pages
- 11 Lectures on Oratory, n.d. but ruled in the same way as 1 above (1783). With (p. 177-189) 'On the Eternal Duration of Future Punishments'. Mostly contemporary pagination, 192 pages
- 12 'Lectures on Natural History by Dr. Walker', n.d. With the Heineken bookplate and a dedication on the flyleaf similar to that in 3 above. No pagination or foliation. McLachlan X (p. 295). McLachlan says that this is George Walker. If so, the notes could not have been taken at Daventry.
- 13-15 Lectures on 'Anatomy by Dr. Munro' [sic], n.d. With the Heineken bookplate and a dedication on the flyleaves similar to that in 3 and 12 above. No pagination or foliation. McLachlan XII (p. 296). McLachlan thought that these notes were taken by George Walker, 1751-2 from the lectures of Alexander Munro (1697- 1767), Professor of Anatomy at Edinburgh University, 1725-64.

BROOKE AND HANNAH HERFORD PAPERS

(MSS. Herford 1-5)

Papers of Brooke Herford (1830-1903), Unitarian minister in Britain and the U.S.A., editor and author, and of his wife Hannah (1823-1901)

MS. Herford 1

fols. 1-324 57 letters of Brooke Herford written from the U.S.A. as 'round-robin' letters to his relations in Britain, 1876-85

Brooke Herford and his family (except his son, William, who was already there - see below) sailed for the U.S.A. in January 1876 to take up a pastorate in Chicago. In 1882 he moved to another pastorate in Boston. In 1892 he returned permanently to Britain.

Herford wrote these letters with the intention that they should be circulated amongst his relations in the homeland and some have the order of circulation written on them. It seems likely that even for the period they cover they are not quite a complete series (and certainly some enclosures are missing). There are also, of course, lengthy gaps when Herford returned to England for holidays.

The letters are mainly concerned with domestic matters, but there is a fair amount of comment on British politics and foreign policy and some on American internal affairs and on elections, local and national (including the Hayes-Tilden contest of 1876 and its aftermath), local government and attitudes to Britain (especially as regards Ireland).

fols. 325-43 Extracts (in Brooke Herford's hand) from letters written by his son William Herford, 1876, when he was establishing himself as a sheep-farmer in New Mexico. There is a drawing of William's 'ranche' and a map of north-eastern New Mexico showing its location (both by Brooke). See Brooke's letter of 21 August 1876 (above) in which he tells his relatives that he is sending them the extracts and the map. Two of his 1877 letters (above) relate to a visit he paid to the 'ranche' and include a drawing.

fols. 344-6 A photograph (both original and modern print) and a drawing. The photograph is of Mrs. Catherine Turner (nee Rankin) and the drawing is possibly of Mrs. Mary Turner (nee Holland). The existence of these items in the collection of the Misses Hartas Jackson (see below) seems to be accounted for as follows: their great-grand-mother was Mary Jane Robberds (daughter of J. Gooch Robberds - see his letters in the M.C.O. collections) who married Charles James Herford (brother of Brooke Herford and father of Robert Travers Herford - see the Osler-Herford papers in the M.C.O. collections). Mary Jane's mother, Mrs. Mary Robberds, had a brother, Henry Turner who married Catherine Rankin (photograph). The mother of Mrs. Robberds and Henry Turner was Mary Turner (nee Holland) who married the Rev. William Turner (1762-1859) as his first wife. The drawing seems likely (despite what is written on the reverse) to be of her.

fols. 347-77. A small group of papers, probably collected by Theodore Wellbeloved Herford (1889-1973), son of Philip Arnold and Mary Brooke Herford, about the antecedents of his grandmother, Hannah Hankinson (d. 1901) who married Brooke Herford in 1852. The families chiefly concerned in addition to Hankinson are Culcheth and Milner.

fols. 378-82. Copy of Herford family tree with related papers.

MS. Herford 2

fols. 1-249 Letters, n.d. [c.1876-8], 1877-1900, of Hannah Herford, wife of Brooke Herford, to her daughter, Mary Brooke Herford, who, in about 1879 returned to England from the U.S.A. (where the Herford family lived 1876-1892) and in 1884 married her cousin, Philip Herford. Included also in their chronological order are letters of Brooke Herford to Mary and Philip and their son, Theodore, two of Hannah to Philip and letters of Mary to her mother.

Letters between other members of the Herford family

fol. 250 Lucy Herford to her sister, Mary, 1880

fols. 252-67 Mary Jane Herford (formerly Robberds), wife of Charles James Herford, brother of Brooke, to her son, Philip (4 letters), 1880

fols. 268-70 Robert Travers Herford to his brother, Philip, 1880

fols. 271-3 Hugh Vernon Herford to his brother, Philip, 1881 fol. 274 Fragment (age 5) of a letter (dated only 'June 14th') from Laura Herford (one of Brooke and Hannah's daughters, later Mrs. Hermann Weisse) to a niece, perhaps Rose Herford, daughter of Brooke and Hannah's oldest son, Will. Laura married in the spring of 1888 so this letter is perhaps of 1886 or 1887

fol. 275 John ('Jack') Herford, second son of Brooke and Hannah, to his sister, Mary, 1888 fol. 276 A letter to Mary Susan Renold, a daughter of Charles James and Mary Jane Herford (and sister of Philip), n.y. [? late 1880s]. There is a reference to 'Uncle Brooke', so it is possible that the letter is from Mary Susan's sister, Amy Catherine Herford fol. 278 Hannah Herford (Brooke's wife - see above) to her sister, Elizabeth [Hankinson], [1897]

fols. 280-3 Oliver Herford (youngest son of Brooke and Hannah) to his mother, 1899 fols. 284-91 John ('Jack') Herford (see fol. 275 above) to one of his aunts (probably Emily Decima Herford (1840-1915), youngest daughter of John Herford, father of Brooke, by his second wife), 1908 (with a P.S. dated 1909). Published in Bodleian Library Record xv, no. 3 (Oct., 1995), pp. 223-9 fol. 292-4 Laura Weisse (see fol. 274 above and also MS. Herford 3) to her sister, Lucy, 1916

fol. 295-308 Oliver Herford (see fols 280-3 above) to his sister, Hannah (2 letters), n.d.s [1928] and [?1930] fol. 309 Mabel Herford (presumably the second daughter of Will Herford, Brooke and Hannah's oldest son) to her aunt Hannah, n.d. [c. 1942-3].

MS. Herford 3

Papers, many of them printed, concerning Brooke Herford and some members of his family

i Brooke Herford

Sketch by Brooke of his wife Hannah (Hankinson) and himself on their wedding day, 1852 (apparently originally in pencil but has been gone over in ink); photograph of apparently Brooke and Hannah with five of their (nine) children. On the reverse two are identified as Oliver and Beatrice. If it is Beatrice (the youngest child) it would mean that the photograph is c. 1870. The other children are not identified, but one is probably Helen, the oldest daughter (see (ii) below); a rough and very incomplete genealogy of the family; press cuttings about Brooke Herford and the memorial to him at Rosslyn Hill chapel, Hampstead, together with an obituary (from The Inquirer) of his wife, Hannah (d. 1901).

ii Helen Brooke Herford (oldest daughter)

Printed photograph; typescript of address given at Rosslyn Hill chapel, Hampstead, by C.M. Wright at the memorial service for her on 30 May 1935, with a programme of the service; Monthly letter of the British League of Unitarian and other Liberal Christian Women, July 1935, containing 'appreciations' of her by various members; Helen Brooke Herford and the Women's League by Mrs. Bernard Allen, n.d. (booklet).

iii William Brooke Herford (oldest son)

Press cutting from a Boston newspaper reporting his death, n.d. [he died 27 Dec. 1934]; photograph of his wife, Mabel, 1906 (see also the section below on Beatrice Hayward for other photographs of Mabel and her daughter, Rose, taken at the same time). Mabel died in 1931. For other material concerning William see MS. Herford 1.

iv John ('Jack') Brooke Herford (second son)

Photograph of his children, Whitney, Helen and Brooke (dated 1906 on reverse); obituary notice (22 June 1923) from an unnamed - but presumably, Montana - newspaper. On the reverse of this is part of a letter to Mary (presumably Mary Brooke Herford, his sister) from (?)his wife, Susie, 19 July [1923] describing John's final illness. For other material concerning John see MS. Herford 2, fols. 275, 284- 91.

v Oliver Herford (third son)

Several obituary notices, 1935; photograph of his and his wife's gravestone; part of a story written and illustrated by him (published after his death); on reverse of the above two Christmas cards with (the same) lines by him on them; article about him from The Reader's Digest, condensed from The Saturday Review of Literature, 26 June 1943. For two letters of Oliver see MS. Herford 2, fols. 295-308.

vi Laura Weisse (fourth daughter)

Letters (some apparently originals, some presumably copies, some loose, some in a note-book -see below) written by Laura from Germany during the First World War, 1914-18. As she could not send letters directly to England, it appears that she sent them to one Lize Meybloom in Holland (which was neutral), who passed them on, in some cases apparently translating or paraphrasing them. One 'letter' (headed 24 April [1916] - probably Lize's dating) appears to be partly from Laura and partly from her sisters in England to her, so presumably Lize handled a two-way correspondence. There are also references to meetings in Holland between the sisters.

Letters of 18 July 1915, 19 June 1915 (to Kate Everett), 4 Sept. [?1915], 5 Sept. [?1915] (to Lize), 29 May 1916, in that order, are copied into a notebook which also contains (at the end) a 'Rough Note of Statement by Dr. William Montague Hall Welby to Chas. E. Hecht, June 1, 1914' about the death of a Captain Herford in the Maori Wars. For further letters of Laura, see MS. Herford 2, fols. 274, 292-4.

Photographs

One of Laura and her husband in old age and one of Laura alone; two of a young woman and two of a younger man. These are said to be of Laura's daughter, Brigitta and her (Laura's) son Rainhart (sometimes spelt Reinhart). However, both these attributions must be wrong. The photographs are undated but are not likely to be earlier than the 1940s when Brigitta would have been much too old to be the woman depicted; and Laura's son was not Rainhart but Raimund (one photograph is captioned 'Young Rainhart' but on the reverse is described as 'Laura's son Rainhart'). It is likely, then, that both persons depicted are grandchildren of Laura, perhaps the children of Raimund and his wife Margaret [Hoffmann] who were married about 1918. A final photograph is said to be of 'Rainhart's wife Barbara, wife of Reinhart Weisse, Aunt Laura's son' but, as noted above, Laura's son was Raimund. This photograph, like the others, is undated, but one would guess from the probable age of the lady depicted that it may be Margaret Weisse, Raimund's wife and Rainhart's mother (i.e. Laura's daughter-in-law).

vii Beatrice Hayward (sixth and youngest daughter)

Printed press notices of Beatrice Herford's (she retained her maiden name as her stage name) monologues from British and American newspapers, c. 1895-7 (including photographs of her); one of her monologues reproduced in The Century Magazine, with illustrations by her brother, Oliver.

Photographs

Three of Beatrice with Will's wife, Mabel and daughter, Rose (see above under 'Will' for another of Mabel, taken presumably on the same occasion and endorsed 'Wayland, Mass., August 1906'); one of a house endorsed 'Wayland, 1906' (Wayland was where Hannah, Brooke's wife, bought a house in 1886 as a holiday retreat when he was pastoring in Boston. It is not known whether this is that house or another in the same area).

All the above papers were given by the Misses Ruth and Barbara Hartas Jackson, 1993. Their mother Katharine (1880-1976) was a daughter of Mary Susan Herford (who married Hans Renold), one of whose brothers was Philip Arnold Herford who married his cousin Mary Brooke Herford (1859- 1948), a daughter of Brooke and Hannah Herford. This seems to be the most probable line of descent for the papers, although the Robberds Papers in Manchester College (also given by the Misses Hartas Jackson) came via Amy Herford (d. 1945), a sister of Mary Susan and Philip Arnold.

LETTER BOOK "D" (see MS. Davis 5 and MS. Davis 6)

An album into which autograph letters of eminent people (either eminent generally or eminent Unitarians) have been inserted (therefore, strictly speaking, not a 'letter- book' at all) apparently by Valentine David Davis (1854-1944) to whom many of the letters were written, although several are to members of the Carpenter family and a few were apparently given to Manchester College later and added here, Presented to the College by Davis' daughters. The volume is paginated. In many cases the letters had been inserted loosely or have come away from the guards. As some of those remaining in the volume are well-secured and might be damaged by removal it was thought best to leave them as they were and to treat the loose letters as 'Letter Book "D" (add.)' (this gives rise to one anomaly: the second sheet of a letter of Charles Darwin is in the volume (p. 21), the first sheet amongst the "add" letters (fol. 3)). Most of the letters in the volume had been indexed already in the main manuscript index kept in the library, but very few of the loose ones. The latter therefore have been foliated and indexed accordingly. Simple signatures or envelopes kept for their writing or franks, as distinct from letters, have not been indexed, neither have recipients. The order in which the loose letters were originally in the album has been retained except in instances where obviously related items had been separated.

In 1988 the college received from Professor Michael Laine of Victoria College, Toronto, a photocopy of the latter part of the letter of John Stuart Mill of which the opening is at Letter Book "D", p. 15. This with Professor Laine's letter is now fols. 305-7 of Letter Book "D" (add.).

Letter Book "D". iv + 121 pages (really 123, as 15 is trebled) of which 46-121 are blank; Letter Book "D"(add.). 314 leaves

See also MSS. V.D. Davis.

A Note on Letter Book "D"

Some items which were at some point kept in Letter Book "D" are now to be found in other places (mostly MSS. V.D. Davis 1-3).

In 1985, there was found a collection of items in an envelope marked 'Letters lent by V.D. Davis for B.F.U.A. Centenary Exhibition 19.5.25'. On the slips in the MS.

index, these were said to be in Letter Book "D". These are now in MSS. Davis (MS. Davis 1, fols. 11 1, 116, 117, 121, 122, 123, 124, 143, 154, 156, 159, 161, 163, 169, 173, 179, 189, 191, 192, 211, 228, 230-32; MS. Davis 2, fols. 156, 179; MS. Davis 3, fols. 1, 3, 5, 7, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 23) with 2 exceptions Joseph Tuckerman to G.W. Wood, 1834 = MS. Wood 27, fol. 32A Blanco White to Miss Yates, 1835 = MS. Blanco White 2, fol. 252.

In one case linked items have been separated: J.E. Carpenter note to V.D. Davis, n.d. with O.T. paper = note at MS. Davis 1, fol. 11 1 and the paper = Letter Book "Dn (add.), fol. 81.

Two other items from Letter Book "D" now elsewhere are Andrew Kippis to John Seddon 1762 = MS. Seddon 1, fol. 129 Ernst Haeckel to J.E. Carpenter, 1897 = MS. J.E. Carpenter 4, fol. 73.

THEOPHILUS LINDSEY SERMONS

(MSS. Lindsey 1, 2)

MS. Lindsey 1

Sermons and a few prayers of Theophilus Lindsey (1723-1808). The sermons are numbered 1-62, but do not seem to have been numbered according to date. The dates when first preached (most were preached several times) appear to range from 1774 to 1792.

MS. Lindsey 2

Two sermons by Lindsey: on Mark 3:1,2 first preached 1774, and on Mark 1:16-20 (preceded and followed by prayers) first preached 1775; together with three sermons of his friend William Chambers, Rector of Thorpe Abchurch, Northants., first preached 1750 and 1772 (2), together with two letters of the donor, Francis J. Poynton, 1897.

A manuscript account of the early life of Lindsey by his wife Hannah, n.d. [presumably 1809-11].

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 1

Miscellaneous papers relating to Manchester College, 1786-1838

A small group of papers some of which were apparently collected by V.D. Davis when writing his history of Manchester College. At fol. 1 is a letter to Davis from Charles Montgomery Welby, great-grandson of Charles Wellbeloved, sending him certain documents including letters to Wellbeloved. From this it may be inferred that he had already sent other papers, possibly including the other letters to Charles Wellbeloved included here.

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 6

A volume, which has lost its binding, used as a 'guardbook' into which documents relating to the College, 1820-83 have been stuck. There is an alphabetical index at the beginning (fols. i-xi) although the page containing A-B is missing. Pages 1-165 have a contemporary pagination; thereafter 166-207 were foliated, apparently in the same hand. The documents are stuck to the leaves and are not paginated or foliated separately. The page (or folio) number given in the slip index kept in the College Library is the contemporary one. Not all documents are included in the slip index, e.g. students' declarations (that they have paid their debts, etc.) are excluded. Many of the documents are Principals' annual reports on the conduct and attainments of students, or Librarians' reports on the state of the College Library. There are also documents relating to College-owned property and College running expenses. xi + 125 leaves

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 7

i A letterbook, lacking its lower cover and entitled 'Manchester College Letter Book C', containing mostly 'flimsy' copies (in some cases almost illegible) of letters written by officers of the College to various people, often ministers or subscribers, 8 Sept. 1840 - 16 May 1850. The writers are Richard Aspden, 1840-50; Robert Brook Aspland, 1849; Samuel Dukinfield Darbishire, 1840-49; James Aspinall Turner, 1 843, 1846; George William Wood, 1840-42; William Rayner Wood, 1844-49; there is an alphabetical index of addressees at the front of the volume. One letter (16 July 1849, fol. 124) is a circular and a list of addressees appears on the opposite page. Versos and rectos bear the same numeration, so the volume is considered as foliated, 140 leaves. For two earlier volumes see MSS. Wood 45, 46.

ii 'Manchester College Letter-Book D' 1850-63 also contains 'flimsy' copies, of varying degrees of legibility (some completely illegible), of letters written by officers of the College, 11 June 1850 -19 Nov. 1863. The writers are the same as in i (except G.W. Wood) and there are also copies of letters of Charles Beard and Robert Needham Philips. There is no index but names of recipients are written in the margins. The volume is paginated, 322 pages but only 70 bear copies.

MS. M.N.C. MISC. 8

A volume entitled 'Manchester New College: correspondence regarding the appointment of professors'

The letters are mostly of 1840 (with one of 1839 and a few of 1841) and relate to the appointment of the teaching staff when the College was moved from York back to Manchester in 1840. They are arranged according to the professor, or candidate for the professorship, being discussed and in some cases include letters from the persons themselves and printed testimonials.

There is a contemporary table of contents at the front of the volume (fols. i-iv) arranged according to the 'folio' numbers, but the volume has been re-foliated in accordance with modern practice and the letters indexed accordingly in the slip index kept in the College Library. The volume includes letters from, and about, F.W. Newman, James Martineau, J.J. Tayler and W.B. Carpenter, amongst others.

On fols. 107 and 110 are letters of J. Estlin Carpenter and Charles B. Upton respectively about their acceptance of professorships in 1875.

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 9

A volume containing letters from Trustees about the plan for removing Manchester College from York, 1839. The letters are divided thus: for removal to Manchester; for removal to London; undecided. There is also one general letter of James Martineau to J.J. Tayler. There is a contemporary index at the front of the volume, but the letters have been foliated according to modern practice and are indexed in the index kept in the College Library by that foliation. 108 leaves

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 10

A bound volume containing mainly alphabetically arranged autographs cut from letters. These are mostly of people with some connection with Manchester College. It contains also the following complete letters: (fol. 7^v) 1902, from William Colfox, President of the College (1900-3) to Henry Holiday about designing and manufacturing the stained glass window in the lobby of the Tate Library, with a cutting from a postcard of Holiday, presumably to Colfox, containing two sentences about the window; (fol. 11) 1860, from Heinrich Ewald to Russell Martineau (in German); (fol. 13) 1897, from William Henry Fremantle to James Drummond; (fol. 14) 1843, from Ezra Stiles Gannett to William Hamilton Drummond senior; (fol. 32) 1864, from Francis William Newman to Russell Martineau; (fol. 39) 1868, from John Robberds to James Drummond. 59 leaves

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 11

A volume lettered on spine 'M.C. Arlosh'. The letters inserted in the volume are arranged under the names of students who applied for, or had been granted, Arlosh scholarships at the College, 1908-14, including testimonials from teachers, pastors, etc, the students concerned were John Cyril Flower, Robert Fleming Rattray, John William Saunders, Charles Edward Mercer, A. Victor Fox and Kenneth Dunbar. 51 leaves (only the first six bear documents)

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 12/i-iv

i A volume (lacking its upper and lower covers and with first and last gatherings detached) bearing on its spine the words 'Candidates Testimonials M.C.Y. ' In fact the testimonials continue right through the second Manchester period of the College as well as part of the York period, the dates being 1814-54. The testimonials (which, in some cases, are reports of examinations in classical languages) are in date order and arranged under the names of the prospective students being recommended. The volume has a contemporary foliation which has been used in indexing the names of the major writers of testimonials, who include Lant Carpenter, J.G. Robberds, Charles Wellbeloved, John Kenrick, John Kentish, William Hincks, William Turner, snr and jnr, John James Tayler, John R. Beard, Robert Wallace, John Dalton, William Gaskell, James Martineau, Benjamin Carpenter and Francis W. Newman.

ii A similar volume (also lacking its upper and lower covers and with the first four 'folios' missing. These probably contained letters of 1855). Words on spine illegible, but a companion volume to i, containing testimonials for students, 1856-94. The 'foliation' is contemporary although erratic, frequently becoming pagination. 144 folios'. The standard of document-keeping in this, vol. iii and the first part of iv is poor, letters being stuck over one another and often down onto the page, making it sometimes difficult to ascertain the identity of the writers, the major ones of whom include George Armstrong, J.R. Wreford, J. J. Tayler, W .H. Drummond, James Martineau, Charles Beard, William Gaskell, Eddowes Bowman, W .B. Carpenter, Charles Wicksteed, R.B. Aspland, James Drummond, J.H. Thom, W.J. Odgers, W.H. Herford, W.H. Channing, G. Vance Smith, John Kenrick, Thomas Hincks, R.D. Darbishire, Richard A. Armstrong, R.T. Herford, J.E. Odgers, R.L. Carpenter, J.E. Carpenter, L.P. Jacks, Alexander Gordon, Edward Caird, Sir Henry Jones, Russell Martineau, Sir Adolphus William Ward.

iii A similar volume (also lacking its upper and lower covers and with the first five 'folios' missing). 'Manchester New College Candidates Testimonials' on spine. Contains testimonials for students, 1895- 1908. The foliation is contemporary, 143 'folios' (75 onwards are blank). The major writers of letters include John R. Magrath, T.W. Jex-Blake, F.L. MS. M.N.C. Misc. 19

A bundle of documents punched and tied together in a wrapper endorsed 'M.C.Y. Memoranda taken off the File April 29 1840'. The dates covered are 1834-40 with the earliest papers at the bottom. Most -perhaps all - of these documents appear to be rough drafts or copies and the prevalence of financial papers amongst them, including many in his hand, seems to indicate that the file was George William Wood's. The bundle may have survived by accident.

The financial papers include notices about congregational collections for the College, lists of subscribers, bank notices of credits, notes about repairs needed on College houses, estimates for repairs and decorations, insurance premium reminders, draft tenancy agreements; also papers about College forms, including notices of rents and notices to quit. There are also papers about salaries of tutors (especially William Hincks), fees, prizes, examinations, sale and purchase of furniture (especially Hincks' furniture in 1839), papers about the admission of students (particularly Alfred Turner Blyth), correspondence about Henry Higginson as a student and about distribution of Commemoration Sermons. There are many draft minutes and resolutions of the Executive Committee particularly concerning financial matters and some of the General Committee and of General Meetings of the Trustees. From the late 1830s there are drafts of papers about the desirability of removing the College from York and others about a possible link with the University of London (including a copy of the memorial to Lord Normanby -see MS. M.N.C. Misc. 17 above - with list of signatories). There are a few copies of letters, including one from Sir Francis Freeling to G.W. Wood, 1835 and one of the same year from Wood to Samuel Allecock who had apparently complained that Hincks did not teach Unitarianism.

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 27

A volume inscribed 'Students admitted into the Manchester Academy and into Manchester College, York'. The volume has lists of students at both Manchester and York with historical notes about them. MS. M.N.C. Misc. 28 [Digitised version available]

A volume inscribed 'M.N.C. College Rules' containing rules but also lists of students. A table of contents in what appears to be James Martineau's hand lists the contents as 'List of Students from 1840-1 to 1848-9. Regulations of 1848, relating to (1) All Students of M.N.C. (2) The College Library (3) Divinity Students (4) Fines. Students' Signatures from 1849-1 853. Regulations of 1853, as Revised on removal to London. Regulations of 1882, as Revised on amalgamation with the Hall, Students' Signatures.' This seems to be accurate except that the 1882 Regulations come before the 1853 ones. The last section of students' signatures begins in 1853 and goes on to 1966. Some papers are loosely inserted in the volume, including some notes on the opening of the session, 8 Oct. 1943 (on the reverse of some handwritten College rules), typescript College rules and a typescript index to the Roll of Students. It contains a list of people (many of them ministers) from whom lists were received followed by alphabetically arranged lists of names, presumably of subscribers or potential subscribers. There is no date in the volume but from internal evidence it appears to be after 1909 and before 1912.

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 32

There is no year date for this meeting but it may have been in 1940. At the rear of the volume are the minutes of two meetings in 1942.

MS. M.N.C. Misc. 35

Volume labelled 'Attendance Register Chapel' which is, in fact, a list of preachers in the College chapel, 1949-59. A number of items is loosely inserted in this book, amongst them a notebook listing the cutlery, china etc. belonging to the College between October 1940 and August 1950.

HARRIET MARTINEAU PAPERS

(MSS. H. Martineau)

Letters mostly written by Harriet Martineau (1802-76)' 1819-1867. The letters appear to have come from a number of sources, presumably including the (James) Martineau and Carpenter papers and to have been brought together for ease of use. Because of Harriet's well-publicised dislike of the preservation of private letters and her penchant for burning those she received as soon as answered there are no Harriet Martineau 'Papers' as such.

MS. H. Martineau 1

fol. 1 Letter to Lant Carpenter, 1819

fols. 3-29 Eleven letters to Helen Martineau, wife of James Martineau, n.d.s 1842], four of [1843], [1847], three of [1848], two of [1849]. One of those of [1843] is a fragment only.

fols. 30-129 Forty-two letters to Philip Pearsall Carpenter [1852]-1867. One of the letters [?]1862] (fol. 112) is written by Harriet's niece and companion, Maria Martineau. At. fols. 130-1 are two sheets of instructions about treating plaster casts and at fol. 132 the address of Henry G. Atkinson, which may relate to the letter at fol. 87.

fols. 133-6 Letter to William Lloyd Garrison, 1855. This is in Harriet's hand, but there is no indication that it is a copy. There is with it an envelope (fol. 137) addressed to P.P. Carpenter annotated 'T.H. Will you copy this very carefully for me at home? It is H.M.'s last words for the slave,' As the postmark on the envelope is of slightly earlier date than the letter itself, the envelope was presumably a previously used one used again by Carpenter to send the letter 'home' by hand to be copied. R.K. Webb, Harriet Martineau: a radical Victorian (1960) p. 323 appears to think that the letter to Garrison was enclosed with that of Harriet to P.P. Carpenter of 22 Dec. 1855. Apart from the discrepancy of dates (the letter to Garrison is 16 Feb. 1855), the words in her letter of 22 Dec. 1855, 'I make no apology for showing you what is said of myself indicate that the 'enclosed' referred to there was probably a letter of Garrison to her.

fol. 138 Unsigned postcard [postmarked 1874] to 'Miss [?]Jenny] Matthews' C/O 'Mrs. Martineau'.

fols. 139-144 Some extracts from Harriet's Autobiography. Vera Wheatley, The life and work of Harriet Martineau (1957), p. 357 seems to think that these are autograph. They do not appear to be so and were more likely copied for P.P. Carpenter to send to his brother, R.L. Carpenter. See what appears to be R.L.C.'s note on fol. 144 and his statement on p. 134 of his biography of P.P. Carpenter.

fol. 145 Document signed by James Martineau acknowledging receipt of £171.10.0 left to him in Harriet's will

fol. 146 Letter written to Evasio Radice dated Sept. 23rd

- fol. 147 Press cuttings relating to Harriet's publications
- fol. 148 Envelope containing a press cutting and information relating to Harriet's anti-slavery interests.
- fol. 149 Copy of a letter to J. Toulmin Smith held in a private collection

MS. H. Martineau 2

fols.

- 150-152 Envelope and letter dated 5 April 1868 from her brother at Portland Row, Edgbaston, Birmingham, to sister Susan Martineau, regarding some letters (written by Harriet Martineau?) which have come up for sale by auction. (Susan must be Robert's (Harriet's brother's) daughter with whom she travelled in Ireland -Tom's sister.)

fols.

- 153-157 Envelope and letter dated 7 April 1868 from Hugh Martineau at Highbury, London to his 'cousin' in Edgbaston, Birmingham, regarding paying 25 shillings, through an agent, for the letters at auction. Includes the original letter from Henry Bickhill (?) who wrote to Hugh Martineau's wife Kate informing them of the upcoming sale of the letters at auction.

fols.

- 158-160 Envelope and letter dated 7 Oct 1864 from Harriet Martineau to her niece (?) Emily married to Thomas Martineau. She mentions her own ailing health.

fols.

- 161-163 Envelope and letter dated 1 April 1855 from Harriet Martineau to Thomas Martineau in Birmingham. References to division of her late mother's books among the family. Also mention of her memoir to be edited by Mrs Henry Chapman (an American): 'she alone can tell the anti-slavery portion properly'.

- fol. 164 Letter dated 18 Nov 1837 from John Finlaison in London to Harriet Martineau, offering various annuities and financial arrangements for her.

fols.

165-166 Envelope and letter dated 13 May 1871 from Mr King (HM's last doctor at Ambleside after Shepard's (sp?) death) to Harriet Martineau promising to pass her brain and cranium on her death to Mr Atkinson. Letter marked private, with later note 'cancelled by desire of Mr Atkinson, August 31 1872', signed Harriet Martineau.

fols.

167-169 Envelope and letter to Harriet Martineau dated 4 April 1860 from a friend (Elisabeth Reid) at York Terrace, London. The sister she mentions is Mary Sturch. Letter dated inside Wednesday 4 March. Elisabeth Reid is discussing the Ladies College, Bedford Square, and the Duke of Bedford's objections.

JAMES MARTINEAU PAPERS

(Mss J. Martineau 1-36)

Correspondence

MS. J. Martineau 1

Abstracts by James in Rich's shorthand of Harriet Martineau's letters to him, 1819-43, together with a typed transcript made in the United States by W.S. Coloe in 1958 for Professor R.K. Webb. It should be noted that this transcript is not very accurate as far as names (in longhand in the original) are concerned and should, therefore, be treated with a degree of caution. 34 and i + 202 leaves respectively

MS. J. Martineau 2

Abstracts in longhand (probably of Gertrude Martineau) of letters of various people to James Martineau, or in some cases his, or other people's, letters to others (Wykes 11/1-46²). Contemporary pagination pages 151-90 Letters mostly between him and his wife before their marriage in December 1828, 1822-28 pages 191-202 Letters from Harriet Martineau, 1830-43. Some at least of these are included in the abstracts in MS. 1. These seem to be shorter abstracts than those. They do not duplicate those on pp. 11-12 of this manuscript.

² The "Wykes" references are to a list of part of the collection made by Dr. David Wykes and available in the College library. It should be noted that often a section of this catalogue, although giving a "Wykes" reference, will contain in addition items not listed by Wykes.

pages 203-4 'Family letters to J.M. or H.M. from 1819-1831 [sic]. With Sequels. Sequel to no.7 Ht. M.' In fact, the only abstracts here are two from Ambleside of 'Jany.' and 20 Nov. 1850, so presumably from Harriet and therefore later than any of those abstracted in MS. 1 or above in this manuscript.

pages 205-26 'Domestic letters to & from Home', 1851-63, mostly from the children of James and Helen - Russell, Isabella, Mary Ellen, Gertrude, Basil and Edith, but at p. 214 there are notes of letters of Henry Higginson, Helen's brother from Australia, 1851-4. pages 265-76 'Letters of Elizth Greenhow to Helen M., 1845-1850', with what appears to be a Christmas riddle or puzzle of 1844 (Elizabeth - 'Lissey' - was the oldest sister of James) pages 277-80 Letters on Herbert Martineau's illness and death, 1846. Page 277 is mainly a list of those who wrote; pp. 279-80 contain abstracts. See also p 214.

pages 281-4 'Australian letters, Henry H[igginson] to Helen M., Adelaide, 1851-4, Melbourne, 1863'. See also p 214.

pages 285-92 'Fairleigh letters -Mrs. Lewis and L.L.', 1851-53. Leyson Lewis of East Fairleigh, Kent, married Isabella, oldest surviving daughter of James and Helen in 1853. Presumably the 'Mrs. Lewis' referred to is his mother.

pages 293-308 'Letters from various friends', 1845-63, including two from Mrs. Gaskell, 1853 and others from J.H. Hutton and Anna Swanwick. Only those people whose letters are summarised in some detail are included in the slip index in the College library. Often there is simply a reference that a letter was received from someone named. These people are not indexed. Some of these letters have been transcribed in 2010.

pages 309-34 'Family letters to J.M., 1819 to 1831' [sic]: '(1) pages 309-20 My Mother's', 1819-35, most of which are to be found also in the longhand abstracts on pp. 1-11 pages 333-4 '(8) Ellen Martineau', 1825-29 (i.e. James' youngest sister, later Mrs. Alfred Higginson) page 334 'Sequel to (7) Harriet to Helen, 1832'. The second letter here is dated 25 Sept. 1832 and in the longhand abstracts on p. 12 there is one of that date, although they do not appear to be the same letter.

MSS. J. Martineau 9-12

Letters of Helen Martineau to her sister, Emily, who married Samuel Bache in 1832, 1828-54. Almost all of the letters are in shorthand. There appear to be no letters for the period when the Martineaus were in Germany, 1848-49.

9	1828-35	234 leaves.
10	1836-42	300 leaves
11	1843-47	342 leaves
12	1848-54	348 leaves

Undated letters have been left in the order as found (that order appeared to be highly accurate as far as dated letters were concerned). There are a few letters which have additions by Helen's children to their Aunt Emily and also a few written entirely by the children, e.g. there is a letter of 1839 from Russell; two in 1846 -the year in which he died -from Herbert; and letters in 1844 and 1847 from Basil and Isabella respectively; and a long P.S. to a letter of Helen by Mary Ellen, 1852. The letter of 27 August 1829 is from Helen to her father, and that of 15 Oct. 1840 from Helen (in long- hand) to Samuel Bache, Emily's husband. The letter of 11 Feb. 1833 has a note (in longhand) by James Martineau to Samuel Bache, and that of 1 April 1832 a note (in shorthand) by James to Emily. The letter of 19 March 1832 is from Alfred Higginson, brother of Helen and Emily, to the latter. There appear to be some letters from Samuel Bache to Helen (e.g. one of 28 Feb. 1844 in longhand, and one of 4 March 1844 in shorthand) and at least two (29 April 1840 and 22 Nov. 1849) from Emily to Helen.

- i. A volume entitled on the spine 'Dr Martineau's Manuscripts: Sermons', transcribed by Gertrude Martineau from his shorthand notes, with a letter of Gertrude to Lucy Toulmin Smith, 16 May 1906, tipped in. The sermons are not in date order, but the dates when first preached appear to be from 1833 to 1847.

- ii. A volume uniform with the above entitled on the spine 'Dr. Martineau's Manuscripts: Sermons and Addresses', transcribed as previous item. There appear to be four addresses: 'Christening Address, 1850-1 871 ', 'Christening Address, 1869-1 870', 'Communion Address & Prayer. Manchester College Oxford. Oct, 19, 1893 ', 'Valedictory Address Little Portland Street, June 25, 1885. ' The rest appear to be sermons, not in date order; dates of first preaching appear to range from 1832 to 1867.
- iii. A volume, mainly in Martineau's shorthand and which seems to have been in use from 1841 to 1853, containing miscellaneous notes. From one end of the volume are astronomical notes and notes on the synoptic gospels arranged under subjects and in parallel columns showing material common to two or three synoptics and material peculiar to one. Later comments are not in parallel columns and are extended to cover Acts, the epistles, apocalyptic and apocryphal literature and the fourth gospel; many of these seem to be taken from the writings of Otto Pfleiderer. Reversing the volume there are lists of philosophical works, 1841, notes on the nature of Christ, 1844, classical notes and notes on church fathers, and notes on New Testament events.
- iv. Notebook containing shorthand notes by Martineau on Pfleiderer on Second Corinthians, Romans, Philemon, Colossians and Ephesians, n.d.

- vi. A volume entitled 'Lectures on the Communion Service¹ Delivered in the Lecture Room at Hope St. Church, Liverpool 1855'. The lectures are presumably by Martineau, but are not in his hand. The signature of Gertrude Martineau appears on the flyleaf and the volume is probably transcribed by her.
- vii. Four notebooks containing Edith Martineau's notes of her father's 'Class on The Apostolic Age', 1859-60.
- viii. Two notebooks, one containing notes from sermons by Martineau 'taken by Mrs. Holland - copied by Sophia Cobbe.' The sermons are dated 1859-60. A similar notebook 'taken by Mrs. Holland' [1860].
- ix. Five notebooks containing notes by various ladies of lectures by Martineau, The first lecture begins 'The object of these lectures -to discuss the most important of the difficulties that beset the religion of the present age.' The dates of the notebooks are Nov. 1867-March 1868, Nov. 1869- March 1870, Dec. 1870-April 1871, Nov. 1871, Jan.-March 1872 (at the end of this volume is inserted a letter from Edith Martineau to Miss [?Sophia] Cobbe, n.d.). The notebooks although numbered [1] -5 on the spines (and, in fact, taking the date order 4 comes before 3), bear labels on the upper covers marked '1st winter', '3rd winter', '4th winter', 'Beginning of 5th winter', 'End of 5th winter'; it therefore seems from both the dates and the labels that one notebook (that for the winter of 1868-69) is not extant. This appears to be confirmed by the fact that the last lecture in the first book is numbered 'xi' while the first in the second is numbered 'xix'.

x. Thirty-three gatherings entitled 'Brief Memoranda for Tuesday Evening Lectures to Congregational Class 1867-8'. Folio 34 (contemporary foliation) is marked 'Continued 1868-9'. In Martineau's shorthand

xi. One gathering entitled on front page 'Ultimate Difference between Natural & Revealed Religion' and on folio 1 (contemporary foliation) 'Ministers' Conference Feb. 22/71'. In Martineau's shorthand. (Wykes 13/3/1)

xii. A lecture in longhand by Martineau entitled 'Immortality' dated Feb 16th 1840 with a note on the front page 'On the loss of the Lexington'. Donated by Susan and Andrew Rice-Oxley, March 2013

Lectures on non-religious subjects, some delivered at Manchester New College, but place of delivery of others uncertain (perhaps MNC, perhaps not)

Lectures in Martineau's own hand

i. Unbound set of gatherings divided into two volumes ([Vol. I] 396 pages, contemporary pagination; vol. 11, fols. 1-7 contemporary foliation, but contemporary pagination from [8] onwards to page 197 (end)) in Martineau's shorthand. At the beginning is a longhand transcription by Gertrude Martineau of the 'Introductory Lecture' (which is on pages 7-27 of the shorthand copy of [Vol. I] which also bears the title 'Notes of College Lectures (Old Course on Mental Philosophy)' in her hand. The brown paper wrapper in which the papers were found has 'J.M.'s first (i.e. oldest) Course of Mental Philosophy.' Dated at end 'Oct. 21. 1840'. Preceding the 'Introductory Lecture' is a letter to Gertrude from C.B. Upton (24 Sept. 1901) in which he asks for a copy of the

Introductory Lecture and of certain other passages in the course. The longhand copy of the 'General Scheme' of the course which Gertrude sent him and which apparently he returned with annotations re. the passages he wanted transcribed, together with such of those passages as Gertrude was able to find and transcribe is placed immediately after her transcript of the 'Introductory Lecture' and before the shorthand version. (Wykes 11/99-100, 104-1 10, 101, 111-6, 102-3)

ii. A similar set of gatherings (583 pages, contemporary pagination, plus nine unpaginated pages which are almost entirely blank) in Martineau's shorthand, entitled 'Moral Philosophy', The brown paper wrapper in which the papers were found has 'Old Course of Moral Philosophy'. There are various dates in pencil throughout the manuscript ranging from 1842 to 1875. Compare the transcripts by Robert C. Jones in MS. 20liv (b) below. The last chapter (pages 561-83) is transcribed in longhand by Gertrude in the volume entitled 'Dr Martineau: Lecture Notes'. See 201i below, fols. 1-23 (third foliation) under the title 'The Future Life'.

iii. A similar set of gatherings (80 pages, contemporary pagination) in Martineau's shorthand, headed 'Notes on Logic'. On p. 2 appears the heading 'Elements of logic comprising the Substance of the Article in the Encyclopaedia Metropolitana: with additions &c by Richard Whateley, D.D. Archbp. of Dublin. Eight [sic] Edition Revised ... 1844' in Martineau's longhand. There are various dates in pencil throughout the manuscript ranging from 1847 to 1870 (two of them, 1866 and 1869, have the words 'Undergr. C1. ' beside them).

iv. A similar set of gatherings (194 leaves, contemporary foliation, plus five unfoliated blank leaves) in Martineau's shorthand, entitled 'Notes on Logical Philosophy'. There are various dates in pencil throughout the manuscript ranging from 1849 to 1873. This is transcribed in longhand by Gertrude in the volume entitled 'Dr. Martineau's Manuscripts: Philosophy'. See MS. 20/ii below.

v. A similar set of gatherings (230 leaves, contemporary foliation, followed by two unfoliated blank leaves) in Martineau's shorthand, containing notes on various works of Plato. The wrapper in which these and item iii above were found bears the annotation 'Abstracts and Translations of Plato'. Undated, but there are three further gatherings headed 'Memoranda & Prolegomena to (?) the Gorgias of Plato' (foliated 1-22, contemporary foliation, followed by two unfoliated leaves) which bear dates in pencil throughout ranging from 1857 to 1881. These three gatherings were inserted at fol. 33 of the larger group of gatherings but have now been put at the end of it after fol. [232].

vi. A similar set of gatherings ([i]-121 leaves, contemporary foliation followed by one blank leaf) in Martineau's shorthand headed 'Summary of the conditions/elements & laws of thought'. There are various dates in pencil throughout the manuscript ranging from 1864 to 1875. This is transcribed in longhand by Gertrude in the volume entitled 'Dr. Martineau: Lecture Notes'. See item ii above and MS. 201i below, fols. 1-272. After fol. [122] of the shorthand version are twelve leaves (1-11 in contemporary foliation plus one blank leaf) headed 'Part 11. On the Cognitive Process' (fol. 12 of the shorthand version is headed 'Part I. On the Cognitive Elements'), n.d., but presumably similar to the above. This is transcribed in longhand by Gertrude on fols. [1]-22 (second foliation) following on from fol. 272 of the above-mentioned volume. After fol. [12] are a few similar but miscellaneous gatherings, some numbered but most not, in Martineau's shorthand; one headed 'Ursache und Wirkung'; another containing 'memoranda' on a work of Bain; another 'memoranda' on a work of Kant. Some bear dates in pencil from 1865 to 1870.

vii. Five exercise books containing notes by Martineau in shorthand for articles in The Prospective Review, 1845-8, as follows:

- a. Notes for a review of A.P. Stanley's Life and Correspondence of Thomas Arnold (Prospective Review, Feb. 1845). Reversing the book there are notes on 'Church and State' presumably for Martineau's article on that subject in The Prospective Review, May 1845
- b. Notes for review of William Whewell's The Elements of Morality (Prospective Review, Nov. 1845)
- c. Notes for review of Theodore Parker's A discourse of Matters pertaining to Religion (1842) (Prospective Review, Feb, 1846)
- d. Notes for review of J.D. Morell's An Historical and Critical View of the Speculative Philosophy of Europe in the Nineteenth Century (1846) (Prospective Review, Nov. 1846)
- e. Notes for review of Athanase Coquerel, Le Christianisme experimental (1847) (Prospective Review, Feb. 1848).

MS. J. Martineau 20

Transcripts by others of lectures by Martineau

- i. A volume (282. 22 and 23 leaves, contemporary foliation) containing transcripts in longhand by Gertrude Martineau entitled 'Dr. Martineau: Lecture Notes' containing respectively transcripts of MS. J. Martineau 19/vi and ii (part) (above).

ii. A volume (524 leaves, contemporary foliation) uniform with MS. 18/i and ii entitled 'Dr Martineau's Manuscripts: Philosophy', which contains a transcript in longhand by Gertrude of MS. 19/iv (above).

iii. Unbound transcripts in longhand, perhaps by Gertrude, as follows Thirteen gatherings entitled 'Comte' (309 leaves, contemporary foliation, blank leaves – usually at the beginning or end of gatherings - unfoliated), in longhand but not James Martineau's. Compare the transcripts by Robert C. Jones in iv (below); Fifteen gatherings, untitled but concerning ethics (333 leaves plus one blank, contemporary foliation), in longhand but not James Martineau's. Compare the anonymous transcript in v (below); Twelve gatherings untitled but concerning the distinction between what is and what appears to be (268 leaves, contemporary foliation), in longhand but not James Martineau's. This is followed by a gathering completely blank except for '2' on the first page.

iv. Four volumes of transcripts of lectures by Martineau made by Robert Crompton Jones, a student at MNC, 1849-55, as follows

- a. Spinoza and Comte (irregular contemporary foliation). See iii (above).
- b. two volumes on Moral Philosophy (622 leaves foliated straight through both volumes, contemporary foliation). Compare MS. 19/ii (above).
- c. 'Notes from Lectures on Mental Philosophy delivered by Revd. James Martineau at Manchester New College, Session 1849-50' (irregular contemporary foliation). Compare MS. 20/ii (above).

v. Anonymous volume containing a longhand transcript entitled 'Ethics: Lectures delivered by James Martineau', n.d. (271 pages, contemporary pagination, plus blanks). Compare MS. 20/iii (b) (above).

vi. A volume (unfoliated, unpaginated) entitled on spine 'Lectures on Morals and their Illustration by Rev. James Martineau'; initials 'I.M.' stamped in gold on upper cover (perhaps Isabella Martineau, James's oldest surviving daughter), various dates, 1850-2, longhand transcripts.

vii. A notebook (181 pages, contemporary pagination plus blanks) containing longhand transcripts of sixteen lectures on philosophy; the opening date is given as 16 Oct. 1862 and a later lecture is dated 26 Feb. [presumably 1863]. There is no indication of the identity of either the transcriber or the lecturer; the handwriting, however, bears some resemblance to that in the two volumes in viii viii. Two volumes (236 leaves, foliated straight through both volumes, contemporary foliation) of longhand transcripts entitled 'Lectures on Mental Philosophy (4th year) delivered in Manchester New College London by James Martineau . . . Joseph Estlin Carpenter, Session 1863-4'. A pencil note on fol. 235" reads, 'These copies of Lectures are not complete, as we have no further volume. The continuation will be found in the Copy from the originals, made by Miss Gertrude Martineau, p. 458 to the end' (i.e. 20/ii, above). The second volume has a bifolium bearing what may be Martineau's shorthand loose inside the lower cover.

(below) which is that of J. Estlin Carpenter. In that case the lectures are likely to be by Martineau, as Carpenter was a student at MNC 1860-6.

MS. J. Martineau 21

Papers of children of James and Helen Martineau

i. Russell Martineau, two notebooks, the first (with Russell's signature on the flyleaf) containing 'chapters' on the division of the Hebrew scriptures, the Pentateuch, Joshua, Judges and Ruth, and Samuel; the second (unsigned) introductions to the books of Ruth, Samuel, Psalms, Genesis, Job, Isaiah, Daniel, Kings, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Habakkuk and Joel, and inaugural addresses at MNC for sessions 1867-68, 1869-70, 1872-73 (Russell taught Hebrew etc at MNC, 1857-74); pages from a Bible bound up and interleaved containing Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and The Song of Solomon (there are no notes on the interleavings of the first two but the third has what appears to be a dramatisation of the Song of Solomon, said by a note on the flyleaf to be by Russell); a volume entitled 'A Collation of three copies of the Latin Psalter printed at Mentz in 1457 (at Windsor Castle, Althorp and British Museum) ... By Russell Martineau ... 1888' (presumably his article on the Maim Psalter in Bibliographica i (1895), 308-323; there is a copy of this with the next item, a notebook with many additional loose sheets carrying on the same work with regard to the forty-two line Bible, 1455, 'generally ascribed to Gutenberg' (this also contains a letter from Bernard Quaritch to Russell, 1893, offering to sell copies of the bibliography of the Maim Psalter if Russell will have such printed); a proof copy of Russell's article on the forty-two line Bible from Bibliographica ii (1896), 333-342.

ii. Greek exercise book of Isabella Martineau, n.d.

- iii. Exercise books of Edith Martineau, 1846-85, for English, German, Geometry, Greek, Latin, French, Italian and Anatomy; also a book, probably hers, containing notes on Mark, John and part of Acts, 1857; a similar exercise book marked on cover 'Geography (deleted) 1853', but containing an extract from a sermon by Martineau and several from sermons by Thomas Sadler, 1857-78 (reversing the volume there are poems, hymns, etc.); Edith's 'birthday book', 1847-67.
- iv. Notebook containing what appears to be the beginning of a story entitled 'Paul Langley', probably by one of the children, perhaps Gertrude, 1872.
- v. Some drawings by Gertrude Martineau together with a list of her pictures, a letter to her from a gallery and a joint letter on her eightieth birthday (1917) with 305 signatures and a copy of her reply to it.

MISCELLANEOUS MANUSCRIPTS

(MSS. Misc. 1-23)

MS. Misc. 1

1 Two letters, one an invitation signed by Joseph Scrivener to the ordination of a Mr. Goode, 1782, with shorthand notes (possibly by Thomas Belsham) on the reverse (?1786); the other a letter unaddressed, of D[avid] Jones, presumably the Unitarian minister at Evesham, date torn but probably 1783, concerning a dispute between himself and 'Davis'.

2 A notebook, produced or purchased in Dublin, containing shorthand notes of three lectures (numbered 5, 6 and 7) on scientific subjects. There is no indication of writer or date (probably mid-19th century).

3 Register kept by James Drummond (1835-1918) while minister at Cross Street 1906, of Manchester College in London and Oxford.

The first part is a record of his pastorate at Cross Street, with details of attendances, pastoral visits, etc. The second part records his period as lecturer and later Principal of Manchester College in London and Oxford - lectures given, courses taken by various students, with a detailed record of the services at the College in Oxford, 1889-1906, giving date, preacher, lessons and hymns. The third part details births and baptisms at Cross Street, 1860-69 and at the College, 1871-1905. The fourth part is a similar record of marriages, 1860-1916, including two at Hampstead and one at Islington. The fifth part is likewise for funerals, 1861-1916, including that of James Martineau. Reversing the volume there are notes on philosophical subjects, some in shorthand.

4 Autograph album of Sadie E. Lewis of Pontypridd. The signatures are mostly of Unitarians, although as they are in most cases cut from letters, this does not bear out the use of the album by D. Elwyn Davies, They Thought for Themselves (1982), p. 90 to prove the 'eminence' of some of the visitors to the Pontypridd Unitarian chapel. There is also a cut signature of H.G. Wells. With the album are two loose letters: one of William Ellery Channing to a Miss Kemble, n.d. with an engraving of Channing (on the verso of which are two U.S. 2 cent stamps and the signature of one of the Solly family); and one of James Martineau to Thomas Atkins, 1882. The album was given in 1979, together with MS. Misc. 5, fols. 36-7 by Mrs G. Thomas.

The printed version and the original differ as follows: fols. 281-282" correspond to Herford, pp. 91-mid 92; then a large amount of the original appears to be missing (but printed by Herford on pp. mid 92-4th line on 95). After printing fifteen words from the top of fol. 283 Herford then omits all from there (3rd line of fol. 283) to 2nd line of fol. 284, without indicating that he has made any omission. Herford then prints (pp. 95-8) all from 3rd line of fol. 284 to 4th line of fol. 290 and ends there. The original goes to the bottom of fol. 290^v where it suddenly breaks off. The fragmentary letter was found in the Library's copy of Thomas H. Hayhurst, The Conquest of Gentleness. Memorials of Christian Church and Sunday Schools. Bury (1910), where it is referred to on p. 63.

fols. 170-88 Two anonymous sermons in Welsh on Romans 2:4 and Exodus 20:7, 1772 (also preached 1773, 1775, and in the case of the second 1777 also), with list of 'books lent', 1809 on an outside bifolium

Eliminating those from whom she received letters while on the tour, it seems likely that the diarist was Laetitia, who, in 1821, married John Kenrick.

The original appears to have been kept by James Purves, minister of St. Mark's Chapel, Edinburgh, 1776-95, and presumably at the time of transcription was still in the chapel, of which Drummond was minister.

MS. Misc. 4

Miscellaneous manuscripts, seventeenth-nineteenth centuries

fols. 1-2 Seventeenth-century confession of faith before ordination by a Mr. Bridges of Manchester, n.d.

fol. 3 'A collection of Prophecies concerning the calling of the Jews by John Owen DD, 1673', with an extract from Philip Doddridge on the same subject, the whole in a late eighteenth- or early nineteenth-century hand fols. 4-23 A small notebook containing 'The Rev. Mr. Mottershead's plain Catechism for Children Revised and published by The Rev. Mr Brocklehurst' (Joseph Mottershead was minister at Cross Street, Manchester, 1717-71, and William Brocklehurst was minister at Dean Row, 1748-86, so perhaps the manuscript is mid-eighteenth century). The Catechism was published. The British Library and Bodleian have only the fourth edition, 1809

fol. 24 Ordination certificate of Henry Moore, minister at Modbury, Devon, 1768 (the verso has been used for Victorian 'scraps')

fols. 25-50 A small notebook containing an ordination essay in Latin by Lowthion Pollock, 1779, followed (fol. 45) by 'Minutes of the Questions asked me at my Examination' (in English), same date fols. 51-2 Undated 'Outlines of a Plan suggested for strengthening the connection between his Majesty's Government and the Presbyterian Synod of Ulster' addressed to William Bruce, who was minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Belfast, 1790-1 841 (paper watermarked 1797) fols. 53-92 The remains of a notebook (no covers; many leaves loose or detached) headed at one end 'Lardner's Testimony' (text in shorthand) and at the other (fol. 92") 'Prologue to the Tragedy of Douglas by Mrs. T. Holland' (text in shorthand). Most of the contents are in shorthand, but there are also longhand notes on Stuart history, poetry, the letters of Junius, odes of Horace (in both longhand and shorthand), and the partition of Poland, 1793 (this last appears to have been written shortly after the event).

fols. 93-110 Early twentieth-century transcript of the will of Samuel Walker, 1699, followed by notes and transcripts of letters concerning his nephew Ellis Walker, said to be by Alexander Gordon, although not in his hand fols. 111-21 Notes on three sermons, by 'Mr. Dawson', 1737, 'Mr. W.', n.y., 'Mr. Lawr(?ie)', 1695. Transcribed at Bromwich, 1743', said to be in the handwriting of Sarah Savage, daughter of Philip Henry; together with two photographs of portraits of Matthew Henry and transcribed extracts from The Illustrated London News, 29 January 1927 about Philip Henry's father's account of the execution of Charles I and also about Clifford's Inn (apparently found in a life of Philip Henry presented by J.T. Gray, 1942) fols. 122-32 Various prayers, viz. 'A morning Prayer for Week-Days', 'A Prayer' with which are morning and evening prayers for week-days and a prayer preparatory to the Lord's Supper, and 'A Prayer for Lords Day morning'. Only the first is dated and the date is not very legible; it may be 1744. With these were found (fol. 130) a printed map of Norwich, a song 'Sung at Dinner in the new Concert Hall on opening it - Oct. 3, 1816' (addressed to Messrs John Taylor & Son, Norwich with a 'Bishop Stortford 32' mark) and (fol. 132) a sheet of notes about the doctrine of soul-sleep, n.d. It may be that all of these documents have some connection with the Taylor family; the hand-writing of the prayers bears some resemblance to that of John Taylor, D.D., but insufficiently so to make a positive identification.

fols. 133-44 A nineteenth-century transcript of a document headed 'Philip Mornay, Lord of Plessis, his teares for the death of his Sonne unto his wife Charlotte Baliste Englished by John Healey London - 1609...Written in Latin and in French in the collection of the meditations printed at (?)Saumur 1610-11'. Annotated 'These papers were given me by the late M. Thomas once a Professor in the University of Paris, & subsequently in exile in England in consequence of Louis Napoleon's coup d'etat. J.L.T.' On fol. 133 is a copy of a letter of John Healey to John Coventry; on fols. 134-5 is the letter of Mornay to his wife, followed by a biographical note about the son (1579-1605) which, in turn, is followed (fols. 135 -144") by 'the discourse', which appears to be incomplete.

fols. 145-57 A printed 'Preface' to Spohr's oratorio 'Das Heilands Letzte Stunden' by Edward Taylor, 1836 (fol. 145)' followed by a piece of music in marbled wrappers entitled 'The Funeral Service', n.d., bearing Edward Taylor's signature fols. 158-85 A disbound notebook (if the pagination is accurate several leaves are missing) entitled 'The social Muses' with copies of poems, all in the same hand, by poets named Jenkins, Ralph, Lowe and 'W.W.' (not Wordsworth, probably William Wood). The few poems which are dated range from 1764 to 1768 fol. 186 Lines transcribed from The Dial (July 1840). The transcriber 'A.P.' has written 'There is no initial appended to these lines'. Another hand has added 'The lines are by Ellen Hooper' fols. 187-8 Two poems (or two parts of one poem) entitled 'Nottingham Castle' in the hand of Thomas Hornblower Gill, 1859, found in a copy of his The Anniversaries (1858), presented by him to Timothy Smith Osler fols. 228-9 List of students who had studied under the Unitarian Home Missionary Board, 1855-62, with tabulated details about them, written by W.A. Sothern. There are certain differences from the relevant part of Appendix II (p. 165) in H. McLachlan, The Unitarian Home Missionary College 1854-1914 (1915). At some time the list has been torn into two parts.

fols. 230-49 'Charge to the Minister. The Gospel of the Spirit -2nd Corinthians 11,6', a sermon preached by James Drummond (and in his hand) at Denton on 1 Nov. 1879 at the induction of Lawrence Scott (some short-hand)

Thorn's sermons, n.d.; (fols. 261-77) various scraps and autographs given by Miss Kathleen Farewell Jones (see her letter and list on fols. 261-2); (fols. 278-90) other cut signatures; (fols. 291-300) scraps from the papers of Percy C. At the end is a brief list of 'Church of England Sermons'. The 'Ordinations' volume (alphabetically arranged under ordinands' names) contains notes on whose ordination it was and who preached the sermon; the sermons appear to be entirely of the eighteenth century with 1785 as the latest date. MS. Misc. 9

Papers of a group in Manchester which eventually (1856) became the Committee for the Reform of Educational Endowments, 1855-63. This organisation's aim was to press for the abolition of religious tests at Oxford and Cambridge, the opening of endowed schools to pupils of all religious persuasions or none and other measures of religious liberty in education. The moving spirit seems to have been James Heywood and the volume contains several letters from him to Richard Aspdon and Robert Brook Aspland, secretaries of the Committee. In addition there are papers about the Cambridge University Reform Bill, 1856; the confirmation by the Privy Council of the statutes of Exeter, Lincoln and Corpus Christi Colleges, Oxford, which continued to require religious tests despite what the Committee considered the intent of the University of Oxford Act of 1854; the Endowed Schools Bill, 1860; a Bill to reform the voting rights at Oxford and Cambridge, 1860; and the possible opening of fellowships at Oxford and Cambridge to non-Anglicans. In addition there are minutes of meetings of the Committee, a balance sheet, 1856-60, petitions and various printed items and press cuttings.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTEBOOKS

(MSS. Misc. Notebooks 1-24)

- 1 A commonplace book containing mostly verse. In addition to copies of poems by Thomas Moore, Mrs. Barbauld, etc. there are some by 'P. Houghton', and various Taylors. Other notes (e.g. 'A Norwich schoolboy') point to a Norwich connection and the book may well have belonged to a member of the family of Pendlebury Houghton. Most of the dated pieces were written down in the 1820s, but there are inserted items as late as 1875. Unfoliated
- 2 Anonymous notebook containing shorthand notes of lectures on English literature by John Kenrick at Manchester College, York. The paper is watermarked 1825. Contemporary foliation, 87 leaves

- 3 Notebook containing notes in longhand of lectures on Greek and Roman literature by John Kenrick at Manchester College, Manchester, taken by Robert Crompton Jones, presumably between 1849 and 1853, (Presented by Miss E. Faithful Jones). Contemporary foliation, 148 leaves bearing writing

- 4 Notebook containing mostly shorthand notes partly arranged in columns with headings such as 'Parables', 'Prophecies', 'Lessons', and partly consisting of extracts from books. Written from both ends, n.d. and with no identification of writer; some of the little longhand in the volume bears a resemblance to James Martineau's hand but a longhand quotation from Hegel on the front flyleaf and a list of 'Idiomatic Expressions' (German to English) at the reverse end are not in his hand. A recent hand has written 'J.E. Carpenter' on the flyleaf at the reverse end, although the hand is not much like his. Part contemporary foliation, 87 leaves

- 5, 6 Two small notebooks containing in shorthand what appear to be notes on lectures on 'the Israelitish System and Literature' (this title is at the beginning of the second notebook which has 'Contd. from M.S. Vol. I' added; the other book appears to be the first volume in question -see fol. 30). There is no indication of the writer's identity. A modern hand has written 'J.E. Carpenter' inside the first volume but it is too early to be his. The first notebook bears dates in September and October 1833, while the second has 'Novb. 5, 1837' inside the front cover. 55, 92 leaves

- 7 Small notebook containing two works by Martinus Urmosi, the first signed and dated 19 March 1689: 'In geere [sic] contra omnes locos controversos argumentum' and 'Destructio distinctionum, et regularum, quas Trinitarii ad errores suos confirmandos excogitarunt'. Ownership inscription of Sigismund Job de Toroczko, 1782. No pagination or foliation Given to Manchester College by Dominic Simen, 1863.

- 8 Small notebook entitled 'A new methode, or to learn easily Old Greek Language-Book ye first. Of Letters and of Syllables'. Dated at end 11 May 1724. No evidence of identity of writer. No pagination or foliation

- 9 Nineteenth-century notebook containing shorthand notes in pencil on the Old Testament, No indication of identity of writer. No pagination or foliation

- 10 A brief notebook containing a description probably written out by Sarah Bache of an engraving by James Barry of his own picture 'Elysium', the last in the series with which he decorated the walls of the Society of Arts. According to a note at the end by Lucy Toulmin Smith, 1904, the description was copied from the Society's Journal, vol. 16 (1868)' pp. 604-8. This note gives a history of the description while one at the beginning gives a history of the engraving itself. No pagination or foliation

- 11 'A Complete Concordance to the Whole Bible ... By Robert Brown', dated 1664. Brown may be the man of that name included in Calamy, but it is impossible to be sure. Contemporary pagination, iv + 880 pages

- 12 Commonplace book of Richard Bradshaw, a Royalist, 1641-79, A note by H.J. McLachlan loose inside the cover identifies him as probably the Richard Bradshaw who matriculated at Magdalen College, Oxford in 1641 aged 18. Several items in the book are connected with Dover. No pagination or foliation

- 13 Two treatises, one in French and one in English, by John Noual, a Huguenot who became Rector of Tydd St. Giles in the diocese of Ely: 'Trait6 du St. Espirit' and 'A Treatise of the New Creation', n.d. but probably written while he was Rector of Tydd, 1688 to his death in 1697. A cutting from The Christian Reformer (1859), pp. 340-2 is pasted in at the beginning of the volume and gives the background; there is also a reference to the publication of the English treatise in that journal. Given to Manchester College by R.D. Darbishire, 1902. The two items separately paginated, iv + 200 pages and ii + 80 pages

- 14 'The Fift Age of the Kirk ... from the 1300 year of our Lord until the 1600', n.d. but seventeenth-century, No indication of author. Contemporary pagination, 389 pages

- 21 A transcript of a Latin manuscript of Servetus. Loosely inserted is a letter apparently from the transcriber (signed only with initials) to Count E. Simonyi, Paris, 1865, which begins 'Herewith you receive my dear friend, Copy of Servet's MS. no. 162 Coll. Lavalliere, Bibl. Imp., which has been compared with the original and found agreeing with the same in every respect.' This letter goes into some detail about both the copying and the identity of the manuscript. Also bound into the volume is a letter of Samuel Alfred Steinthal printed in the Christian Reformer in 1860, about the history of the manuscript of Servetus's Restitutio Christianismi. This is followed by a note by Steinthal to the effect that in 1864 he examined the manuscript about which he had written in 1860 in the Bibliothèque imperiale in Paris and found that it was not that from which the Restitutio had been printed. He says that he gave instructions for this manuscript to be copied and 'the copyist did his work very well, and sent a letter with his work, which is annexed.' A further note over the names of J.E. Odgers and Lucy Toulmin Smith, 1901, says who Count Simonyi was, and states that 'this copy from the Paris Library was procured through him'. Therefore perhaps Steinthal had asked Simonyi, who, according to the Odgers-Toulmin note, lived 'in Bridgewater at the same time that Mr. Steinthal was there' to find someone in Paris to make the copy, hence the copyist's letter to Simonyi. xii leave

Sermons and Prayers

- i. Thirty-eight sermons, in uniform home-sewn booklets, written in Priestley's shorthand holograph, preached at Leeds 1767-70, including 2 n.d., one of which is also untitled. 455 leaves. (Available in modern transcriptions).

Although there is no doubt that Priestley is the author of all the sermons in this collection, which are written in his characteristic unornamented prose, using his plain but precise vocabulary, it appears that some of them grew out of an exchange of sermon outlines (headings and subheadings), between Priestley and some of his friends; Priestley has given each sermon a catalogue number, consisting of an initial followed by a numeral. Whilst the initial N may stand for number, the initials A, E, K, and S, correspond to the surnames that Priestley wrote in shorthand on the respective title-pages, identifying the originator of the sermon outline: A = John Alexander, 1736-65, a fellow Daventry student, who died before Priestley moved to Leeds; E = William Enfield, minister at Benn's Garden Liverpool, 1763-70; K = Andrew Kippis, who encouraged Priestley at Needham (Memoirs, ¶¶.41, 52, 53); S = John Seddon of Warrington. Priestley was certainly corresponding with both Alexander and Kippis, during his Needham pastorate, though he would not have met Enfield until later. Hence, it may be that the A and K sermons, as well as some lettered N, were written at Needham Market.

- 37a. The back of the above sermon booklet, ff.444 verso, 445 recto, contains a table of the numbers of 'Papists in England' (total = 68,152), enumerated by diocese. Perhaps abstracted from the Returns of Papists, published in 1767, which included all family members and servants of all ages, and years of local residence. [Catholic Record Society, Occasional Publication No. 1 (1980) Returns of Papists 1767, ed. ES Worrall]. During 1768, Priestley corresponded with Archdeacon Francis Blackburne on an apparent increase in the number of Roman Catholics (Rutt 1a, 95, 106-8; cf. Blackburne's Considerations of...the controversy between the Protestants and Papists, 1768. In his Essay on the first principles of government, 1768, Priestley argued for a full toleration of Papists: 'we should [then] be better judges of their numbers and increase' (Rutt 22, 66).]
- 38. [Perfecting holiness], 2Co 7:1; A; annotated 'Alexander'; ff.446-455.
[cover missing]

- ii. Thirteen sermons, preached at Leeds 1771-2, and in some cases later elsewhere, written longhand in uniform home-sewn booklets. The covers have been inscribed, at various times, in ink and in pencil, with dates and locations where the sermons were preached. It appears that these sermons were transcribed by an amanuensis (possible Mary Priestley) about 1770, from shorthand MSS some of which may have been composed at Needham Market. Many sermons bear alterations in Priestley's shorthand holograph. 149 leaves.
(Some sermons available in modern transcription).

{not good} [no place or date of reading]

iii Three sermons on 'The Being of God', proved from the material form of the world, from human intelligence and morality, and from the animal and rational life; n.d. Not in Priestley's hand; perhaps dating to the early eighteenth century. They have been preserved with the Priestley papers and so are retained here. 12 leaves.

iv Part of a sermon, beginning 'God being pleased to forgive the sins of Mankind ...,' n.d. Appears to be in the same hand as item iii. 2 leaves: 'Some proper expedient must be devis'd to bring men to Repentance, where they might become fit objects of the divine Mercy. No violence must be offer'd to reform moral and free Agents; only Precept, Example, Promise, and Threatening can be of use for the Purpose ...'

v-vi A sermon entitled 'On the frailty of human life,' inscribed 'transcribed in longhand from Dr Priestley's shorthand;' n.d. no indication of original transcriber. (Previously, the two folded sheets became detached, and were catalogued separately). 4 leaves.

(A modern transcription is available).

vii A sermon beginning 'We are now, my brethren, about to engage in one of those plain, easy & expressive ordinances ...' This, with minor editing, is the same sermon, and written in a similar hand, as that included within the letter n.d. [1791] from William Wood to Priestley (infra MS Priestley 2.i, fol. 1). 4 leaves. The sheets used for this item, and for item viii, and for a letter from William Wood to Priestley (MS. Priestley 2/i, fol. 1), have the same watermark: the name 'Buttanshaw', and the emblem of a mounted Saint George, within a roundel, ensigned with the imperial crown; suggesting that the copy of the sermon (Priestley 1.vii) and the Prayers before sermons (Priestley 1.viii) originated with William Wood at Leeds.

viii 'Prayers Before Sermons,' in five gatherings, numbered '1 & 2', '3, 4, 5'; '6 & 7'; '8 & 9'; '10 & 11'; and one fragment of a prayer followed by a complete prayer. The only year dates appear to be 1787 and 1788. 112 leaves.

No.3 has the inscribed dates: ‘Oct 7’, ‘Jan 27’, ‘OM [Old Meeting Birmingham] Feb 1 88’, suggesting Sundays 7 Oct 1787; 27 Jan 1788, and Friday 1 Feb 1788. No. 11 is inscribed ‘New M, Easter.’

The fifth gathering, ff.109-12, appears detached, and comprises a fragment of a similar Prayer, followed by a complete Prayer before sermons, which appear to be written in Priestley’s holograph, in one place annotated ‘do. OM July ’88’

At the top of each of the prayers is a short pencil inscription in Rich’s shorthand, being the word ‘copied’, or phrases such as ‘both these are copied.’ The same inscription appears in the Communion addresses, MS Priestley 2.iv, suggesting a commonality of use. It is not clear whether these inscriptions were added before or after the 1791 Birmingham Riots. (Rich’s shorthand was used by Radcliffe Scholefield and John Coates, of the Old Meeting). Three versions of the Lord’s Prayer have been written f.1 verso, f.10 verso, f.64, the first two in Priestley’s shorthand holograph, the third in Priestley’s longhand. The variant clauses being:

‘Our Father who is in heaven, ... thy will be done on earth ... forgive us our sins, as we forgive them that sin against us; ...’;

‘Our Father who is in heaven, ... thy will be done on earth ... Give us day by day our daily bread, ... for thine is the Kingdom, and the power, and the glory, ...’;

‘Our Father who is in heaven, ... thy will be done on earth Give us day by day our daily bread, ... as we forgive those who trespass against us ... thine is the Kingdom, power, and glory, ...’; respectively.

Hymn

- ii Holograph of hymn by Priestley entitled 'For the Charity Sermon,' followed by notes on its provenance, suggesting the date as c.1790. 7 leaves. (A modern transcription is available). Possibly written for the Protestant Dissenting Charity School, 'but rejected as not good enough' [Alexander Gordon, DNB (London, 1885-1900)]; and not included in Psalms and hymns for the use of the New Meeting in Birmingham (Birmingham, 1790). Printed in The Disciple (Belfast, 1881), p.151. Presented to the library by Rev ES Howse. 7 leaves.

Notebooks

- iii A small notebook, entitled on the cover: 'Notes on the scriptures,' bound in marbled-paper- covered boards, written almost entirely in Priestley's holograph shorthand. Priestley first used the book, perhaps at Warrington, to commence a naïve and quickly abandoned chronology of historical events, discoveries, and inventions, largely abstracted from Bernard de Montfaucon, A collection of regal and ecclesiastical antiquities of France (2 vols. London, 1750), and the first edition of Adam Anderson's An Historical and chronological deduction of the origin of commerce (2 vols. London, 1764). At a later date Priestley used the numerous blank pages to compile notes and a paraphrase on Acts 19-28, 1-Thessalonians, and James, later published in Notes on all the books of scripture (4 vols. Northumberland [PA], 1803-4); Rutt vols 11-14. The published text shows very few revisions from this shorthand draft; amendments that are made, such as changing 'from sin and wickedness to virtue and holiness,' into

‘from vice to virtue’ [Acts 26:18], seem to be for the sake of precision rather than polish.

Priestley originally wrote Notes and a paraphrase on the whole of the New Testament, about 1790-91, whilst at Birmingham. He employed an amanuensis three hours a day to transcribe them, and was ‘within five days of having the whole fairly transcribed for the press,’ when the material was destroyed during the Birmingham Riots (Priestley’s Appeal [London, 1791], pp.36-7; Rutt, 19, 380). This notebook appears as rare survivor from that period.

(A transcript of the Chronology, and comments on the Notes, is available).

- iv Notebook containing communion introductions and prayers by Priestley, most of which were subsequently published, with significant textual differences, in Priestley’s Forms of prayer, and other offices, for the use of Unitarian Societies (Birmingham, 1783). The contents appear to be a fair copy, perhaps made for the printer by an amanuensis; originally separate sheets, which were sewn, trimmed and bound, perhaps after surviving the riots of 1791.
The first address is annotated in pencil, ‘May ’93’, suggesting a later use, perhaps by John Edwards, minister to the New Meeting Birmingham at that time. Ffep and first four free leaves verso, also have a form of service for Holy Communion, written in ink and pencil, in Priestley’s shorthand holograph. This is also printed in Forms of prayer (1783). 82 leaves. (A transcript of the shorthand text is available).
- v A notebook entitled ‘Annet’s Shorthand’ on the upper cover. The first page bears the date 1790, Priestley’s signature, and the signature of J Bradley, who may have been the amanuensis engaged by Priestley to transcribe his shorthand writings. Imperfect contemporary pagination of first 36 sheets ([i, ii], 1-68).
Sheets 36v to 50v, comprise a series of twice-daily prayers, Sunday morning through Saturday evening, written in Priestley’s shorthand holograph. These prayers are taken from Samuel Merivale’s Daily devotions for the closet (London, 1783), with some paragraphs omitted, and some deliberate editing, such as adding ‘continually’ to the clause ‘For the many temporal mercies thou art continually bestowing upon me.’ (Prayer for Sunday evening). The shorthand concludes with a decorative flourish and the monogram ‘JP 1790’. The remaining sheets are blank. 64 leaves.
- vi Another notebook entitled ‘Annet’s Shorthand’ on the upper cover. 21 leaves.
- vii Priestley’s sermon case, bearing the date ‘April 14. 1777’, with a note of identification by Alexander Paterson, 1825, and two letters of Marion Paterson to LP Jacks, 1922.
- viii A copy on CD Rom and a printout of the inventory of items lost and damaged due to the attack on the Priestley house by the Birmingham mob.

RADICE FAMILY PAPERS

(MSS. Radice 1-59)

Evasio Radice (1794- 1855) married Maria Hutton (1795- 1871). They had two children, Albert Hampden (1836- 19 16) and Fiorenza Nina (1841-1866). Albert married in 1865 his second cousin Adele Visetti (1847-1917) and they had five sons, Evasio, Charles, Alfred, William and Fulke. The genealogical tables at the end of Fulke Radice's The Radice Family (1979) should be consulted (the volume is, unfortunately, not indexed). The papers in this collection concern all three generations as described above.

Papers concerning Evasio and Maria Radice and their generation

1. A volume containing Evasio's diary in the U.S.A. and Mexico, 1828-29 (in Italian); followed by (reversed) his diary (in English and Italian) for 1845-54; followed by his diary for 1829-30 (in Italian), followed by his diary (in English) for 1840-52 (there is apparently a certain amount of overlapping). There are several documents loosely inserted, mostly connected with the death of Nina, 1866. See below.

- 2 A volume, the front portion of which is taken up with household accounts for various dates in the period 1823-37 (with one note about 1818); followed by 'Notes of Medical Lectures attended 1st December 1840 to 19th June 1841 by Evasio] and translations from the German begun 21st Feb. 1842.' At least the first of these is from Schiller. They are followed by pieces on classical art, but whether these are also translations is not clear. From the other end of the volume are more accounts, 1823-37.
- 3 A volume containing a summary of Evasio and Maria's family activities, 1843- 52, written by Maria; this includes several letters of Albert Hampden Radice as a child (in English) and one of Alberto (her brother-in-law) to Maria (in Italian).
- 4 A volume containing notes on Evasio and Maria's family activities, Jan. 1853 - Feb. 1862 and again for 1866 (with a retrospect to 1864-65). Written by Maria.
- 5 Letters of Evasio Radice to Elizabeth Bruce of Dublin, 1853-54, chiefly about the Vaudois; a letter to Evasio from T. Revel, Vaudois Modérateur, 1853; an appeal (in English) for a proposed orphanage and industrial school for Vaudois children (see Fulke Radice's book, pp. 290-1 and chapter xlv generally and the Bruce genealogy at the end of the book).
- 6 A packet containing inter alia: a visiting card of Evasio; photographs of Maria; two letters of Evasio, one to Thomas Martineau, 1822 and one probably to his widow, 1827 (in English); typescript copies of Evasio letters, 1848 (in Italian); Notes and Queries, 12 April 1924 containing 'A Glimpse of Italy in 1848' by F.R. Radice, which is mainly a copy of a letter of Evasio to Thomas Hutton, 8 April 1848; several copies of some typewritten extracts from the diary of Maria Fitzgerald (1810-92), 1829-31, containing references to Evasio; a notebook containing 'A Record of Evasio Radice' written probably by Maria (cf. MS J. Martineau 16/v for a similar item); some correspondence 1976, about the history of modern language teaching at Trinity College, Dublin, with a copy of an article by C.S. Lonergan on 200 years of modern language studies there (Evasio taught there).
- 7 A packet containing various items about Evasio and his children as follows: 'Rough copy of my Mother's memories of my Father's life, written by her after his death' (i.e. Maria Radice's memorial of Evasio); 'rough copy of Short Memoir of my beloved Evasio, written for distribution amongst his nearest friends; and taken from the longer one written for our Children' (i.e. Maria's abridgement of the above); 'Rough copy of my Angel child's life - Fiorenza Nina Radice' (i.e. Maria's account of Nina's life. Compare with the bound volume labelled 'F.N.R. ' - see below); fragmentary typescript of the autobiography of Albert Hampden Radice for 1837-44 (at the former date he was one) (compare items below); what appears to be a draft of part of a novel, n.d. (all the foregoing are in English); a poem, 1857 (?) to Nina (in Italian).

- 8 Hutton family letters (see the genealogies at the end of Fulke's book), 1818-68, including: several to and from Nerissa (Hutton) Heron and her father, Charles Hutton (brother of Maria Radice). There are letters between the two of them (especially when Charles was in Naples, 1853-54); and from them to Nerissa's brother, Maxwell, who went to New Zealand in 1852. There are also letters from him on the voyage and after arrival. Also included are four letters from Rachel Ann Martineau to Charles Hutton, 1838-40, n.d. and two from James Martineau, one to Charles Hutton, 1838 and one to Nerissa Heron, 1868. There is a rough list made by Fulke Radice in the box.

Papers concerning Albert Hampden Radice and his sister Fiorenza Nina Radice

- 9, 10 Two uniform volumes containing fair copies of Albert's autobiography (in English) covering the first nine years of his life (see the Introduction to Fulke's book), Albert's diary (in English) for 1853-57 (but no entries for part of 1855 or any for 1856).
- 12 Albert's letter-book, 1861-62, containing copies of letters written by him (some in English, some in Italian), many to his sister, Nina and some to his mother, Maria (at times when they were in England or Ireland), but also to other members of the family (e.g. the Visettis. Evasio's brother, Alberto, had a daughter Ernesta, who married Carlo Visetti; their daughter, Adele, eventually married her second cousin, Albert Hampden Radice) and other more general letters (e.g. to the editor of The Times). The copies are on flimsy paper and those in the early part of the volume (i.e. reading from the back) are very faint.
- 13 A new addition and what appears to be Albert's letter-book, 1887 – 89
- 14 Volume containing Nina's journal (in English), 1 Jan. 1853 -August 1854 followed by a 'Sketch of my life before the Journal opens.'

- 15 Volume containing some verses, either by (or collected by) Nina in 1859 (in English).

NB 16 and 17 moved to 23

- 18 A letter of Albert to his wife Adele, 1877, 4 letters of Adele to Albert, 1877 (while he was visiting Florence - see Fulke's book pp. 419-22) and single letters to Albert from his sons, Evasio and Charles, 1877 (the boys' letters are in English, the others in Italian).

Papers concerning more distant members of the family in the nineteenth century, and friends

- 19 Carlo Visetti's Ischia diary, 1874-78. Carlo Visetti married Ernesta Radice, Albert's cousin. His daughter was Adele (Adelaide Teresa) who married Albert her second cousin (see the genealogical tables at the end of Fulke's book and also pp. 408, 412 and 418).
- 20 Diary of Carlo Visetti, 15 Sept. - 12 Oct. 1878 (in Italian). Loosely inserted are some verses (in English), annotated (?by Fulke) 'Handwriting of Carlo Visetti senior.'
- 21 Typescript notes (in Italian) on the life of Giuseppe Giglioli (1804-65) (the Gigliolis were friends and business associates of the Radices).
- 22 A 'life' of Italo Giglioli (1852-1920) (mostly in English), reproduced from typewriting.

Letters between Albert and Adele, their five sons and their families

(See the genealogical tables at the end of Fulke's book). Most of the letters are between the parents and their sons (usually in Italian), four of whom served in India. There are also some letters between the sons and some letters between the parents-in-law and the sons' wives (these are in English), 1901-12, 1916. For the years 1901, 1902 and 1903 lists detailing each letter have been compiled and placed with the packets. These, it is hoped, will enable the reader to identify the writers and recipients, even for the years that have not been listed.

- 23 1901 - March 1902

- 23i Volume containing Maria's account of the first nine years of Nina's life (in English), includes letters from Nina, 1849 and Mrs. C. Turner, at whose school she was staying (see chapter xliii of Fulke's book, esp. pp. 255-6).

(MSS. Savage 1-5)

Notebooks mostly compiled by Sarah Savage (1664-1752), oldest daughter of Philip Henry. See also MS. Misc. 4, fols. 111-6.

1 Transcripts (in longhand) of sermons preached by her father at Broad Oak, Flintshire, 1683-64, At the end of the 'index' she has written 'All these sermons Preached by Mr. Henry at Broad Oak in ye years 1683 & 1684 & wrote by mee S.H. tho' poorly'. Another hand has added 'Vol. 1 succeeded by another in the following year' and at the end 'Continued in a second vol: beginning Jan. 1685'.

This volume, however, is not present. At the beginning of the volume before the 'index' is a transcript of a sermon of Sept. 1700 not in Mrs. Savage's hand; the preacher is not named. Contemporary pagination, 386 pages

2 'A Help to singing of Psalms in Familyes as a part of daily worship', 1674, a collection of Psalms versified in English, in Mrs. Savage's hand. No pagination or foliation

4 Extracts from Sarah Savage's diary, 1 Jan. 1724 - 4 Dec. 1745. The name 'S. Brett' appears on the title page (and there is a reference to 'Mr. Brett' in the last extract from the diary); he may have been the transcriber. Contemporary pagination, ii + 319 pages

5 Summaries of sermons preached in Presbyterian chapels in Cheshire, 22 July 1732 - 8 Feb. 173516 (one of 6 Sept. 1733 at end of volume reversed). A note by Sir J.B. Williams before the first sermon reads 'This vol. is in the hand-writing of Mrs. Savage whose life I wrote J.B.W. 1830'. The volume contains the bookplate of Thomas Tylston Greg. A note near the beginning of the volume states that one of Sarah's sisters, Katharine, married John Tylston (1664-99). The volume was presented to Manchester College by J. T[ylston] Greg. fol. 232 Undated letter from his wife Sarah. A copy from a collection at Warrington.

MSS. Seddon 2, 3

Two volumes of lectures on oratory by Seddon given at Warrington 'on Dr. Priestley's leaving the Academy', therefore presumably 1767-68. These (and 4 and 5 below) are mentioned in The Monthly Repository viii (1813), p. 290 where it refers to 'three' quarto volumes instead of four, perhaps because MSS. Seddon 2 and 3 are foliated straight through. It says that the 'volumes, fairly written out by himself were 'placed in the library after his death, and' continue 'to form a part of the library at York'. These two volumes are described as 'the second set of lectures' (MS. Seddon 6 being the first) by H. McLachlan in his Warrington Academy (1943), p. 66.

MSS. Seddon 4, 5

Two volumes of lectures by Seddon on language. The first bears the same annotation as MS. 2 (above). These volumes are mentioned in The Monthly Repository (see above) and are described (as 'the third set of lectures') by McLachlan op cit, pp. 66-7.

MS. Seddon 6

A volume made up of eighteen separate notebooks containing lectures by Seddon on theological and philosophical subjects. The notebooks are numbered but they are not in numerical order and, assuming that there was once a continuously numbered sequence, a lot are not here, n.d. [?1767-69] McLachlan, up cit. p. 66. Some of the notebooks appear to begin in mid- sentence. This volume bears an inscription recording that it was given by Henry Arthur Bright to Renshaw Street Chapel, Liverpool in 1857.

SHORTHAND KEYS

(MSS. Shorthand 1-9)

The volumes in this group had been collected together under the heading 'Shorthand keys'. As will be seen, however, some are not 'keys', but simply volumes written in shorthand (the later ones in Rich's shorthand as modified by P. Doddridge).

1 A volume of notes of sermons taken down by Thomas Dickenson in shorthand, 1692-96. At the beginning and end are lists of dates, names of preachers and texts. The text is on alternate pages from either end. Loosely inserted is a 'Key to the shorthand in the volume of notes of sermons made by Thos. Dickenson in 1692-1696' apparently compiled by Robert Travers Herford in 1895. Inserted in this is a letter to 'Mr. Steinthal' (presumably Samuel Alfred), 6 July 1894, from Francis English Millson, describing the provenance of the volume and presenting it to the Cross Street, Manchester, Chapel library.

2 Notebook with marbled cover and green spine. Inside the front cover is written 'Samuel Greg Oct. 1821'. The book contains copies of letters in shorthand, 1820-25 written from Bristol, 'Q.B. ' (presumably Quarry Bank, Styal, Cheshire), Manchester and Edinburgh. Most of the letters seem to be between members of the Greg family (some are signed by Samuel), but there is also one headed 'J.M.S. S.G. Derby March 8th 1822', which is presumably from James Martineau. One of 16 May 1823 is headed 'Dr. C. ', so may be to Lant Carpenter. A typed transcript into longhand, made in 1963, accompanies this volume.

At a later date the volume has been reversed and the blank pages used for a 'Milk and Butter account Lee Hall, February 1888' (this, in fact, extends from then until the end of 1890).

3 Notebook, bearing the signature of 'Helen Higginson [Mrs. James Martineau] Derby' on the inside of the front cover, containing an alphabet and key words with their shorthand equivalents. There is also a section (in longhand) headed 'Remarks'. The volume is undated but obviously before 18 Dec, 1828 (the date of her marriage).

4 A notebook of Rich's shorthand compiled by Lant Carpenter (with his signature). Given by W.H. Herford to R.D. Darbishire in memory of P.P. Carpenter. Inserted is a letter of presentation to Manchester College from Darbishire, n.d. [?1903].

The notebook has been interleaved but all the inserted leaves are blank.

5 Black-bound notebook in shorthand probably written by James Martineau. Written from both ends. From the front end are shorthand notes on lectures apparently on classical subjects, followed by notes on various types of classical poetry (epic, lyric, etc.), drama and prose works. From the rear end are shorthand notes, written in poetic form, with headings such as 'Backwoodsman', 'Home', followed by notes on Hallam's History of Europe; then 3 pages with headings that indicate that they were intended to list book titles, but only the one dated 30 Sept. 1855 bears any entries; the two following, although headed 'Philosophical Books of the Quarter Sep. 30 - Dec.'55' and 'Theological Books of the Quarter Sep. 30 -Dec.'55' are otherwise blank. The whole middle part of the volume is blank.

6 Exercise book dated 'July 18th 1856' with an inserted note signed 'E.M. Chattle' which says 'This book contains a system of short-hand' which possibly may be that used by Dr. Martineau. Only 3 leaves bear writing, mostly of key words with their shorthand signs.

7 Two brief keys, one with only 3 leaves bearing writing, the other more detailed, both in the usual form with alphabet and key words, but neither signed nor dated (the paper is not date water-marked).

8 Printed: Rich's Short-Hand Improved by Dr. Doddridge. Edited By The Revd. S. Wood, B.A. (London, 1830). With a presentation inscription to the library of Manchester College, York 'by the Editor -London, Jany. 7th. 1830'.

9 Photocopy of two pages of shorthand, Sept. 1748. from the City of Stoke-on-Trent Public Museums & Art Gallery.

See also MS Priestly 2, v and vi for Annet's shorthand.

fols. 1-20 Notebook 'bound' in brown paper with 'John Tayler 1811 ' on the cover (although some of the pieces in it are dated 1809 and 1810) containing several poems presumably of Tayler's composition and translations from Ovid's Metamorphoses.

fols. 77-107 Fourteen prayers. The only ones dated are 1825 fols. 108-121 'Letters & Memorials to Rev. J. Jas. Tayler 1832, 1835'. There are three letters (or memorials): fols. 1 13-4 from 'the younger members' of the congregation of Tayler's chapel in Moseley Street, Manchester; fols. 115-6 from the 'children of your congregation', both dated January 1832 when it seems that Tayler had thought of giving up his pastorate there; and fols. 119-20 from the congregation of the same chapel in 1835 welcoming his return from Germany. The last is accompanied by a letter to him from Robert Nicholson. These papers were given to Manchester College by Robert Dukinfield Darbishire and there is a letter from him to James Drummond, 1904 at fol. 111.

MSS. Taylor 1-16

[Available as digitised copies]

Papers of, or relating to, Dr. John Taylor (1694-1761), Unitarian minister at Kirkstead, 1715-33 and Norwich, 1733-57 and Divinity Tutor at Warrington Academy, 1757-61, author and also compiler of the Norwich Psalmody (publ. 1750). Comparing the handwriting in these notebooks with the only other Taylor document so far located (a letter of 1744 at MS. Misc. 3, fol. 45) it appears that, unless Taylor employed two distinct hands, parts of MSS. 1, 9, 10 and 11 were written down by someone else.

- 1 Notes on Genesis, n.d. (the first and last leaves are missing). Appears to be in more than one hand. Label from spine (loose in volume) says 'M.S. Dr. Taylor Vol. 1' Pagination 3-47 only; the rest of the volume unpaginated
- 2 Notes on Exodus, n.d. Appears to be in Taylor's hand. No pagination or foliation
- 3 Notes on Leviticus, n.d. (only 'Julij lmo' on first page). Probably one leaf missing at end as are the upper and lower covers. Appears to be in Taylor's hand. No pagination or foliation

- 5 Notes on Judges and Ruth (Ruth is dated 1721). Appears to be in Taylor's hand. A label stuck inside the upper cover says 'M.S. Dr. Taylor Vol. 2' (see MSS. 1 above and 8 below) No pagination or foliation

- 6 Notes on I Samuel, n.d. Appears to be in Taylor's hand. No pagination or foliation
- 7 Notes on II Samuel, 'Feb. 20th 1721/22' at beginning; 'April 6th 1722' at end. Appears to be in Taylor's hand. No pagination or foliation

- 11 Notes on Joshua 17-19, followed by funeral and other sermons, as follows: on Revelation 14:13 preached originally 29 Oct. 1740 and re-used 2 Nov 1740 and 22 March 1752; on II Timothy 1:12, 24 Jan. 1747/8; James 1:17, n.d.; II Timothy 4:7, 8, 5 Nov. 1754; Isaiah 40:4, 7, 8, 27 Aug. 1749; 'a charge at ye ordination of Mr Jones of Cambridge July 15. 1756'. - 14 Volume containing 'A Collection of Tunes In various Airs adapted to Psalms taken out of Dr Watts's Imitation of David's Psalms With a Scheme for supporting the Spirit and Practice of Psalmody in Congregations, to which are prefixed Instructions in the Art of Psalmody in a natural and easy Method. Mr. Smithson By J Taylor, D.D. 1755', which, in turn, is followed by five printed works, three of them by Taylor and one a sermon on his death by E. Harwood, 1761. No pagination or foliation

MS. Taylor 19

[Available as a digitised copy.]

A document written on two gatherings of four and eight leaves respectively. Where items are dated, the dates range from 1746 to 1756. The contents are as follows:

fol. 1 A monetary sum of addition with dates (1755-56) and verses headed 'Richard' and 'John'

fol. 1^v On the left side is the conclusion of a prayer ('amassing the perishing riches of this world') which begins on fol 2'. On the right side are more verses headed 'John' and 'Richard'

fol. 2 On the left side is a passage beginning 'Whereas at a meeting'. This was convened to agree to the raising of a loan to finish the 'N.C. ' (?New Chapel). Comparing the list of names given here with the dates of other pieces in the manuscript this seems likely to have been the Octagon Chapel at Norwich. Amongst the names are Martineau, Maltby and Finch and 'Rev. Mr. Taylor' has been inserted. Also a drawing of flowers fol. 2^v A prayer beginning 'O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is Thy Name', the conclusion of which is in fol. 1' (above)

fol. 3 A paragraph headed 'The Commemorating of our Lord and Saviour', followed by a prayer ('May it be our daily study') fol. 3^v Two pieces, the left-hand one of which appears to be complete ('May wh. we have heard'). The right-hand one seems to end on this folio but the beginning is indistinct. Both appear to be sermons or homilies rather than prayers fol. 4 On the left-hand side a fragment about the Israelites crossing the Red Sea, followed by a verse headed 'The Bell-Tolling Oct: 12. 1746' and another untitled verse. On the right-hand side is what appears to be a complete prayer fol. 4^v Two short pieces, the first a prayer, the second headed 'Teach me the measure of my days'. (Here what was the first page of the second gathering has been torn out and only a fragment remains. It appears to be a shopping list and has not been foliated)

fol. 5 Prayers headed 'Divine Goodness celebrated June 14. 1747' and drawings of leaves and flowers and exercises in penmanship

fol. 5^v A continuation of 'Teach me the measure of my days' from fol. 4' (above)

fol. 6^r Further continuation of the same fol. 6^v Conclusion of same, followed by a (?)sermon headed 'June 1751', beginning 'The first moves in ye affair of Redemption'

fol. 7 Continuation of the last-named fol. 7^v Perhaps a new sermon, beginning 'Our Lord was sent by the Father' fol. 8 At the extreme right-hand side is a continuation of the last-named. On the left are verses headed 'May 1755', beginning 'To God our chearful voice we raise'. These end with the date 'May 18th. 1755'

fol. 8^v Continuation of 'Our Lord was sent by the Father' (fols. 7' and 8)

fol. 9 Verses headed 'June 8. 1755', beginning 'This Day I've heard ye Gospel's sound'

fol. 10 Sermon beginning 'The allwise God having in these latter Days'

- fol. 10^v Prayer headed 'Oct: 1747'
- fol. 11 Continuation of the sermon from fol. 10
- fol. 11^v Sermon, beginning 'The Death threatened to our first Parents'
- fol. 12^r Several Bible texts followed by a piece headed 'Table No 5' (about time)
- fol. 12^v A (?)sermon (torn at top left-hand corner) ending with the date 'May 18th 1755. Compare fol. 8.

In view of the contents of fol. 2 and the dates it is likely that this is a John Taylor document. There is an old index slip in the College which refers to a manuscript of 'eight sermons' by Taylor '[1747-1754]'. It is difficult to know how many of the pieces in this manuscript are sermons, but it seems likely that at least eight are, even if not always in complete form. This manuscript is in at least two hands, but Taylor wrote two hands and if the handwriting in other Taylor manuscripts here is his, this also could be by him as both hands here are not dissimilar to those. On balance, therefore, it has been felt best to put this document with the Taylor papers.

Papers of Henry Winder (1693-1752), minister of the chapel at Castle Hey, later removed to Benn's Garden, Liverpool, 1718-52. Accounts of Winder's life will be found in the memoir by George Benson printed in the second edition of Winder's A Critical and Chronological History of the Rise, Progress, Declension and Revival of Knowledge (1756) and, more accessibly, in the DNB and Anne Holt, Walking Together (1938), pp. 99-116. In his DNB article Alexander Gordon says that he catalogued Winder's manuscripts in 1869 but that between 1872 and 1884 the bulk of them was lost.

1. Three notebooks kept by Winder when a student at Whitehaven Academy, 1708-12
 - i. Mostly containing notes on theology, Biblical history and modern secular history
 - ii. Notes on Mathematics, 'Henry Winders's Book - Anno Domini 1710/11' written on the flyleaf
 - iii. A smaller notebook containing notes on astronomy, 1712.

In his English Education under the Test Acts (1931), p. 126, H. McLachlan describes three volumes of notes. Two are certainly ii and iii above. McLachlan's third 'contains extracts from the Fathers, and writers like Locke, Limborch, Newton, Owen, Bacon, Chillingworth and Bishop Burnet', This is presumably i above but without a detailed examination it is not possible to say.

2 'My Last Sermon preached in ye old chappel - on Wednesday June.28.1727' (i.e. the chapel at Castle Hey before the removal to Benn's Garden) by Winder. In shorthand. Accompanying it is a black notebook containing a transcription of it in longhand by Robert Travers Herford. See Holt, p. 107.

3 Loose papers comprising

- i. A letter unaddressed and unsigned (although probably by Winder), Liverpool 2 December 1723
- ii. Two sheets of statistics entitled 'The Multiplicat [sic] of Mankind from Noah's 3 Sons to ye year 239 after ye flood ...'
- iii. One sheet entitled 'A Genealogical Table of the Descents or parallel Successions of Most of ye Sovereigns [word torn away] in Greece, from ye Plantation of Greece of wch they have any History, compared with ye Hebrew Line'
- iv. One sheet of parallel columns listing rulers in different parts of the ancient world
- v. Two sheets listing poets, philosophers, historians, legislators etc. of ancient times.

The above manuscripts given to the College by the Ullet Road Unitarian Church Liverpool.

WOOD PAPERS

(MSS. Wood 1-47)

MS. Wood 1

Letters of Charles Wellbeloved (1769-1858) mainly to William Wood (1745-1808), George William Wood (1781-1843) and William Rayner Wood (1811-84), 1798- 1857; also 2 letters of his wife, AM, to G.W.W., 1808, 1816

A series of these letters, 1798-1825 (fols. i-ii, 1-70, 73-123, 126-212, 226-230, 233-249) was originally bound up by William Rayner Wood in 1863. The order in which they were bound has been retained, even though in one instance this violates strict chronological order (fols. 52-3), so that the letters to George William Wood are kept together (see W.R. Wood's note on fol. 50). The retention of the 'bound' order also means that there are letters to others besides the three Woods. This is indicated in the list below. In addition to the bound letters, there were also several loose ones. These have been interfiled with 'bound' letters and foliated accordingly (7 1-2, 124-5, 213- 225, 23 1-2, 250-328).

On fol. 249 is a note by W.R. Wood to the effect that G.W. Wood kept what he considered his and his family's general correspondence with Wellbeloved separate from that 'in the repositories of M.N. College'. That distinction has been preserved. The latter letters for the York period are mainly in MSS. Wood 6-33, but for the convenience of researchers the following list includes reference to those in their proper chronological places. There are, of course, other letters of Wellbeloved in that series, but as these are not to any of the Woods they are not included in this listing, but are indexed in the series, MSS. Wood 6-33 (so-called because the bulk of the letters is to one or other of the Woods, but in some cases letters are to other members of the College Committee, although apparently kept by the Woods).

MS. Wood 3

Letters of John Kenrick (1788-1877) to George William Wood and William Rayner Wood, 1812-77. As with the Wellbeloved letters (see MS. Wood 1 above), a series of these letters, 1812-27 (fols. 1-107, 110-5, 118-128), was originally bound up by William Rayner Wood in 1863. Other letters were also bound up at the same time but later disbound and added to a large number of letters (to W.R. Wood himself) which had apparently never been bound up. All these letters have been foliated in chronological order.

As with the Wellbeloved letters (see W.R. Wood's note on fol. 249 of MS. Wood 1) G.W. Wood (and to some extent W.R. Wood also) kept what he regarded as his general correspondence with Kenrick separate from that 'in the repositories of M.N. College'. As in the case of the Wellbeloved letters that distinction has been preserved. The latter letters for the York period are mainly in the series MSS.

Wood 6-33, but (again as in the case of the Wellbeloved letters) the following list includes reference to these in their proper chronological places. Letters of Kenrick in the series MSS. Wood 6-33 which are to others apart from the Woods are not included in this listing, but are indexed in the series MSS. Wood 6-33.

MS. Wood 4

A small group of letters separated by George William Wood from what is now MSS. In addition two others on the list do not appear to be present (Turner to Robinson, 8 Jan. 1819 and Kenrick to Robinson, 14 Jan. 1819). The letters are as follows

MS. Wood 5

63 letters of William Rayner Wood (lay student at Manchester College, York, 1829-31) to his parents, George William Wood and Sarah Wood, 1829-31, 34. 121 leaves

MSS. Wood 6-33

Manchester College, York, papers, 1814-40. Letters received by George William Wood in his capacity as Treasurer of the College, 1808-43. Many are merely notes enclosing financial subscriptions to the College, but a significant number contain more general comment. The letters of Charles Wellbeloved and John Kenrick in this series are listed together with their letters to Wood and his son and successor as Treasurer, William Rayner Wood (see description of MSS. Wood 1 & 3), but are kept physically here and indexed under MSS. Wood 6-33. See also MS. Wood 4 for further letters of 1817-9 kept apart by G.W. Wood from this series. Although G.W. Wood was Treasurer from 1808, this series starts only in 1814 (nothing before that date has been located).

MSS. Wood 34-44

Manchester College, Manchester (second period) papers, 1841-52. William 332 Rayner Wood succeeded his father, George William Wood, who died in 1843, as Treasurer of the College. W.R. Wood resigned that office in 1852, the year before the College moved from Manchester to London, and so from 1853 onwards the papers can no longer be designated as 'Wood Papers'. In any case, as with the 1840 papers, a good deal of secretarial correspondence as well as that of the Treasurer, was preserved in this period.

MSS. Wood 45, 45*

Letter-book of George William Wood, Treasurer of Manchester College, York, inscribed inside the front cover 'Sundry letters of thanks for Collections and benefactions July 24 1809 -letter to Saml Shore Junr Esq. Dec. 17 1808' [this is, in fact, loose inside the cover of the volume. The copy letters comprising 'fol. 1' are also loose there]. With the letter-book is a separate volume (MS. Wood 45*) labelled 'Index to Letterbook MCY' [Manchester College, York]. This is divided alphabetically by the home town (perhaps in some cases home church) of the addressee and then by names of the addressees. The 'folio' numbers given in this index against each addressee's name are found on the left hand pages to which they relate. Many of the copy letters are very faint and difficult -in some cases, impossible- to read.

A few copies inserted inside the back cover do not seem to appear in the index.

The period covered (apart from the one 1808 letter) is 1809-33.

MS. Wood 46

Letter-book of George William Wood and William Rayner Wood (his son and Deputy Treasurer of Manchester College, York), inscribed on the binding 'Manchester College York Letterbook B'. A few copies are, in fact, from officials or officers of the College other than the Woods, e.g. Richard Aspden and Samuel Dukinfield Darbshire. There are also some copy letters from John Touchet, Chairman of Committee, 1834-36, 1837-38. There is no index to this volume. The period covered is 1833-40.

See note above at the end of the description of MS. Wood 2 about copy letters in these two letter-books to Charles Wellbeloved.

MS. Wood 47

Additional Wood items found later, include:

fol. 1 Letter of John Grundy to George William Wood, 1835

fol. 3 Note about a Manchester New College prize, n.d. (on back of an 1835 printed item)

RICHARD WRIGHT PAPERS

(MSS. Wright 1-14)

Papers of Richard Wright (1764-1836), Unitarian minister at Wisbech, 1794- 1810; travelling missionary, 1806-22; minister at Trowbridge, 1822-27; minister at Kirkstead, 1827-36

Sermons

1 A volume entitled 'Notes of Sermons and Miscellaneous Remarks, 1790'. Some of the remarks take the form of extended commentaries on passages of scripture. There are also some poems, and on p. 225 commences a draft of 'The History of Priestcraft', 1793. The volume is paginated; the pagination appears to be accurate up to p. 315. This is followed by p. 317, while '316' appears on the right-hand page; there are then two '318s', before the correct pagination resumes. From p. 331 on, the pagination is supplied. 365 pages

2 A volume containing (from one end) two sermons, followed (after a number of stubs bearing writing) by 'Materials for Sermons'. From the other end (where there is at least one leaf missing), following what appear to be two sermons there is a lengthy discourse on crime and punishment (the first leaf may also be connected with this) including copies of two letters about capital punishment beginning 'My Lords', apparently transcribed from the Annual Review for 1805, There are otherwise no dates in the volume. Unpaginated

3 A copy of the New Testament (Cambridge, 1827) containing on the preliminary leaves a 'Sermon for New Years Day, 1835' and then on interleavings throughout the volume sermons as near as possible to the New Testament passages to which they relate; some have titles, others are headed simply by the text on which they are based. There are occasional indications of the place where preached (or usually repeated), normally Kirkstead in 1835-36. The sermon on Luke 4:18 'last clause' is called 'Sermon for the slave emancipation', so it is presumably of 1832 or 1833. 311 pages of printed text, fully interleaved

Hymns

4 A volume bearing the title 'An Account of my Proceedings from the commencement of my Ministry at Kirkstead; with Various Miscellaneous Matters. Richard Wright. November 1827'. In fact only pp. 1-9, 28-30, 36, 110, 171 and 243 bear autobiographical details. The rest of the volume (as a note by Wright of 1828 on p. 2 states) is filled with hymns of his composition and with notes about texts and subjects of sermons with the sizes of the congregations which heard them. 373 pages

5 'Evangelical Hymns for Public Worship and Religious Instruction ... By Richard Wright, 1828', with a preface dated 'Tattershall December 19, 1828.' There is a list of different categories of hymns on p. 323. 6 + 323 pages bearing writing; the rest blank

7 At one end 'Scripture Paraphrases', followed by poems; at the other 'Hymns &c', dated variously in 1830 and 1831. 128 pages numbered from the front; 29 from the back, several blanks between the two sections

Book manuscript

Doctrine', etc.; from the other mainly 'An Introduction to the Life of Servetus', followed by 'Materials for and Plans & Notes of Sermons'. Unpaginated

The Doctrine of the pre-existence of Christ ...', followed by 'The Coming of Christ'; from the other some geometrical figures followed by 'An Attempt to Answer the Question Why are we Dissenters Being the substance of Discourses Delivered First at Fleet in Lincolnshire Afterwards at Wisbech by R. Wright 1800.' Unpaginated

APPENDIX

THE MANUSCRIPTS OF WILLIAM SHEPHERD

By
Francis Nicholson and Ernest Axon¹²

¹² Extracted from the Transactions of the Unitarian Historical Society, Vol. II, no. 4, 1902.

William Shepherd was the son of William Shepherd, a master shoemaker in Liverpool, and a freeman of the borough, and of his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Benjamin Mather, of Over Danven. He was born in Thomas Street, Liverpool, on 11 October, 1768. His father dying in 1771, leaving his widow in poor circumstances, young Shepherd was adopted by his maternal uncle, the Rev. Tatlock Mather, Nonconformist minister of Rainford, who placed him first at a dame school in Rainford, and afterwards at the school at Bolton kept by the Rev. Philip Holland.

The uncle died in 1785, leaving his small fortune to his sister, Mrs. Shepherd, who with some self-denial managed to provide for her son's education at Daventry Academy until the Rev. Richard Godwin, of Gateacre, obtained for him a foundation scholarship in that institution. In 1788 he removed to New College, Hackney, and in 1790 left the college and became tutor to the children of the Rev. John Yates, of Liverpool. In this family he lived until his marriage in 1792, and there he made many friends, such as William Roscoe, Dr. Currie and Dr. Percival, who were to influence his later life. There also he met his future wife, Frances Nicholson. In 1791 he accepted the appointment of minister at Gateacre Chapel, where he remained for the rest of his life. At Gateacre he conducted a very successful private school for boys.

In a life outwardly so uniform and unexciting, Dr. Shepherd managed to have many interests, and to make his mark in many directions. His friendship with William Roscoe probably led to his taking an interest in Italian literature, and to his writing the "Life of Poggio," which was at once recognized as a valuable work, and was translated into Italian, and still remains the standard life of that divine and humanist. Ultimately the "Life of Poggio" was the ostensible reason for the honorary degree of LL.D. which Edinburgh University conferred on him in 1834. His interest in radical reform was excited early, and the imprisonment of his friends -Jeremiah Joyce, Gilbert Wakefield and Fyshe Palmer - merely strengthened his resolution to be a reformer. He was, as the son of a freeman, entitled to be a freeman of Liverpool, and taking up his freedom in 1796, he became and remained for fifty years a leader of the Liverpool reformers, ever to the fore in matters political or municipal. His political position in Liverpool brought him into contact with all the well-known reformers of his day, especially with that brilliant group of Whig lawyers, which included Lord Brougham and Lord Denman, with whom he contracted a life-long intimacy. His position in politics was due not only to his earnestness and his boldness, but to the fact that he was an exceptionally brilliant after-dinner speaker and raconteur, his friends being of opinion that if he had lived in London instead of in a provincial town he would have eclipsed Sydney Smith and other contemporaries famous in the same direction.

Shepherd died at Gateacre on 21 July, 1847, and was buried in the chapel yard. In the chapel is a memorial erected by the congregation. It consists of a bust and a marble tablet with an inscription by Lord Brougham.

Shepherd had married in 1792 Frances Nicholson, daughter of Robert Nicholson, of Liverpool, but having no children had adopted Hannah Joyce, daughter of his friend the Rev. Jeremiah Joyce. After his wife's death on 17 November, 1829, Miss Joyce looked after him with filial affection to his death. Miss Joyce then married Mr. William Ridyard, and it is to her that we owe the Shepherd collection, which she bequeathed to Mr. Thomas Ashton, of Ford Bank (father of Lord Ashton, of Hyde), by whom it was given to Manchester College, Oxford.

In arranging the papers Mrs. Ridyard seems to have made a first collection, and arranged the papers alphabetically in guard books, and then to have discovered other papers which were also inserted in the same guard books, almost haphazard, with the result that the original order had become swamped and the guard books had many more papers than they could conveniently hold.

Having had permission from the College authorities, we had intended to remove all the papers and to arrange them in one chronological series, but we found that many of the papers could not be removed without injury, and eventually we had to compromise by removing those easily removable and placing them in fresh guard books.

The index which we have prepared will overcome some of the disadvantages of the arrangement and will enable any document to be found without much trouble, and the following notes will show the general nature of the collection.

The Shepherd collection consists of twenty-six volumes (two of the "volumes" being boxes and one a parcel), containing autograph letters, miscellaneous items, and a few printed papers, and several hundred sermons mostly written in shorthand.

Volume I contains Lingard letters. There had been a literary and political friendship between Dr. John Lingard, the great Catholic historian, and Dr.

William Shepherd, the Unitarian minister, for at that time the Unitarians were almost alone amongst the dissenters in working for Catholic emancipation. When the friendship began is not clear, but it probably originated through Dr. Shepherd's neighbour, Mr. Blundell, a Catholic gentleman, who is referred to in the earliest existing letter (dated 22 March, 1824) in the series (Vol. VII, p. 23), which is not in its place at the beginning of Vol. I. Miss Joyce, who began to correspond with Dr. Lingard as Dr. Shepherd's amanuensis, continued on her own account, and from 1840 to 1850, a year before Dr. Lingard's death, the correspondence continued. The letters are delightfully intimate and shed a beautiful light on the character of the great historian. There are over a hundred letters in the series. Miss Joyce was a collector of autographs, and included are several letters of his distinguished correspondents which Dr. Lingard had added to her collection, amongst them being autographs of Prince Barberini, Prince Labanoff, Charles Butler, T.P. Courtenay, Cardinal Wiseman, Dean Kipling, Malte- Brun, William Upcott, Mignet and Father Mathew.

The Lingard letters are continued in Vol. II, which also has letters from Joanna Baillie to Mrs. [probably Miss] Joyce, and letters to Dr. Shepherd from Gilbert Wakefield, when in Dorchester Gaol, Lord Denman, Dr. Lushington, Sydney Smith, Dr. Parr, Thomas Creevey, M.P., Bishop Maltby, Francis Wrangham, Edward Everett, Col. T. Johnes, M.P., Lucy Aikin, Father Mathew, and Macvey Napier. Included also are several slight things evidently belonging to Mrs. Ridyard's collection of autographs, including letters or signatures of Home Tooke, John, Duke of Buckingham, Sir Thomas Clarges, Sir Marc I. Brunel, B.W. Procter, J.G. Lockhart, Harriot Mellon, Thomas Campbell, the poet, and Bishop Edward Stanley.

Of interest to Nonconformists is a certificate, dated 27 June, 1709, of J. Naylor and Charles Owen, examiners, recommending the ordination of Joseph Lawton at Rivington on June 30th. Lawton was minister of Gateacre from about 1708 to his death in 1748.

In Volume III are a number of letters to Mrs. Ridyard mostly acknowledgments from well-known Unitarians of having received copies of "The early letters of Dr. Shepherd," 1855. Following these are letters from Lord Brougham to Shepherd and to Miss Joyce (Mrs. Ridyard), who kept up a friendship with the Brougham family long after Dr. Shepherd's death. In this volume also are the letters from Lady Hester Stanhope and other members of the Stanhope family in which Jeremiah Joyce had been tutor. There are numerous letters to Miss Joyce from Lady Coltman, Anne Blackburne, John Kentish, Sir Richard Griffith, Father Mathew, and a letter from Mungo Park to Jeremiah Joyce.

In Volume IV there are many of Dr. Shepherd's own letters, arranged roughly in chronological order, commencing in 1793. The most interesting of the letters were addressed to Mrs. Shepherd, and a few of them are printed, not verbatim, in "Early Letters." It was Dr. Shepherd's practice to spend his vacations in London, or the country houses of his friends, some- times with, sometimes without, Mrs. Shepherd, and when she was not with him, to write to her somewhat fully. The letters show that in 1793 he visited Scotland; in 1794, London; in 1797, London and Chevening; in 1800, Bristol and Dorchester (visiting Wakefield, then in prison there); in 1803, Hafod, visiting Col. Johnes, translator of Froissart; in 1804, Manchester, London and Hafod; in 1809, London; in 1810, Hafod; in 1812 Hafod; in 1813, London, Hafod and Manchester; in 1814, France; in 1815, Ireland; in 1816, London; in 1818, France, Holkham and London; in 1819, Ireland; and in 1827, France and the Rhine. The foreign letters are specially interesting. In this volume is a letter from Tatlock Mather to his sister, endorsed "my uncle's last letter." There are also several letters from the Rev. Richard Godwin, minister of Gateacre, to Shepherd, while at the Academy, and some letters from Dr. Shepherd to John Wood, M.P.

Volume V contains a fragment of autobiography, begun by Dr. Shepherd in 1833, but unfortunately never finished. It was, in fact, only carried to the date when as a child of three or four he was taken to his uncle's house at Rainford. This fragment is printed in "Early Letters." Other items of interest in the same volume are Dr. Shepherd's recollections of a visit to Brougham Hall in 1835, and his diary of another visit there in 1838, followed by a visit to Bishop Maltby at Auckland. These diaries are full of anecdote relating to Brougham and his circle of lawyer friends and rivals, and show how much interesting matter we have lost by Shepherd's not having completed his autobiography. The persons mentioned in these diaries are indexed on pages 139-159.

In Volume VI commences a chronological arrangement of the papers we removed from earlier volumes. An early item is a letter from the "Commissioners for approbacon of publike preachers," better known as the Tryers, addressed to certain ministers in Lancashire, concerning the approval of "Mr. Robert Yates Minister of the Gospell att Warrington," 4 April, 1655.¹³ Yates was an ancestor of Mrs. Shepherd. Two slightly differing lists of the family of the Rev. Benjamin Mather give some family dates of Dr. Shepherd's maternal ancestry. A letter signed "Bolingbroke," a document signed R. Walpole, and a letter from James Watt are perhaps part of Mrs. Ridyard's collection of autographs. A memorandum from Lord Molyneux's register of life leases gives particulars of land leased by the Rev. Benjamin Mather in 1731, which fell out of lease on the death of the Rev. Tatlock Mather. The property was called Little Dale and Great Dale, but its position is not stated. Two papers belonging to the Rebellion of 1745 were given to Dr. Shepherd by Dr. Taylor. One is a document by which amongst other things, two men, each named Philip Bury, undertake not to "Drink down with the Rump" under penalty. The other is a letter from Samuel Taylor, Manchester, to Robert Taylor, Bolton, relating to the behaviour of the Tory clergy who drank the Pretender's health, and suggesting that Robert should bring them to punishment.

¹³ Printed in the Transactions of the Lancashire and Cheshire Antiquarian Society, xxxii, 206.

The Shepherd interest begins with a letter from Shepherd, when a schoolboy, to a friend, dated 7 Feb., 1782, which is printed in "Early Letters." This is followed by a letter from Jeremiah Joyce to his sister, and by a very interesting letter in which John Ragsdale gives an account of William Collins, the poet. On p. 16 there is the invitation from the "members of the Christian Society assembling at Gateacre" to Mr. William Shepherd, to be their pastor, signed by twenty members, and dated 15 May, 1791, Shepherd's acceptance, dated 31 May, 1791, and his declaration of sentiments made at his ordination, 4 August, 1791, written in shorthand, with a longhand transcript, and what appears to be the order of service at his first administration of the Lord's Supper at Gateacre, 14 August, 1791. These are followed by the certificate of the enrolment of "William Shepherd clerk" as a free burgess of the Borough and Corporation of Liverpool, dated 27 May, 1796. The remainder of the volume is occupied by letters and other papers dated from 1797 to 1816, and mostly bearing on Shepherd's political and other work. Very interesting are the letters to and from Francis Jeffery, who had been asked for information about certain Italian compositions, the absence of which from Shepherd's "Life of Poggio" had been remarked upon by the "Edinburgh Review," of which Jeffery was the editor. Jeffery replied flippantly and laid himself open to very caustic letters from Shepherd. Other letters are from William Warrington, John Greswell, William Parr Greswell, Dr. Currie, Samuel Duckworth, Thomas Creevey, William Roscoe, Jeremiah Joyce, and Col. Thomas Johnes. Here also is another letter from Dr. Kipling to Dr. Lingard.

In Volume VII the Shepherd letters from 1820 to 1839 are included. In 1821 there are several letters relating to the efforts Shepherd was then making to raise a subscription on behalf of William Roscoe, and later there are letters from S. Butler, Thomas Tonelli, the Vicomte de Cussy, Sarah Austin, Francis Wrangham, A. Panizzi, with whom Shepherd had common interests both as an Italian scholar and as a reformer, James Martineau and William Ewart. Several letters from Lord Holland, "nephew of Fox, and friend of Grey," are interesting as showing that he, when Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in the early Reform administrations, consulted Dr. Shepherd as to the characters of candidates for appointment as justices of the peace. About one gentleman Lord Holland writes: "Can you give me in confidence any information concerning him? his age, character, property, profession and politics and can you also mention if there is any one in the same neighbourhood willing to act, not a master manufacturer, of liberal politicks, and possessed of the necessary qualifications in character, and property." Of another suggested candidate Lord Holland writes: "concern in a brewery and deficiency of education are, especially when combined, quite disqualification enough."

In volume VIII the chronology continues from 1840 until after Shepherd's death. Included are "An epitaph on my little dog Crab," by Shepherd, lines on Shepherd by the Rev. Mr. Johns, and a letter from Shepherd to Miss Joyce, endorsed "Feb. 1847, the last letter I ever received from that best Friend. H.R."; a memoir and letters by John Kentish, and letters from Mr. Thomas Ashton, of Ford Bank, relating to Mrs. Ridyard's legacy of the Shepherd papers. In this volume is a curious pack of playing cards, illustrating the Popish Plot of 1678, and probably issued in that year or 1679. Unfortunately the set is not complete, there being only thirty-one cards.

In Volume IX are collected a number of printed papers and pamphlets, mostly written by Shepherd. These include letters on Burke, 1790, signed "Q in the comer"; "Everyman his own parson," 1791, as reprinted many years later; "An epistle to Edward Rushton," 1792, verse by Shepherd; Thomas Walker's "Address to the inhabitants of Manchester," 1792; "An account of Mr. Joyce's arrest for treasonable practices," 1795; and Joyce's sermon "Courage and union in time of national danger," 1803; "The prospects of peace," verse probably by Shepherd; a copy of the bookplate of William Shepherd, "G.C.B. fecit"; reports of speeches of Shepherd in 1808 to 1811; "The 'evidence of facts. '" an ironical epitaph on William Pitt; "The travels of Abdallah" (on the press gang); "Letters to Lt. Col. Earle and Sir Francis Burdett," 1811, on the punishment of a private; "Letter to the Bishop of Chester," signed "A father of a family," 1813 (?); several items relating to Jeremiah Joyce, 1816; "The funeral service for the late Rev. W. Hawkes, and a sermon by the Rev. W. Shepherd," 1820; "The true and wonderful history of Dick Liver," by Timothy Touchstone, 1824 and 1830; Shepherd's speech in honour of the Irish delegates, 1825; "Help! help! the Church in danger!" by Edmund Calamy, Esq. ;and papers and articles relating to the Liverpool Corporation schools and to clerical affairs in Liverpool, by J. Diddler, Crito, John Bunyan, junr., Curioso, Quidnunc, Fidelius and Aruspex - all being pseudonyms of Dr. Shepherd's, and probably at that time very thin disguises.

In Volume X are a number of items too large for the earlier volumes. These include a bond, dated 1784, for portion of the stock of Gateacre chapel, long and interesting letters from T. Fyshe Palmer, when a convict in New South Wales, only one of which appears to be an autograph, letters to Shepherd from John Greswell and from Messrs. Cadell and Davies, the publishers. It also contains two drawings of The Nook, Gateacre, Shepherd's passport to France in 1827, and several papers relating to Dr. Shepherd's Memorial in Gateacre Chapel,

In Volume XI, which, strictly speaking, is a bundle and not a volume, are a copy of Mrs. Ridyard's "Early letters of Dr. Shepherd," some loose proof sheets, and the copy for a new edition of the work. The new edition was never issued, and the MS. does not suggest that, as illustrating Dr. Shepherd's life, it would have been any improvement on the first edition. In this bundle are also some botanical specimens, presumably of Dr. Shepherd's collecting, the commencement of an index to Shepherd's "Life of Poggio," a work which, in both its editions, had no index, an essay (without title), presumably by Shepherd, on the history of the Reform movement in England, and a life of Henry IV of France, apparently by Mrs. Ridyard. Volume XII is a "Harmony of the Evangelists" according to the plan proposed by John Jebb, M.D. It is written in shorthand.

Volumes XIII, XIV, XV and XVI contain poems, mostly by Shepherd. In Volume XVII are some reading notes on Gibbon.

Volume XVIII contains copies of letters from Henry Hulton to Robert Nicholson, of Liverpool, merchant, the father of Mrs. Shepherd. Hulton was a Chester man of Nonconformist family, and a connection of the Nicholsons. The letters cover the period from 1760 to 1776, and record Hulton's experience as a British official in Germany, where he made himself unpopular by his exposure of the frauds of British Army contractors, and later as a British revenue official in the North American colonies. He lived in and about Boston until 1776, right through the American Revolution, and his letters give a vivid picture of the colonial affairs as seen by a British official.

Volume XIX contains some prayers in shorthand, and Mrs. Ridyard's schedules of Dr. Shepherd's property.

Volume XX is a copy of the diary of a journey made from Newcastle-under-Lyme, through Bristol and South Wales to Shrewsbury in 1790. The party included Dr. Crompton and his family, and Miss Nicholson (Mrs. Shepherd). The diary is in the handwriting of Miss Nicholson, but it is apparently not her own diary.

Volume XXI is Dr. Shepherd's journal of a tour in the Lake District in 1800.

Volume XXII is a copy of Simpson's "Gentleman's Almanack" for 1832, containing Dr. Shepherd's memoranda of engagements.

Volume XXIII is the Rev. Tatlock Mather's pocket book. It contains his cash accounts, 1749-1785, and in it are particulars of money paid to his servants, money lent without interest to sundry persons, and a few other memoranda.

"Volume" XXIV is a tin case containing the diploma of LL.D. conferred on William Shepherd by the University of Edinburgh, 10 July, 1834. The diploma is signed by twenty-seven members of the professorial staff, and has the University seal appended.

"Volume" XXV is a small wooden box containing some personal belongings of Dr. Shepherd - a pair of spectacles, a magnifying glass, a medallion of Chantrey's monument to Miss Johnes at Hafod, a broken impression of the episcopal seal of Durham, and the copper-plate of his book-plate.

Volume XXVI contained a "Harmony of the Gospels," by Shepherd, and his own list of sermons, To these we have added the dates when the sermons were preached, two additional lists of sermons, and a list of the contents of each volume of the Shepherd papers, together with an alphabetical index of all the letters and other items contained in the collection.

The sermons listed in Volume XXVI are numbered in two series. The first series includes the sermons numbered by Shepherd, 1 to 408, several of the numbers not being represented by existing sermons. Numbers 409 to 517 are sermons and other small items left unnumbered by Shepherd, and include some funeral sermons on members of the Gateacre congregation, prayers, notes on Greek literature, a commonplace book, a set of eight lectures on poetry, a longer series of lectures on the evidences of Christianity, apparently by Shepherd, a funeral sermon on Miss E. Bent, 1767, perhaps by the Rev. John Seddon of Warrington, a funeral sermon on the Rev. James Hancox, of Dudley, 1769, by the Rev. Samuel Clark, of Birmingham, and some lectures on the Catechism, probably by the Rev. Tatlock Mather. Numbers 498 and 499 are of value as giving the key to the shorthand Shepherd used in writing his sermons and memoranda. Numbers 500 to 517 are printed pamphlets, mostly sermons by Unitarian divines of the first half of the last century.

It should be noted that many of the sermons in the collection are obviously not of Shepherd's composition, as the date when they were first preached was too early, but apparently this did not prevent his using them, as later dates show.

The series of sermons marked G.H. are all presumably by Shepherd. Several of the numbers are missing. The sermon marked G. H. 21 is interesting as having been used as a cricket score book. The players named include a number of boys who were at Dr. Shepherd's school, including Robert Nicholson, father of one of the present writers.

The manuscripts in Hannah Ridyard's hand include copies of poems, riddles, an account of the veterinary treatment of a dog (1864), quotations from Shakespeare, extracts from books (including one from Frances Power Cobbe), notes on the scriptural meaning of future punishment, doctors' notes on the treatment of a patient (1881-4), etc. There is also a scrapbook apparently kept by Hannah Ridyard. MS. Shepherd Adds. 3

A volume kept as a common-place book by William Shepherd's maternal uncle Tatlock Mather, who adopted him after his father's death. The volume is written in from both ends. The 'front' cover is inscribed 'T. Mather's Common Place Book 1737'. This contains recipes and remedies, extracts from books, scientific observations, etc. From the other end (Shepherd's bookplate is inside the cover) are accounts of the executors of Tatlock Mather, which include an 'Account of Goods sold belonging to Late Mr. Shepherd' (presumably William Shepherd's father, William) and 'Cash Paid for Wm Shepherd.' The dates are 1785-1794.

For the reason why this manuscript was not included in the Shepherd index compiled by F. Nicholson and E. Axon see Axon's letter inserted in MS. Shepherd Adds. 4.
